IT'S WORRYING 'EM, COLONEL CHUCKLES

Post-Convention Reflections of Bull Moose Leader, Bound Homeward for Rest.

CROWD BIDS HIM GOOD-BYE

Whirlwind Campaign to Begin in Vermont Before State Election There Next Month.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 8, (On Board the Twentieth Century Limited with Col. Roosevelt.)—"It's been a great week. They never imagined we would have a convention like that, and it's worrying them," declared Col. Roosevelt to-night, referring to the leaders of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

The Colonel departed from Chicago at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Oyster Bay, following a conference with several of his leaders at which he gave final words of advice about mapping out the campaign.

He was going to try to get a week's rest, he said, before starting on his speaking tours. At the La Salle Street station, in Chicago, there was a crowd to see him off, possibly 500 this time. They gave him a rousing cheer as, standing on the observation platform, Col. Roosevelt waved his hat and shouted out good-bye.

At Elkhart, Ind., where the train stopped for about two minutes, another crowd collected about the station. The train was being shifted back and forth to put on a dining car, and, as the crowd surged this way and that, Col. Roosevelt tried to speak. Half a dozen boys climbed upon the observation platform and Col. Roosevelt leaned over to shake their hands.

"Why don't you shake hands with us? We are voters," called a man.

"Little Mooses will grow up to be big Mooses," quickly retorted the Colonel.

Col. Roosevelt was up early this morning, and at 9:30 o'clock received the members of the committee who notified him of his nomination and posed him for a photograph with them. Next he had his picture taken with Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, his running mate on the Progressive ticket, and the scene then and while he was talking with Gov. Johnson and some of the Progressive leaders was caught by a moving picture man. He posed also for a picture with four cowboys, old friends of the Colonel in the cattle country of North Dakota in 1883, who came on as delegates to the convention.

The National Committee of the new party met again at 11 o'clock to-day in Chicago, but after a conference with Senator Dixon, George W. Perkins, Senator Beveridge, and William Allen White, the Colonel decided not to attend, and let the members work out the problems themselves. He let these men know, however, that he favored a "whirlwind campaign" in Vermont before the State election there next month. Col. Roosevelt, Gov. Johnson, Senator Dixon, and other leaders of the new party will go on the stump in Vermont. The Progressives realize that the fight in Vermont will be a hard one.

It developed also this afternoon that Senator Dixon, the Progressive campaign manager, may not put up a fight again for the Senatorship in Montana, but will devote all his time to the furtherance of the National Progressive ticket.

On the subject of Gov. Wilson's speech of acceptance as the nominee of the Democratic Party as President, Col. Roosevelt refrained from any extended comment to-night.

"I don't want to say anything now," he declared. It is probable, however, that he will reply after his return to Oyster Bay.

Col. Roosevelt seemed to get much satisfaction out of the action of the United States Senate in defeating the Burton amendment to the Panama Canal bill.

Col. Roosevelt talked over the deep waterways to-day with a delegation headed by Judge A. T. Norton of the Missouri Court of Appeals, and W. K. Kavanaugh, a Democrat, and President of the Lake to Gulf Deep Waterways Association. The Colonel reiterated his promises in connection with the deepening of the Mississippi River and protection of property from devastation by flood. He will speak in St. Louis on Sept. 4.

Col. Roosevelt will remain in Oyster Bay until Aug. 15, when he will leave for Providence, R. I., to make the first speech of his preliminary campaign.

MRS. TAFT DELAYED COLONEL.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 8.—The Lake Shore train for New York with Col. Theodore Roosevelt aboard, bound for Oyster Bay, was held here eleven minutes to-night, awaiting the arrival of Mrs. William H. Taft from Cincinnati, where she had attended the funeral of her father, Judge Herron.

Mrs. Taft, her sister, Mrs. Laughlin of Pittsburgh, and young Charlie Taft boarded the train by which Col. Roosevelt was traveling, and proceeded on their way to the President's Summer home at Beverly, Mass.

PERKINS IS TO BE THE GUIDE.

Banker Named as Chairman of Roosevelt Executive Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 8.—Before leaving Chicago to-day Col. Roosevelt had the satisfaction of seeing the machinery of his new National Progressive Party geared up for the campaign. The National Committee of the organization was in session for several hours discussing plans for the campaign, and before adjourning elected Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana, who has been the Colonel's National campaign manager, Chairman. Oscar King Davis was elected Secretary.

The big figure in the management of the Colonel's campaign will be George W. Perkins. He was elected Chairman of the Executive Committee. Mr. Perkins has not yet resigned as a member of the Executive Board of the Steel Trust or of the Harvester Trust, but it was said today that in all probability he would relinquish his financial responsibilities before long in order to devote himself more closely to the Colonel's campaign.

Oscar S. Straus in all probability will be selected as Treasurer of the National Progressive Committee.

Women are going to play as big a part in the Colonel's campaign as they did in the convention that nominated him. So far four women have been made members at large of his National Committee. They are Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago; Miss Frances Kellar of New York; Mrs. Charles Blaney of San Fran-

'UNCLE JOE' HIGHEST KICKER.

Ex-Speaker a Star Performer at Dog Days Club's Olympics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Kicking 4 feet and 4 inches, "Uncle Joe" Cannon handily won the feature event of the Congressional Olympics at a quiet session of the Dog Days Club last night on the outskirts of the capital. It was said there were other high jinks and that among the best was "Uncle Joe" playing "Old Black Joe" on an imaginary violin without the E and G strings.

The remarkable performances of the ex-Speaker formed only part of a programme provided by Representative Henry de Forest of Schenectady for thirty-five Republicans and Democrats, who gathered to commiserate on the long session of Congress and the troubled political times.

"Although you would not suspect it," said Mr. de Forest, "there sits concealed behind a bush the greatest warbler and whistler of this or any other age, and he will now oblige. Professor, something new."

And from the care-free face of James R. Mann, minority leader, there came through an iron-gray beard "Everybody's Doin' It."

"Early in life," said Representative Edward Taylor of Columbus, Ohio, when dragged into the arena, "there was some question whether I should become a statesman or an opera singer. Modesty forbids that I dwell on what I have done in Congress, but here goes for some opera."

Whereupon selections from "Il Trovatore," "Cavalleria Rusticana," and other operas followed, until silenced by a unanimous vote.

Representative Michael Conry of New York contributed "Peggy Carey" and "Kathleen Mavourneen."

Representative E. W. Townsend was hushed in the midst of his effort and commanded instead to write another "Chimmie Fadden."

The meeting place was in dry territory in Maryland. The dinner was over when ex-Speaker Cannon's proposal that Jefferson Levy of New York take the entire membership of Congress to Monticello a week from Sunday was carried with a roar.

PLACER MINING FOR JEWELS.

$25,000 Worth Washed Out of Debris of Burned Dunes Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 8.—Placer mining methods used in the ruins of the Dunes Hotel at Lock Arbour, which was destroyed by fire last month, are responsible for the recovery of 90 per cent. of the jewelry lost by guests. New York jewelers have appraised the property recovered at $25,000.

Guests who suffered in the fire retained Edward F. Smith, a New York mining engineer, to search among the ruins, after having first bargained with Robert S. Schultz, the proprietor of the house and owner of the grounds, for $1 for permission to seek their valuables in the débris.

A sluiceway was rigged up, and Franklyn Hardcastle, Edward C. Miller, and John Carroll, sons of guests who were losers in the fire, were posted as watchers. Miss Schultz, a daughter of the proprietor, also volunteered as a watcher. The ruins were washed through three screenings. Several silver meshbags were recovered in which there was money, damaged but redeemable. To-day a lavalliere valued at $1,400 and claimed by Mrs. Clause Bohing of New York was recovered. Three days ago a diamond cuff pin was found, and yesterday its mate was washed out.

Most of the ground has now been worked over, but there is still one corner to be searched. The workmen are expected to finish their task by Saturday night, and watchers are confident that when the job is completed fully 95 per cent. of the lost jewelry will have been recovered.

POPE WRITING HIS MEMOIRS.

Not to be Published Till After His Death—He Lets No One See Them.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 9.—A Rome dispatch says that the Pope is busily engaged in writing his memoirs, which will not be published until after his death.

Every evening before he goes to bed his Holiness writes for two or three hours. He has already covered several hundred pages. The memoirs begin with his early life, when Venetia was an Austrian province, and lead up through the struggle for a united Italy. They deal very largely with the development of civilization in the last half of the nineteenth century.

The Pope is very jealous that nobody shall peep at his memoirs before they are finished. He keeps the papers locked up in a leather case, of which the key is always on his person.

POPE'S TEMPERANCE ORDER.

Directs Catholic Union Not to Affiliate with Prohibition Party.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 8.—A sensation was caused to-day at the convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union, now in progress at Notre Dame, Ind., when the President of the Union, the Rev. Peter O'Callaghan of Chicago, announced that he had received a communication from the Pope commanding that the members of the Union have no connection with the Prohibition Party.

It is understood to be the desire of the Pope that the Catholic Total Abstinence Union abstain from entering into political affiliations of any kind. It is the Pontiff's order that the members of the organization be left free to work in any party they may desire.

This sentiment seemed to meet with the approval of practically all the ecclesiastics in attendance at the convention, among whom are Archbishop Ireland, the Most Rev. James Keene, the Right Rev. James McGoldrick, Bishop of Duluth, and the Right Rev. Peter Hurth of East Bengal, India.

APPLES ARE A BEAUTIFIER.

Trade Would Be Better if Women Knew It, Shipper Says.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—"If women knew that eating apples will do more to make their complexions beautiful than all the face remedies in the world they would eat them morning, noon, and night," said U. Grant Border of Baltimore, Md., today, in addressing the International Shippers' Association.

"Five years from now when the countless apple orchards that have come into existence in the last few years begin to bear full crops the annual apple production of this country will exceed 100,000 barrels," said Mr. Border.

FREE CANAL TOLLS FOR ALL OUR SHIPS

Senate Extends Coastwise Trade Exemption to Our Ocean-going Vessels.

TO AID MERCHANT MARINE

Registry Law Amended to Include Foreign-Built Craft Owned Here —Bitter Protests in London.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Important amendments of a sweeping nature were added to the Panama bill in the Senate to-day. The free passage provision for American coastwise ships granted yesterday was extended this morning to apply to our foreign trade as well, provided that the owners of the ships in foreign service would sign an agreement that in case of war or other public emergency their ships could be taken over by the Government. In addition a change in the navigation laws of this country, for which the Democrats have been fighting for many years, was partially adopted on the motion of Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi.

This amendment admits to American registry foreign-built ships exclusively owned by Americans. The limitations imposed on this amendment is that these foreign-built ships, when registered as American, shall ply only in the foreign trade. Earlier in the day Mr. Williams had tried to give American registry to foreign-built ships even in the coastwise trade, but with a split Democratic Party and the Republicans practically solid against him his amendment in that form was easily defeated.

Mr. Williams's more sweeping provision, which was defeated, according to charges from the New England Senators, would close up every shipyard in the United States. Senator Root declared it would leave us unable to launch a single ship and would cripple us before the world. As passed, however, the amendment only applies to the foreign trade to which American yards now supply practically no ships. It will therefore not take from American yards any shipbuilding business they now have. But it is believed that the provision will enable this country to build up a merchant marine by taking over bodily ships cheaply built at foreign yards. As these ships will be allowed free transit through the canal, it is expected that there will be a tremendous inducement for them to be transferred to American registry. So convinced was Senator Hoke Smith of the effectiveness of this inducement that he predicted on the floor to-day that every ship sent thorugh the canal would fly the American flag and go through free.

The votes to-day to a great measure ignored party lines. The proposal for free passage for ships in the foreign trade, subject to appropriation by the Government in time of war, had against it ten Republican votes and twelve Democratic.

In general, the Republicans of New England voted for American favors. That was in large measure the line-up last night, when coastwise favors were at stake. To-day, when the question of the ocean trade came up, the Republicans who voted against the measure were Senators Burton of Ohio, Catron of New Mexico, Dillingham of Vermont, du Pont of Delaware, Fall of New Mexico, Gronna of North Dakota, McCumber of North Dakota, McLean of Connecticut, Page of Vermont, and Root of New York. The split in the New England vote has been generally attributed to the conflicting interests of the ship owners and the railroads.

The Williams amendment granting American registry to foreign ships received the support of thirteen Republicans. They were in two groups—first, the tariff reformers, who have always supported some such measure, and, secondly, a few scattered Senators from the interior who are interested in anything that will tend to cut down the transcontinental railroad rates. To these must be added Senator Root, who has opposed all favors to American shipping and who bitterly denounced the first form of the Williams amendment.

An agreement was reached by the Senate late to-night to have a final vote on the Panama Canal Administration bill and all amendments to it not later than 5 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

It is expected that Great Britain will take notice of the proceedings in Congress on the matter of tolls, and that it will not be necessary for Secretary Knox to send advices.

It is believed that President Taft and Secretary Stimson have not changed their opinions as expressed in speeches that the United States has the right to remit the tolls or grant rebates to American ships.

Students of the situation point out that Great Britain could reduce the tolls of the Suez Canal to a point that would divert to the Suez a great share of the prospective business of the Panama Canal and cause considerable financial loss to the Panama Canal.

CHARGES BREACH OF FAITH.

Senate's Action May Have Serious Consequences, Says London Mail.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 9.—The Daily Mail has an editorial article to-day on the Senate's vote on the Panama Canal bill, under the caption, "Breach of Faith." Referring to Senator Cummins's speech, it says:

"He demands in fact that the United States shall be free to repudiate any treaty which does not suit her. That is an idea which would put back the whole world by a century and might have far-reaching consequences. Other Powers might repudiate treaties which were regarded as favoring the United States and inuring themselves.

"Beyond question, the exemptions proposed are forbidden by the treaty. If there is any real doubt as to the interpretation of the document, we are willing to refer the issue to The Hague tribunal. A Power which in such circumstances should refuse such an arbitrament thereby declares itself in the wrong."

The Morning Post regrets the Senate's decision, "for nothing can be plainer than that discrimination in favor of American vessels using the Panama Canal is a violation not only of the strict letter of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which requires that the canal shall be open to vessels of all nations on terms of entire equality, but a repudiation of the pledges made by the United States to the British Government at the time the treaty was negotiated."

The Morning Post proceeds to point out that when the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was being negotiated, Mr. Hay wrote that other nations must "rely on the good faith of the United States in its declaration to Great Britain in this treaty."

Great Britain could not be discriminated against, it contends, because the right to use the canal on terms of entire equality with the United States was acquired, in the words of Mr. Hay, "as the consideration for getting rid of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty."

The article concludes: "Certainly neither legally nor morally can discrimination be exercised against shipping under the British flag unless the United States violates the good faith that it pledged itself to observe under the terms of the treaty."

PHONOGRAPH TO GIVE WILSON TO ALL OF US

Planned to Let Nation Hear Him as the Moving Pictures Show Him in Action.

SITS FOR PORTRAIT HERE

Goes to the Theatre in the Evening with His Brother and, as Usual, Avoids Public's Gaze.

The speech that Gov. Woodrow Wilson delivered to 6,000 assembled Democrats on the lawn at Sea Girt on Wednesday he will probably deliver beginning next week, through phonographic records to as many millions of people as there were thousands to hear it upon the occasion of its first delivery.

The "canned" version of the speech will of course be abridged and new matter will be added to give it inclusiveness as to issues in the campaign which Gov. Wilson did not feel worked in well with the theme of the original.

It is planned to send the phonographic records out with the moving pictures so that patrons of the moving picture theatres can see how the Democratic candidate looks at home and also can hear what he has to say about the vital issues.

Hal Reed, a moving picture man, who took "800 feet of Gov. Wilson," as he expressed it, declared that the moving picture concerns have invested upward of $20,000 in films of Gov. Wilson, and that everywhere they have been shown the pictures have brought hearty applause from the audience.

In another way Gov. Wilson consented to help along his campaign committee yesterday. There was no portrait of Gov. Wilson available for campaign uses that was considered entirely satisfactory. Seymour Thomas, the artist, had offered as his campaign contribution to make a portrait of the candidate. Early yesterday morning Gov. Wilson came to New York, went at once to the studio of Mr. Thomas, and arranged for a series of sittings. The first sitting occupied all of yesterday afternoon, and two more have been scheduled for to-day, with a luncheon between them, at which the artist will be the host of his subject.

The outlines of the portrait were sketched yesterday afternoon, Mr. Thomas working in oils. As the Campaign Committee expects to have some difficulty in reproducing an oil portrait, Mr. Thomas has agreed to complete first the oil portrait and then make a drawing from it in black and white. The portrait will probably be far enough along toward completion to-morrow night to allow Gov. Wilson to return to Sea Girt.

Besides his visit to the studio of Mr. Thomas, Gov. Wilson took a street car ride through Sixth Avenue, had luncheon with his brother, Joseph R. Wilson, city editor of The Nashville Banner, published at Nashville, Tenn., went to the Comedy Theatre in the evening to see "Bunty Pulls the Strings" and held a conference with Josephus Daniels, head of the Publicity Committee of his Campaign Committee at the Hotel Martinque. He submitted to a few questions in the evening.

"Some curiosity has been expressed," began a questioner, "to know how you feel on the subject of battleships. The platform called for an adequate navy. The Democrats in Congress have shown a disposition to block a naval plan calling for two battleships a year. You did not bring up this matter in your speech accepting the nomination, and is it to be inferred from that that you do not favor a two-battleship plan?"

"Such an inference," said Gov. Wilson, "would be entirely wrong. You are not to infer anything from what was left out of my speech of acceptance except that I was saving some ammunition for other speeches, and that there were some subjects that did not happen to fit into the theme I was attempting to develop."

"Then when may you be expected to take the naval matter up?"

"Now, it is well understood," said Gov. Wilson, in a manner to indicate that he considered the question superfluous, "that I do not consider it proper to intervene in matters Congress is handling in its own way. In my speech of acceptance I was limited by my desire to take the heart of the platform and the heart of the situation through the country and develop them. I shall discuss later individual topics in particular localities where they are most interesting to the people."

One plank in the platform Gov. Wilson's friends do not expect him to mention in the course of his campaign. This is the plank calling for single Presidential terms, and the reason Gov. Wilson will probably ignore it is said by his friends to be that he desires to avoid any possible personal application of its meaning.

Gov. Wilson came to New York with his brother from Sea Girt in a day coach as far as Atlantic Highlands and thence by the Jersey Central steamer Monmouth to the foot of West Forty-second Street.

Gov. Wilson wished to take his brother out to see the sights on a Fifth Avenue 'bus. But he decided that the 'buses were too crowded. So he took him for a trolley ride up Sixth Avenue instead. The brothers were together at dinner at the University Club, and Joseph Wilson brought with him two theatre tickets.

Gov. Wilson and his brother had seats in the third row of the orchestra. They came to the theatre on foot, and the Governor was not even recognized by the attachés of the house when he entered.

William A. Brady, the manager, gave orders that nothing should be done or said on the stage to attract attention to the Governor until the end of the play. The moment the final curtain fell, however, Miss Molly McIntyre, who plays the title rôle in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," stepped forward as the curtain rose for a second time and threw a bunch of roses to the Governor with well-directed aim, exclaiming as she did so:

"To Gov. Woodrow Wilson, the wee bonnie laddie who will be the next President of the United States."

There was great applause and the crowd refused to leave the theatre. Several persons made repeated demands for a speech. Finally Mr. Brady went down a side aisle and beckoned Gov. Wilson to come out that way. After a moment of conversation Mr. Brady took the Governor back to the stage and introduced him to Miss McIntyre and several of the other leading players.

Gov. Wilson expressed himself as delighted with the play and added: [illegible]

EXPLOSION KILLS HAITIAN PRESIDENT

Leconte Perishes in Destruction of His Palace—400 Others Killed or Injured.

THE DISASTER A MYSTERY

First Explosion Followed by Others, Due to Great Quantity of Ammunition Stored in the Palace.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Aug. 8.—The National Palace was blown up by a powder explosion and burned to the ground today, and the President of the republic, Gen. Cincinnatus Leconte, perished.

The members of his family, who were awakened by the terrific shock, found themselves almost surrounded by flames, but managed to make their way to safety.

The first explosion was followed by others when the fire reached the cellars of the palace, where a great quantity of ammunition was stored. So great was the force of the explosions that a number of small cannon, fragments of iron, and shells were thrown for great distances in all directions.

Many of the palace attendants were killed, and it is estimated that the casualty list will reach 400 persons killed or injured.

For a time a great panic prevailed, and the military authorities immediately took charge of the situation.

The explosions occurred shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning, and within an hour, when the fire, which was confined to the palace, was extinguished, the structure was a mass of ruins, from which it will be impossible to recover the body of the President.

At a joint meeting of the Chamber and Senate this afternoon Gen. Tancrede Auguste, Senator and ex-Minister of Public Works, was named as President.

Consternation reigns among the population, but no disorders have occurred.

The cause of the explosion of the powder magazine has not been ascertained. The cause of the great number of explosions which succeeded the first was the enormous quantity of munitions of war which had been stored in the cellars below the palace. These prevented the large force of firemen, who had been quickly called, and the population, which was endeavoring to help, from fighting the flames.

All the houses around the palace were greatly damaged by the explosions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The news of the death of President Leconte was conveyed in a brief dispatch to the State Department this afternoon from Mr. Furniss, the American Minister at Port-au-Prince. Leconte has not been in power a year, having succeeded to the control of the Black Republic last Aug. 29, after a brief and successful revolution.

In the course of Secretary Knox's recent tour of the Latin-American republics, Leconte entertained him and his party at his palace, giving a banquet in his honor that was a pleasant success. Leconte is described by some of the Knox party who were guests of the Haitian President as a dark negro, rather taciturn and saturnine, but giving evidence of education and maintaining a dignity comporting with his station and responsibilities.

The death of President Leconte came just as the relations between Santo Domingo and Haiti were strained almost to the breaking point. The Dominicans regarded him as the moving spirit in the revolutionary movement now in progress in their own country, and the prospective leader of an invading Haitian army now assembling on the border. Whether there was a plot against Leconte's life or whether he was a victim of the extraordinary precautions he had adopted for his own protection has not been learned. He kept large stores of arms and ammunition in and near his palace, where they could be immediately available for his own use in case of an uprising.

Haitian Minister Menos scouts the idea that the explosion was the work of persons with malicious intent, and says he believes it was purely accidental.

At the instance of the State Department, as soon as the news was received, the gunboat Nashville was ordered from Guantanamo to Port au Prince, a day's run, to look after foreign interests in case disturbances should follow.

It is reported in official advices that the Santo Domingan revolutionists are receiving aid from the Haitian side of the boundary. The situation is assuming a critical phase, inasmuch as the defense of Dajabon may make it necessary for the Santo Domingan forces to cross the international boundary, which might lead to serious consequences.

There is a United States Collector of Customs at Dajabon who may at any time be in great peril.

President Leconte was a mulatto between 45 and 50 years of age, and previous to entering Haitian politics he practiced law. In 1908, when he became prominent in Haitian affairs, he was Minister of the Interior in the Cabinet of President Nord Alexis and leader of the Government forces in defending the President against the rebels. On Nov. 25 he was reported to have been killed and his command routed, but Leconte managed to save his life by escaping in a rowboat, accompanied by several officers of his command, landing at Petit Goave. At the time there was a reign of terror among the foreign residents in Haiti because of reports of unwarranted executions of persons supposed to be in sympathy with the insurgents.

Leconte was credited with ordering the summary shooting of ten prominent revolutionists at Port Au Prince in 1908. He later denied the charge, but there was no doubt that, both as Minister of the Interior and commander of the Government troops, he treated with great harshness any one who stood in his way.

When the régime of Nord Alexis was brought to a close shortly afterward, Gen. Leconte fled to exile in Jamaica. While there he intrigued against the new Executive, President Simon, and in January, 1911, started a revolution against him, which was short lived. He succeeded in overthrowing President Simon in May last year.

President Leconte was credited by some of those familiar with Haitian affairs with being the best-educated man in Haiti, broad-minded, liberal in his views, and desirous of developing the resources of the country and bringing greater prosperity to its people. It was principally through his efforts that the railway was constructed from Port au Prince to Cape Haitien. He organized the Lycée Petion, a school that was expected to have great influence on education, and, while Minister of Public Works ten years ago, built the Palace of Justice and was instrumental in improving and developing many public works.

GEMS STOLEN AT BAR HARBOR

Thieves Rob Edgar Scott's Home of Several Thousand Dollars.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 8.—Several attempts at burglary at cottages this week have alarmed the colonists. On Sunday the house of Edgar Scott was entered, and jewelry worth several thousand dollars was taken, but the loss was made public only to-day.

An attempt was also made to enter the cottage of Mrs. John S. Kennedy.

BIG WHALES OFF ROCKAWAY.

Captain of Incoming Liner Sights a School of Fifteen.

Capt. Collins of the Wilson liner Galilee, which arrived at Quarantine late last night from Boston, reported having passed through a school of fifteen big whales ten miles east of the Ambrose Channel Lightship, which is about off Rockaway.

He said that they were so big and so near to the ship that the donkeyman and the ship's cook had to scare them away from the propeller by throwing coal at them.

ANTI-MOSQUITO PLANT.

A Sprig of Ocimum Viride, It Is Said, Will Keep Insects Out of a Room.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 8.—The Essex County Mosquito Extermination Commission has obtained some of the seed of the plant called ocimum viride, and after it has made some experiments in growing it, seed will be distributed over the county by the inspectors. The plant is reported to be abhorent to mosquitos.

It is said that if the merest sprig of the plant be nurtured in a room no mosquito will attempt to enter it, and one strong stalk on a porch will keep it clear of the pests.

The new plant is believed not to be harmful to human beings, although scientists have not yet fully studied its qualities.

ATE ROCKEFELLER CABBAGES

Ice Man's Horse Consumed the Crop and a Fight Followed.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—John D. Rockefeller will have to forego his cabbages this Winter. Mr. Rockefeller had a fine lot of nice green cabbages sprouting in his garden at Pocantico Hills. A horse owned by George Ferguson, Rockefeller's ice man, after doing a hard day's work, walked over into the garden, which was under the care of Michael Moussa, and before it was discovered it ate or destroyed every cabbage in the bed.

Ferguson went to get this horse and Moussa was so angry that he assaulted the ice man and refused to give back the horse, saying it had done $200 damage. Ferguson had Moussa arrested to-day for assault and Justice Foley fined him $10.

PISTOLS IN GIRLS' BELTS.

Pennsylvania Women Take Fright After Miss Funka's Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Aug. 8.—Since the murder of Miss Celia Funka Saturday and the failure to arrest her assailant, women and girls in the country districts have armed themselves and go about their household work carrying revolvers.

To-day in the main street of this town several young women from the rural sections who had driven in to sell produce openly carried revolvers fastened to their belts and said they intended to shoot down any suspicious person who came near them.

What is thought the most important arrest since the murder came to-day, when George Greene was arrested. Greene's home is not far from the scene of the crime, and he has seemed very anxious to give information in regard to the case. His varying stories led to a decision to take him into custody.

STUBBS WINS IN KANSAS.

Carries 90 Districts Out of 165, Though Curtis Has Most Votes.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 8.—Although United States Senator Charles Curtis has upon the face of returns up to late tonight a popular majority of between 4,000 and 5,000 votes, he has probably lost his fight for renomination for his seat in the Senate.

Gov. W. R. Stubbs, his opponent, according to to-night's returns, has ninety Legislative districts out of 165 in the State, and as Senators are nominated under the Kansas law by a plurality of legislative districts, Gov. Stubbs seems to have won.

The Curtis forces do not concede defeat, but have issued a statement warning workers over the State to watch the official count closely.

The Democratic Gubernatorial nomination was still in doubt to-night, both J. B. Billard and George H. Hedges, the leading candidates, claiming it.

NAME 'ROCKEFELLER' STANDS

He Changes His Mind and Will Allow Use on New Bridge.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—William Rockefeller has changed his mind, and will allow his name to remain on the tablet which is to be placed on the Irving Memorial Bridge. He telephoned to the engineer this morning that he had read over the inscription and decided to allow his name to be used. Mr. Rockefeller last Spring gave $15,000 for the new Headless Horseman Bridge to be erected over the Pocantico stream as a memorial of Irving.

The bridge is rapidly nearing completion, and the authorities had a tablet prepared with Mr. Rockefeller's name on it as donor. When he heard about the inscription yesterday he ordered it taken off, but gave no reason. There was much surprise at his action, and there was equal surprise to-day when he decided to accept the honor.

BECKER EXPECTED TO CONFESS ALL

His Chief Counsel, McIntyre, Has a Long Conference with District Attorney Whitman.

ONLY WAY TO ESCAPE CHAIR

Grand Jury Gets Much New Evidence Corroborative of Informers' Confessions.

ROSE SERVANTS TESTIFY

Jack Sullivan Moved from the Tombs to the West Side Prison to Get Him Away from Becker.

Is Police Lieut. Charles Becker, now in the Tombs awaiting trial for murder in the first degree, ready to turn State's evidence in order to save his life?

This question was asked any number of times yesterday by persons more or less familiar with the facts in the Rosenthal murder case when it became known that John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for Becker, had held a long conference with District Attorney Whitman. When Mr. McIntyre was seen leaving Mr. Whitman's office, the impression became stronger that the subject of his talk with the District Attorney had to do with the serious situation that confronts his client.

The mass of evidence against Becker is most convincing, and a friend of Mr. McIntyre's said on the subject of his visit to Mr. Whitman that naturally he was anxious to do the best he could by and for Becker.

Neither Mr. Whitman nor Mr. McIntyre would say one word as to what passed between them. Mr. Whitman when questioned said that Mr. McIntyre was a fine man and a good lawyer, and all that, but when asked directly as to the subject of their conference he pointed out that the conference was a private one, and that to divulge what was discussed would be a violation of Mr. McIntyre's confidence. Nothing that Mr. Whitman said could be taken as a verification that Becker was "breaking," as some of the Tombs jailers put it.

If Becker is on the verge of a breakdown his appearance, manner, and talk do not in any way indicate it. A TIMES reporter who talked with him found him apparently confident that when he faced a jury for his life he would be acquitted. Becker seemed to take his situation philosophically, and the last thing any one talking with him would think would be that he had an idea of confessing that he knew anything about the conspiracy that had for its object the murder of Rosenthal.

Whitman Might Accept It.

Suppose Becker could be brought to realize that his only chance of escaping the electric chair or a life sentence lay in making a clean breast of all that he knows about the murder and about police conditions, would Mr. Whitman in that event be willing to talk terms with Mr. McIntyre and agree to a prison sentence of less than a lifetime?

On this point Mr. Whitman would not make any statement. As a matter of fact, so far as Mr. Whitman is concerned, it would seem that under no circumstances would he compromise with Becker in this case. A friend of the District Attorney said yesterday, however, that if Becker would make a complete and full confession—a confession that would provide the means for ridding the Police Department of every grafter and wrongdoer—there was little reason to doubt that Mr. Whitman would be merciful in return for so valuable a service to the people of New York.

Meantime Mr. Whitman is going ahead gathering evidence that corroborates the confessions of Jack Rose, "Bridgey" Webber, and Harry Vallon. Yesterday the Grand Jury was in session all day long, and when it finally adjourned until next Tuesday the Grand Jurors had listened to the testimony of sixteen important witnesses, some of them testifying as to facts connected with the murder itself, and others about the graft and gambling conditions which caused the death of Rosenthal.

Rose Servants Before Grand Jury.

These sixteen witnesses were Mrs. Herman Rosenthal, widow of the gambler; Miss Anna Glattner, a sister of Mrs. Jack Rose; Lieut. Dominick Reilly of the Headquarters Squad, one of the three Lieutenants of police who had to do with the enforcement of the gambling laws; Harry Pollok, in whose home Jack Rose sought refuge after the murder; Mrs. Carrie Pollok, wife of Harry Pollok; Second Deputy Police Commissioner George S. Dougherty; Miss Margaret Rose, a trained nurse; Giovanni Stanish, who was an eyewitness of the murder and whose testimony is said to be perhaps the most important in the possession of the State; Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss; Mary Storr, a servant in the home of Jack Rose; Max Margolies, a former friend of Becker's; Thomas Smith, a waiter in the Hotel Metropole, who served Rosenthal his last meal; Joseph Clavin, the Metropole bellboy, who was used by Vallon just before the murder; Policeman John J. Brady, Dr. Otto H. Schultze, and Louis Krese, the Hungarian waiter, who identified "Bridgey" Webber and Jacob A. Reich (Jack Sullivan) as two of the men he saw running away after the murder was committed.

Miss Rose, who is a graduate nurse of the German Hospital and in no way related to Jack Rose, attended Mrs. Rose in a recent illness. While in the Rose home she is said to have observed Lieut. Becker and to have overheard remarks made by him when he called there for the purpose of conferring with Jack Rose on the subject of collecting graft. Mary Storr's testimony was along the same line. It is understood that both of these witnesses testified that Becker was a daily visitor to the Rose apartment. Mr. Whitman refused to tell the nature of their testimony, but he would not deny that it was along the lines here indicated.

Miss Blattner also told of Becker's daily visit to the Rose apartment in 110th Street, and it was ascertained from a source outside of the District Attorney's office that these three women testified that Becker called at Rose's home on the average of once a day for months prior to the murder. Sometimes the police officer called twice, and on one or two occasions even more than that.

This Witness Saw the Murder.

The purpose of this testimony was to prove that the relations that existed between Becker and Rose were intimate and that never a day passed that they did not meet, and generally at Rose's home. None of these witnesses, so far as is known, testified that they had witnessed the transferring of any money from Rose to Becker.

Giovanni Stanish was the most important witness who testified before the Grand Jury yesterday. Stanish, who has never been questioned by the police, was present when the crime was committed. He witnessed the actual killing of Rosenthal. He saw the men who did the killing. And he watched the flight of the assassins. Stanish was carefully guarded while in the District Attorney's office, and no one was permitted to question him. Not a word of his testimony before the Grand Jury was obtainable.

Joseph Plavin, the Metropole bellboy, is the one Vallon called out into the hotel corridor while the murder party was assembling, and while Rosenthal was seated at a table in the restaurant with "Boob" Walker. Vallon told Plavin to tell Walker some one wanted to see him in the corridor. The witness verified that part of the story of the murder.

Smith, the waiter who served Rosenthal, was near the table when the bellboy entered the restaurant, and overheard him tell Walker that Vallon was outside and wanted to see him.

The Polloks were called upon to explain why they had permitted Rose to hide in their home when they had reason to believe that the police were looking for him. It is understood that both testified that they did not know Rose was wanted by the police, although Mrs. Pollok is known to have admitted that a system of signals had been arranged by Rose with some outsider, supposedly Becker, by which Rose could be communicated with in person while he was hiding in the Pollok apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Pollok were before the Grand Jury only a few minutes.

Margolies Tells of Rosenthal Raid.

Lieut. Dominick Reilly's testimony is said to have been practically a corroboration of the testimony given last week by Lieut. Daniel Costigan, another commander of a squad assigned to enforce the laws against gambling. Costigan is said to have testified that the gambling situation prior to the murder was quite bad. After the police officer left the Grand Jury room a friend of Reilly's said that officer had told the Grand Jurors that all the gambling houses in New York had been closed since Rosenthal was murdered. It was also reported that Reilly had testified that when gambling cases were properly presented to the courts the prisoners were held.

Max Margolies is the man who recently made an affidavit in which he told his version of the way Becker used to make his raids. He is said to have corroborated the testimony of Mrs. Rosenthal with reference to Becker's raid on Rosenthal's place, which raid, according to the confession of Jack Rose, was a "fake" one made on warrants that were obtained on evidence given personally by Becker to some of his subordinates.

Mrs. Rosenthal previously had told her story to the Grand Jury. She was recalled yesterday to amplify some of the statements made at her first examination.

The evidence given by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, Dr. Schultze, Mr. Moss, and Policeman Brady was not important. They were called to establish certain facts, such as the death of Rosenthal, the identification of the body after the murder, and the cause of death.

Sullivan Placed Near Rose.

A prison van drove up to the Tombs yesterday afternoon and a few minutes later Jacob A. Reich, or Jack Sullivan, as he calls himself, was brought out of the prison and placed in the van. It was then announced that the prisoner was being transferred to the West Side prison, where Rose, Webber, and Vallon have been locked up since they made their confessions. The transfer was a complete surprise to Sullivan, and he did not know what to make of it.

The reason for his removal was a desire on the part of Mr. Whitman to get him away from the influences of Becker and to make it impossible for them to communicate with each other. Sullivan so far has refused to say one word that could be taken as an admission that he had any guilty knowledge of the Rosenthal murder plot or that he had any part whatever in the carrying out of the death sentence.

Jack Rose made the remark recently that he believed he could persuade Sullivan to tell all that he knows if he had a chance to talk with him. Rose is said to have placed the time necessary, in his opinion, to make Sullivan confess at five minutes.

On his arrival at the West Side prison yesterday afternoon Sullivan was placed in a cell on the same tier and near to those occupied by Webber, Vallon, and Rose. Soon after he was transferred H. T. Marshall, his lawyer, called at the prison and had a conference with him. When Mr. Marshall came out of the prison he was asked if his client was ready to confess what he is supposed to know about the murder.

"He has not," Mr. Marshall replied, "for he has nothing to confess. He could not confess to something he had no part in. My client is not going to make up any statement to protect himself in any way."

"Do you think your client was brought to this prison so as to place him near those who have confessed?" Mr. Marshall was asked.

"You can draw your own conclusion as to that," Mr. Marshall answered.

Whitman Hunts Slayers.

It was said yesterday that Detectives Edward Leigh and Al Thomas, attached to the District Attorney's office, had been sent during the morning to the northern part of the State, near where "Whitey" Lewis was arrested, to see if they could pick up the trail of "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood." Mr. Whitman made a sharp statement arraigning the police for their failure to catch all the murderers.

"The principal thing," he said, "in this office at the present time is to find out the murderers of Herman Rosenthal. It was the most dastardly crime that New York has witnessed for many years. Two of the actual murderers, 'Gyp the Blood' and 'Lefty Louie' are still at large. It is understood in our office that 'Lefty Louie' fired the two shots which lodged in Rosenthal's head. Sam Schepps, we also understand, has very valuable information.

"We have been led to believe that all the men in the car that swept off with the murderers carried guns. We have reports from New Orleans, Norfolk, Chicago, and several places in New York State, and even in New York City, that the men wanted for the murder are in each one of these places."

Mr. Whitman learned yesterday the name of the notary who accompanied John W. Hart, Becker's lawyer, to the home of Harry Pollok on the night after the murder. Mr. Hart called to see Rose to get an affidavit that Rosenthal's statement that Becker was his gambling partner was false, and that Becker had never loaned Rosenthal $1,500, as Rosenthal claimed he did.

The name of the notary is Burghardt, and it is said he lives on Amsterdam Avenue, near 145th Street. He could not be found last night.

MISSING SLAYERS STILL FREE.

May Not Be in the Catskills, Though Hunt Is Kept Up.

Special to The New York Times.

TANNERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The search for "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood" is being continued here and at Hunter, but without success. Detectives are still scattered through the Catskills, and they declare themselves certain that neither of the men they are seeking can have got out of the mountains. There is an inclination now, though, to admit that perhaps neither of the men has been in here at all.

The detectives seem to be without direct clues, and are contenting themselves with keeping a careful watch.

BURNS AND JOHN D. JR. MAKE QUICK DENIAL

Not Operating Fake Disorderly Resort or Gambling Houses to Trap the Police.

WHITMAN SAYS THE SAME

But Burns Is Conducting an Investigation Among Gamblers That May Have Important Results.

Several newspapers of this city have printed stories in the last two days to the effect that a pretended disorderly resort had been operated in this city for the past year, with the backing of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to gain evidence concerning the white slave traffic and the police connection with it, and also that Detective William J. Burns had been running a fake gambling house and had trapped several police officials into collecting graft from him.

Mr. Burns said yesterday that he wanted to make as sweeping a denial as possible of the stories that he was working with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in running down police graft; that he had any knowledge of any house rented for the purpose of getting facts relating to the white slave traffic, or any fake gambling house, or that he knew the least thing about any work that is being done for exposing police graft in connection with disorderly resorts. Mr. Burns said:

"There is not a single word of truth in the stories, and the stronger you make the denial the better satisfied I will be. I have nothing to do with any disorderly resort. I have planted no decoy houses. Whatever I may have done, and I am admitting nothing, has been in connection with gambling. The stories probably were the outcome of an idle remark made by one of my men in Chicago to a reporter whose employer has a newspaper in this city.

"My man asked him why he did not find out what I was doing in investigating police corruption. That happened about three months ago and ever since that time reporters of that newspaper have been after me for news about something that I know nothing about."

"Is it true that you have men acting as waiters in the Metropole and other places where information concerning gambling might be picked up?" Mr. Burns was asked.

"Your question relates to gambling, and I must decline to answer it. I am not admitting anything. I only want to deny a widely published story in which there is not one word of truth. A little later I may have an interesting statement to give the public. When I do all of the newspapers will get it at the same time."

Denial from Mr. Rockefeller.

Starr J. Murphy of the younger Mr. Rockefeller's office made the following statement:

"Mr. Rockefeller, having become interested in white slave matters while foreman of the Special Grand Jury, has been since then obtaining statistics with regard to the social evil. Whatever information was obtained bearing on the police situation has been placed at the disposition of the District Attorney. The statement that Mr. Rockefeller or his representatives have been conducting a supposed disorderly resort is entirely without foundation."

Mr. Rockefeller is now at Seal Harbor, Me.

The name of the American Vigilance Committee of 156 Fifth Avenue was mentioned as that of the body under whose auspices the supposed disorderly resort had been opened. H. E. Gennert, local Secretary of the committee, said that he had no knowledge whatever of the house.

Assistant District Attorney James Bronson Reynolds, who was mentioned in the stories as having co-operated with the Rockefeller agents in operating the supposed disorderly resort, has not been in the city for some time. He is now on his vacation at Chocorua, New Hampshire. It was stated positively yesterday that he had been in co-operation with civic organizations in making an investigation of the white slave traffic, but that he had not discussed his work with newspaper men.

All News to Whitman.

District Attorney Whitman said yesterday that one of his assistants, James B. Reynolds, had been working with the Rockefeller agents for the last few months, but had not recently reported any developments to him.

"I have no knowledge of any gambling house or disorderly resort or any establishment purporting to be such, conducted under the direction of W. J. Burns, for the purpose of being used in these criminal proceedings," said Mr. Whitman.

"If evidence has been so obtained it should certainly be brought to me, and if it is in existence I believe it would have been in my possession. The stories printed did not emanate from me."

Regarding the statement that Burns operatives had been "planted" as waiters in the Metropole Hotel, George F. Considine, proprietor of the Metropole, said:

"There is not a word of truth in the statement. I know personally every waiter who has been in my employ almost since the place opened. Mr. Burns ought to remember that the days of P. T. Barnum and of dime novels are over, and should wake up to the fact that the public is no longer to be fooled by circus talk.

"As for the statement that Burns had trapped gamblers in the Metropole by means of a telephonograph, I'll make Mr. Burns a present of $1,000 if he can prove that any sort of game has ever been carried on in any room in the Metropole, except occasionally a game of bridge-whist played in a room of which the doors were wide open."

HOUSE OWNERS AS WITNESSES.

Those Profiting from Illegal Resorts to be Called by Aldermen.

In order to find out who is responsible for the renting of establishments where gambling is conducted, the Aldermanic committee which will begin soon to investigate graft in the Police Department may call as witnesses certain owners of real estate in the Tenderloin. Alderman Henry H. Curran, Chairman of the committee, said yesterday that owners of houses where gambling is allowed are responsible under the law and that they should all be exposed, even if some of these owners were found to be men and women prominent in society.

"The purpose of our investigation," said Mr. Curran, "is not to get grafting policemen alone, but to end conditions which make graft possible.

"It is true that the names of some of the persons most prominent in New York society may appear in the list of owners of houses used for illegal purposes. If there are any such, they will be among the first persons called by the investigating committee. I would not be surprised if some of the witnesses are persons who are usually written about in the society columns of newspapers. These persons should be willing to come forward and explain to the committee why their property is put to gambling and other immoral uses. If they knowingly rent their property for such purposes they are lawbreakers, and can be punished as such."

MASS MEETING ON WEDNESDAY.

Citizens' Committee May Be Named to Aid Graft Investigation.

The mass meeting arranged by Allan Robinson to discuss the present graft and gambling situations will take place at Cooper Union on Wednesday evening. Some of the speakers will be Dr. Lyman Abbott, Henry Moskowitz, and Mrs. Charles H. Israels.

Mr. Robinson gave out yesterday the following statement in regard to the meeting:

"The developments of the Rosenthal case present a situation requiring the immediate and earnest attention of the citizens of New York. Notwithstanding the thousands of honest and faithful members of the police force, it is apparent to any one who has followed the course of events that a treasonable connection again exists between some elements of the police and organized crime.

"It is essential that every public officer charged with any duty in regard to this matter shall know that his fellow-citizens will support him in the full performance of that duty. It is equally essential that every citizen or official having any information of value concerning present conditions shall be encouraged to make those facts known in the confidence that he will be protected against terrorism and oppression of every sort. Such confidence can be inspired only by the expression of the present overwhelming public sentiment through a movement of the character contemplated by the proposed mass meeting.

"Conditions similar to those now existing have existed before in our city and have been investigated and exposed. But the fact that such conditions, despite such exposures and punishment, can recur shows that there are underlying causes which cannot be removed by the mere punishment of guilty individuals, necessary though that be.

"For any permanent good to come to the City of New York from the revelations made and to be made requires, first, that these underlying causes be ascertained, and, secondly, that an intelligent attempt be made to remove them.

"This is a movement which profoundly affects the common life of this great community. All citizens are earnestly urged to assist by attending the Cooper Union meeting. The result of this meeting ought to be the appointment of a committee of citizens to assist the District Attorney, to aid the Aldermanic investigation, and to formulate and carry through such changes in our laws, our police force, or City Government, and our courts as are necessary to prevent the recurrence in the future of conditions like the present."

INSPECTOR HUGHES VERY ILL.

Threatened Now, It Is Said, with a Severe Attack of Pneumonia.

Chief Inspector Hughes of the Detective Bureau is reported critically ill at his home in Brooklyn. The Inspector returned from the Catskills last Tuesday suffering from an illness which was diagnosed at that time as ptomaine poisoning, but it was discovered yesterday that he is threatened with an attack of pneumonia. The Inspector spent several days in the Catskills in charge of the detectives who were hunting for two of the men said to have been concerned in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

Dr. John W. Edwards and Police Surgeon McGoldrick are caring for him. The Inspector's work at headquarters has been turned over to Capt. James Dunn.

WILSON DODGES, SAYS HILLES

Governor's Speech Repudiates Baltimore Platform, Declares Chairman.

Chairman Hilles of the Republican National Committee held conferences yesterday at the headquarters of the committee in the Times Building with a number of prominent Republicans, including John Hays Hammond, President of the National League of Republican Clubs, and Julius Fleischmann, ex-Mayor of Cincinnati. The selection of a Treasurer of the National Committee as well as of an Advisory Committee was discussed, but no names were agreed upon. Mr. Hammond is to open headquarters in the Times Building and conduct a general campaign through Republican clubs. Discussing Gov. Wilson's speech of acceptance Chairman Hilles said:

"Prof. Wilson's speech of acceptance is an entertaining essay. Its tone is surprisingly conservative, and throughout there is an avoidance of a positive programme for the conduct of the Democratic campaign. The expressed views of the candidate differ so radically with those of Mr. Bryan, the author of the platform, that the speech of acceptance would seem, in effect, to be a repudiation of that platform and its maker. The speech in its entirety makes more than ever pertinent, I think, the questions put to Prof. Wilson in my statement on Wednesday. These questions were, in brief:

1. Does Prof. Wilson stand squarely on the free trade platform adopted at Baltimore?
2. Does Prof. Wilson favor the recall of Judges and of judicial decisions?
3. Prof. Wilson is pleased to call himself a "Progressive." Will he file a bill of particulars?
4. Is Prof. Wilson still antagonistic to Chinese exclusion? Does he still consider the Chinese immigrant more to be desired than the European immigrant?

Among others who talked with Chairman Hilles were Joseph H. Gaines, ex-Congressman from West Virginia, and A. H. Hetherington of Philadelphia, who wants President Taft to attend the historical pageant at Philadelphia Oct. 7.

TAFT GAINS DELEGATES.

Those to North Carolina Republican Convention Pledge Support.

Special to The New York Times.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 8.—The support of the State Republican organization was gained by the Republican regulars for President Taft's ticket to-day, when the committee, fixing Sept 4, at Charlotte, for holding the State Convention, agreed almost unanimously that no delegates should go to Charlotte without the pledge to support President Taft.

Raleigh Republicans leading the Roosevelt fight came back and announced locally their agreement with the programme. Ten County Chairmen have since issued their pledge of support, and all over North Carolina the Republican organization of 52 committeemen and 100 County Chairmen has accepted Mr. Taft as the regular nominee. Former Attorney General Zeb Walser, picked by Col. Roosevelt for his State manager and choice for State Chairman, declines to follow Col. Roosevelt's third party, and Chairman Morehead is the Taft leader.

In Wake a dual organization, with Marion Butler's brother leading the Roosevelt forces and claiming the Chairmanship and William Andrews, son of the railroader, A. B. Andrews, who is fighting Mr. Butler, is furnishing the single State contest. Mr. Morehead announces Mr. Butler to be irregular and the loser and Mr. Andrews, a former Roosevelt man, as the winner.

REPUBLICANS MEET TO-DAY.

State Campaign Plans Up—Convention to be Open, Lewis Says.

Plans for conducting the Republican State campaign will be discussed to-day when County Chairmen from all over the State will assemble at Republican State Headquarters in West Thirty-ninth Street and listen to an address from State Chairman William Barnes, Jr. Senator Merwin E. Lewis, who will have charge of the State campaign, said yesterday that reports he had received indicated that with the selection of a strong ticket the party would win. The Republican State Convention at Saratoga in September, he said, would be one of the most open conventions ever held.

"There will be no making up of a slate behind closed doors," he said. "The candidate for Governor will be selected in an open convention, where every delegate will have his say."

W. S. Bennet Sounds the Public.

Former Congressman William S. Bennet, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, wants to know what the 86,276 enrolled Republicans in New York County think about it, and to find out he mailed yesterday to each of them a postal card outlining his platform and inviting all to attend a mass meeting at the Manhattan Casino, Eighth Avenue and 155th Street, Tuesday night, Aug. 13. Besides himself, United States Senator William E. Borah, and Congressman J. Hampton Moore are scheduled to speak.

DEMOCRATS CHEERED BY WILSON'S SPEECH

National Leaders Gather at Headquarters Here to Make Campaign Arrangements.

MARSHALL LOST IN THE CITY

Candidate's Running Mate Will Make Four Speeches in Maine This Month.

The Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Building bore the aspect of a National convention yesterday. Democratic leaders from all parts of the country were there. All had come back from Sea Girt, where they attended the notification ceremonies on Wednesday and all were bubbling over with enthusiasm for Gov. Wilson's speech. Leaders who were not in the city telegraphed their sentiments to Chairman William F. McCombs.

"It was fine, fine," said Gov. Marshall, Gov. Wilson's running mate. "It means that our party proposes to treat the ills of the country as a good physician, and not as a surgeon only. I know no reason why all those who desire the best things for the public should not support Gov. Wilson. It seems to me that he stands for everything that can be done under our present system of government. Of course, if there be those who believe in overturning the Government and making it Socialistic, they will not be impressed by Gov. Wilson's views. Other men, however, will be perfectly satisfied, I think, with what he has said.

"I have promised to go to Maine the last week of this month and make four speeches. I felt that the burden upon Gov. Wilson was such that he ought to be relieved from participation in that campaign."

Gov. Marshall left at 4 o'clock for Spring Lake, but before he got off he had an adventure which caused Josephus Daniel to do a whole lot of explaining. Meeting Mr. Daniels as the latter was leaving headquarters, the Governor asked him where he was stopping, as he intended to drop in and take luncheon with him. Mr. Daniels, with his mind apparently still on Baltimore and the hotel at which he stopped while there, replied, the Belvedere. A half hour later Gov. Marshall hailed a taxi and ordered the chauffeur to drive to the Belvedere. The chauffeur looked puzzled for a moment, and then darted into a cigar store, where he hastily scanned a telephone book. When he came out he took the Indiana Governor down to an apartment hotel in West Twelfth Street, called the Belvedere.

The Governor of Indiana does not know New York very well. He strode majestically into the apartment and asked the elevator boy to take him to Mr. Daniels's room. There was almost a rumpus when the elevator man insisted that no Mr. Daniels lived there. Puzzled, the Governor took the taxi back to the National headquarters, and found out that Mr. Daniels meant to say that he lived at the Martinique.

Gov. Plaisted of Maine also called at headquarters.

"I firmly believe," he said, "that we will carry every candidate through on the State ticket this Fall, and this means that Maine will go Democratic by a big majority."

Norman E. Mack said Chairman McCombs had asked him to lend a helping hand in starting the organization off, and that he would be in New York for several days.

"It looks to me very much as if Taft will prevent the carrying of any of the Western States by Roosevelt, where the latter, is supposed to be strong, and that Roosevelt will prevent the carrying of an Eastern State by Taft, where the President is supposed to be strong, which means that Gov. Wilson will get a plurality in practically every State in the Union," he said.

Thomas Taggart of Indiana said he could see nothing but Wilson's election this Fall.

"The way I figure it out," said Mr. Taggart, "is Wilson first, then Taft and then Roosevelt. The Roosevelt movement hasn't cut any ice in Indiana, and I don't believe he will get a dozen Democratic votes in the entire State."

Telegrams and letters from well-known Democrats indorsing Gov. Wilson's speech flooded the clerks at the headquarters. William J. Bryan had this to say:

> Gov. Wilson's speech of acceptance is admirable. It is original in treatment of the issues of the campaign, and I am sure will impress the country favorably.

Champ Clark sent this message:

> Considered from a literary standpoint, Gov. Wilson's speech of acceptance will take high rank in the political output of the year. It will make pleasant reading, and therefore will prove a fetching campaign document. He discusses the issues of the day philosophically, clearly, and forcibly. Its courteous tone will allay opposition and win him friends. It is an admirable pronouncement.

Gov. Dix said:

> As a business man and manufacturer, I am especially pleased with his positive and statesmanlike position on the paramount issue of tariff reform and his demand for immediate downward revision. In sincerity, precise statement, and comprehensive grasp of great principles and their application to the fundamental needs of the country, the speech is Jeffersonian to the core. It contains no appeal to passion and excites no prejudice.

Other expressions of approval came from Senator Kern, Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, Thomas Mott Osborne, John E. Lamb, Louis D. Brandeis, and Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia.

WOMEN'S WILSON CAMPAIGN

Opened with a Pamphlet Praising His Work as Governor.

The new Woman's Wilson and Marshall Democratic Organization issued yesterday a document of forty-seven paragraphs, eight typewritten pages, a résumé of Gov. Wilson's work in New Jersey, with special reference to women, children, and workingmen. The calls for membership in the new political body will now be sent out, a copy of the résumé with each call.

There are already a hundred members, not including the members of the Organization Committee, women who have come in of their own accord, eager and anxious to work. In gathering the material for the campaign document the women have worked on broad lines and included the analysis of much legislation, which only in a general way affects the women, children, and workers, such as the "act placing New Jersey in the front rank in the campaign against tuberculosis" and the "law compelling physicians to report cases of feeble-mindedness."

They start the list with the Employers' Liability act for the benefit of women and children after the injury or death of husbands and fathers, the laws prohibiting the employment of children in school hours, and the employment at night of messengers under 21. The third paragraph refers to what they say is the first law relating to women wage earners ever enacted in New Jersey, a law limiting the employment of working women to sixty hours a week.

The women have listed the establishment, under the Board of Education, of special classes for children who are below normal and for blind children, also the appointment of a commission for the purpose of ameliorating the condition of the blind, the establishment of free dental clinics, and the furnishing by the State Board of Health of physicians and midwives for the poor.

An act which has appealed to the women as housewives is that which provides for the sanitary condition of bakeries, candy and ice cream manufactories, &c., with regulation for the age, safety, health, and working hours of the employes; also the laws regulating weights and measures and cold storage. They believe that a deserting husband or father should be punished as a disorderly person, and they approve of the New Jersey act eliminating contract labor in the prisons and the payment to the families of a part of the earnings of prisoners.

It is pointed out that New Jersey, under Gov. Wilson, does not sell intoxicating liquors to minors, that no pawn broker may receive any article from any person under 18, that cigarettes and tobacco may not be sold to minors. The establishment of juvenile detention houses under the control of the Police Department is approved. Forbidding the marriage of minors without the consent of parents is another Wilson law which appeals to the women.

In political matters they put on their [illegible] the establishment of direct primaries throughout the State. Two of [illegible] important appointments in the "Governor's power" which they approve were those of Dr. Calvin Kendall as Commissioner of Education and Joseph Byers as Commissioner of Charities and Correction—"appointments made with reference to training and fitness and with no regard whatever for politics." This principle, they find, he applied in the appointment of the Boards of Managers of other State institutions, and many women have been appointed to these boards.

Gov. Wilson's "uniform spirit of cooperation with all men and women throughout the State interested in civic and philanthropic work" is praised.

REFORMERS FOR WILSON.

"Tariff for Revenue Only" Men Praise His Speech.

Gov. Wilson's attitude on the tariff, as outlined in his speech of acceptance, was the subject of much discussion yesterday among the members of clubs and other organizations here.

The Reform Club is making a "campaign of education" in support of a tariff for revenue only. The general expression of opinion at the Reform Club yesterday was favorable to Gov. Wilson's references to the tariff. Some members thought the candidate might have been "stronger" on this issue, but the majority of the members thought Gov. Wilson's ideas squared with the Baltimore platform. John Jerome Rooney, who as Chairman of the club's committee that appeared before the Platform Committee at Baltimore to urge a "tariff for revenue only" plank, had this to say:

"The Governor's attitude on the all-important subject of tariff revision downward is satisfactory to me. He settled that point when he said in his speech: 'Our own clear conviction as Democrats is that, in the last analysis, the only safe and legitimate object of tariff duties, as of taxes of every kind, is to raise revenue for the support of the Government.' Again he says: 'Trusts have owed their origin and secure power to them,' and his description of how 'protection' has led business men to depend on the Ways and Means Committee at Washington instead of upon themselves, is in the best vein.

"Then, too, he strikes fire when he says that 'the high cost of living is arranged by private understanding,' and that 'those who buy are not even represented by counsel.'" cisco, and Miss Jean Gordon of New Orleans. Miss Gordon is a daughter of Gen. John B. Gordon, a Confederate veteran.

The country will be divided up into five or possibly more zones for campaign purposes. The principal headquarters will be either in New York or in Chicago, and other headquarters will be in Boston, Atlanta or New Orleans, and in San Francisco.

It was said to-night that possibly Denver might be made the central point of a sixth zone if it should be considered desirable to divide the large territory between Chicago and the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Perkins was elected by unanimous vote amid applause. Meyer Lessner, the member from California, questioned the expediency of having a man as closely identified with Wall Street as Mr. Perkins prominently identified with the Colonel's campaign, but William Allen White, the novelist, who is the representative of Kansas on the committee, said the Colonel wanted Mr. Perkins in that position. That settled it.

The National Committee will be in session here for the remainder of the week mapping out a campaign programme.

MR. FLINN'S PLAN EXPLAINED.

Van Valkenburg Shows How Colonel Will Carry Pennsylvania.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The method by which William Flinn of Pittsburgh and the other Roosevelt leaders in Pennsylvania expect to keep control of the Republican State organization, and at the same time to work for the election of Col. Roosevelt, through the New Progressive Party, was explained to-day by E. A. Van Valkenburg of Philadelphia.

Mr. Van Valkenburg said the Republican candidates for State offices would be placed also on the Washington Party's ticket, together with as many of the Republican candidates for Congress as would pledge themselves to support the Progressive National ticket.

Mr. Flinn's organization will thus support both the Republican State ticket and the Washington Party, and its candidates will obtain both the Taft and the Roosevelt votes. It was explained that under the law in Pennsylvania a voter is a member of the party for a majority of whose candidates he voted at the previous election. Mr. Flinn said that he was therefore legally a Republican.

SPLIT AMONG BULL MOOSE.

New Party in Rhode Island Starts with Internal Warfare.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 8.—There's dissension in the ranks of the Bull Moose party and there are now two herds of Bull Moose men in this State. One faction, with Dr. Garvin as its head, is coming from Chicago, while the other is staying at home and kicking up a rumpus.

The dissenters are headed by A. B. Johnson, the single tax man and last year's Democratic spellbinder. He and his followers had a meeting last night at Fallstaff Hall and passed a resolution which called for a convention of all enrolled Progressives in the State. The convention, if it is held, will nominate a State ticket for the Fall campaign, and there will be no delegates elected to it.

SUFFRAGISTS NON-PARTISAN.

National Body Disapproves of Jane Addams's Seconding of Roosevelt.

Jane Addams in seconding the Roosevelt nomination, has not followed the policies of the National Woman Suffrage Association, of which she is First Vice President. The association believes in a strictly non-partisan attitude toward all political parties, and does not approve of Miss Addams's act.

In this it follows the policies of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance, which, at its convention held in Stockholm, Sweden, in June, 1911, passed unanimously a resolution to hold itself in a non-partisan attitude toward all political parties. In view of this fact, the National body has sent out the following statement for publication, saying:

> The International Woman Suffrage Alliance, in convention at Stockholm in June, 1911, unanimously resolved that woman suffrage societies should be non-partisan.
>
> The National American Woman Suffrage Association, with branches in thirty-nine States, is and has always been absolutely non-partisan.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who founded the Woman Suffrage Party in New York, and who was for a long time President of the National association, founded and is President of the international organization. She presided at the Stockholm convention. The President of the National association is Dr. Anna Howard Shaw.

Paris Temps Thinks Roosevelt's Chances Not to be Laughed At.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Commenting on the somewhat jocular accounts of the Chicago Convention, published here, the Temps in a laudatory leader on Theodore Roosevelt declares that those who fail to take seriously his chances in the three-cornered fight for the Presidency are making a profound mistake. The Temps adds:

"He stands on a platform, admirably and cleverly constructed, giving the Bull Moose plenty of ground over which to paw, with Roosevelt in good form on strong ground, well supplied with funds and able to count on sympathy among those nominally his enemies. He is capable of working miracles and achieving success under circumstances which would break any one else."

REPLY FROM BELMONT.

Democratic Leader Answers Roosevelt Regarding Campaign Expenses.

Perry Belmont, President of the National Publicity Law Organization, said last night:

"The declaration in Mr. Roosevelt's platform in favor of the publication of campaign contributions before as well as after election is unnecessary, as the publicity law enacted Aug. 14, 1911, compels such publication.

"When Mr. Bryan in 1908 suggested without requirement of law to the Democratic National Committee that contributions and expenditures be published before as well as after election, Mr. Roosevelt, in an open letter to Mr. Bryan, published Sept. 28, 1908, strenuously opposed this proposition. He epitomized an elaborate argument as follows:

"'I am emphatically in favor of the publication of campaign expenses after the election.'

"The movement for the publication of campaign funds commenced in 1904 when Mr. Roosevelt was a Presidential candidate for the first time, excepting the perfunctory declaration in a message to Congress, immediately following the agitation upon the subject, Mr. Roosevelt as President did nothing to assist the movement. Had he done so it would have become known to the members of the Legislative Committee of the National Campaign Publicity Organization residing in Washington."

WANT BAILEY FOR GOVERNOR.

Cornell Men Start a Boom to Place Professor in Office.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Local political circles were surprised to-day by two booms sprung by the leaders of the Progressive Party. One was an effort to get Liberty Hyde Bailey, Director of the State Committee of Agriculture at Cornell University and former Chairman of the Roosevelt Country Life Commission, to run for Governor on the Progressive State ticket.

Mr. Bailey is still in Europe and so far he has not identified himself with the Progressive cause.

The other boom was that for William R. George, known the country over as "Daddy" George, founder of the George Junior Republic, for member of Congress from the 37th district. Mr. George has come out for the Progressive cause.

BULL MOOSE LEADERS BACK.

To Hold State Convention at Syracuse, Sept. 5 and 6.

The Bull Moose Special from Chicago, with about 150 delegates and others returning from the National Convention got into the Grand Central early this morning and the delegates were cheered by a handful of persons, friends of those on board. On the trip Chairman William H. Hotchkiss of the State Committee, Controller Prendergast, Timothy L. Woodruff, and the other local leaders talked over the State situation. It was decided to hold the State Convention at Syracuse on Sept. 5 and 6. There was a discussion of possible Gubernatorial candidates which didn't get much further than the names of Mr. Prendergast, Mr. Hotchkiss, and Judge Kellogg of Jefferson County.

The returning delegates were full of enthusiasm over the convention they had just left.

"It was the most wonderful thing I ever saw in my life," said Chairman Hotchkiss in awesome tones. "It is simply indescribable. We are going to win. That is all I can say."

Col. Roosevelt himself will arrive at the Grand Central on the Twentieth Century Limited this morning.

Negroes Condemn Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Col. Roosevelt's atitude toward negro delegates to the Progressive Convention was condemned in resolutions adopted to-day by a conference of committees of the Consolidated Republican Clubs, composed of negroes, which met here to-day to arrange the third annual meeting of the organization in New York on Sept. 18-20.

YOUNG TURKS PLAN A WAR FOR POWER

Will Take Their Forces to the Mountains and Then Call the Population to Arms.

188 VICTIMS OF MASSACRE

Atrocities on Bulgars at Kotchana Witnessed by Leading Moslems—Albanian Rebels More Pacific.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 9.—A telegram to The Times from Salonika, dated Aug. 7, says:

"The news of the dissolution of the Chamber has produced a disastrous impression in Committee of Union and Progress circles here, where the event is referred to as a coup d'état.

"I learn that the Central Bureau has decided to make a determined last stand to regain the lost influence of the committee, and that Niazi Bey at Resna and Eyub Bey at Okrida, two heroes of the revolution, are to collect their forces, take to the mountains, call to arms the population remaining loyal to the Young Turks, and thus commence the fight against the present Ministry.

"Dr. Nazim arrived here yesterday, and was to-day joined by Djavid Bey, Talaat Bey, and Minhat Bey. Their object is to decide upon and organize the resistance which the committee shall offer to the Cabinet.

"Bulgarian reports throw a very serious light on the events at Kotchana, where it appears that a dynamite explosion was followed by a massacre more atrocious than that perpetrated at Istib.

"According to these stories, an infernal machine was exploded in the market, killing eleven persons. Five minutes later firing began in the Grain Market, and a crowd armed with rifles, swords, knives and iron bars flung them themselves on the Bulgars.

"The terrible massacre continued for three and a half hours, in the presence of leading Mussulmans. Two of the streets leading to the market are described as being blocked with dead and dying Bulgars. The victims numbered no fewer than 188.

"It was only at a late hour that troops appeared and, instead of pursuing the murderers, went from house to house arresting innocent Bulgarians, who were bound and thrown into prison."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 8.—The commander of the Ottoman troops in Albania has sent an official dispatch to the Government informing it that the communication of the imperial iradé, dissolving the Chamber of Deputies, ordering a general election, and exhorting the Albanian rebels to return to their allegiance has produced a very good impression on the Albanian chiefs.

The chiefs assured Ibrahim Pasha, the Turkish commander, that they would act in accordance with the imperial decree, and expressed their satisfaction with the new turn of events. Afterward they departed in order to inform their followers of the news.

Ibrahim Pasha says he has strong hopes that the revolt will soon come to an end and that the Albanians will resume their normal life.

SALONIKA, Aug. 8.—It is reported that the Montenegrins have evacuated the Mojkovatz frontier and that the fighting has ceased.

Albania is quiet.

CETTINJE, Aug. 8.—Border fighting between the Turks and guerrilla bands of Albanian tribesmen continues along the Montenegrin frontier. A severe engagement was fought yesterday, the result of which is not known.

The Turkish frontier troops, who have been strongly reinforced, again crossed the Montenegrin border yesterday and were once more repulsed by the Montenegrin levies.

The Turkish Minister to Montenegro has not yet left his post, although he stated in a note sent to the Government that negotiations between Turkey and Montenegro had been broken off.

The Porte has proposed to the Montenegrin Chargé d'Affaires at Constantinople the appointment of a mixed commission to inquire into the frontier dispute. The Montenegrin Government readily accepted the proposition.

103 GERMAN MINERS KILLED.

Explosion in a Colliery Near Bochum—Lives of 650 Men Imperiled.

BOCHUM, Germany, Aug. 8.—An explosion of black damp and coal dust this morning in the Lorraine shaft of the coal field in the village of Gerthe, four miles from Bochum, cost the lives of 103 miners, according to the official report. Two others were severely hurt and twenty-three slightly injured. Death was practically instantaneous in all cases.

The cause of the explosion has not yet been definitely ascertained, but it is thought that a blast reached a big pocket of gas. The lives of 650 pitmen were imperiled.

The Emperor, who is now at Essen, has donated 15,000 marks ($3,750) to aid the families of the victims.

The day shift of 650 men had just descended into the workings and were distributing themselves along the various levels when the explosion occurred. The detonation was heard at the surface, and the officials on duty immediately formed rescue parties of the men belonging to the night shift, who rushed back to the pit mouth, together with the villagers.

Albert Twyford May Recover.

VICHY, Aug. 8.—The report that Albert Twyford of New York, who attempted suicide by shooting himself in the head last Tuesday, had died at a hospital here, turns out not to be true. His condition is now reported to be slightly better, and the doctors hope for his recovery.

BARRED THE NAVY UNIFORM.

Secretary Winthrop Protests to Gov. Baldwin Against Norwich Incident.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—At a moving-picture and dance resort near Norwich, Conn., recently, five petty officers of the navy, all in white uniforms, were turned back at the door as ineligible for admission because of their uniforms.

The case was reported to Capt. Chapin of the Missouri, to which ship the men belonged, and he passed the matter on to the department, with a sharp complaint against the managers of the concern for their conduct. To-day Beekman Winthrop, Acting Secretary of the Navy, addresed a request to Gov. Baldwin for action by the Connecticut authorities.

MARIE LOHR MARRIED.

English Actress Weds Anthony Prinsep—Will Give Up the Stage.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—There was a big crowd of theatrical celebrities at the Church of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields to-day when Miss Marie Lohr, the well-known actress, was married to Anthony Prinsep, son of the late Val Prinsep, R. A., the well-known artist.

Miss Lohr has been appearing in one of the leading parts in the revival at the Duke of York's Theatre of Pinero's "Amazons." It is understood that she intends to leave the stage. Her engagement to Mr. Prinsep; who is a man of considerable wealth, his father having been one of the richest artists in England, was announced about eight months ago.

At one time she was engaged to Robert Loraine, the actor-aviator, and this engagement was broken off, according to report, because Mr. Loraine refused to promise to give up flying. Miss Lohr did not desire a husband whose life was such a hazardous risk as that of an airman.

WE REFUSED TO AID CHINA?

Report That She Vainly Appealed to Us Against Russia and Japan.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 9.—A Tien-Tsin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company on the subject of the Russo-Japanese treaty says:

"It is reported that China appealed to the United States to intervene on her behalf, but that the Government at Washington refused to do so."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Rumors were revived here to-day that China has been looking to the United States for protection against Japan and Russia in their plans as indicated in their recently signed covention regarding Machuria.

Before this there have been reports that Minister Calhoun at Peking made representations to the Japanese and Russian Ministers there, intimating dissatisfaction with the close partnership Japan and Russia had formed for the exploitation of Northern China to the exclusion of other powers. Those reports were never confirmed, and were generally discredited.

It is recalled that when Japan entered into a compact two years ago, requiring her approval to Chinese railway concessions in Manchuria, this Government assented without protest, and it was understood then that Russia and Japan were acting together. That compact seemed in direct violation of the "Open Door" policy, which Secretary Knox has lately reiterated in the form of a note in regard to Chinese loans. But this country has never shown the same solicitude for Manchurian territorial inviolability that it has displayed in regard to loans, and no change in this policy is now expected.

SPANISH REPUBLICAN PLOT.

Government Alarmed—Funds Said to Have Been Sent from Argentina.

MADRID, Aug. 8.—The Government is much perturbed over Republican activities in Barcelona and Valencia, where there are indications of a revolutionary plot, the signal for which is to be the declaration of a general strike.

The Republicans in Argentina are said to have remitted lavish funds to Spain for the furtherance of the conspiracy. Additional troops have been concentrated in the affected centres, and regiments whose officers are known to be particularly attached to the Monarchy have been brought in to Madrid.

The War Minister, Gen. de Luque, is remaining in the capital to deal with eventualities.

"KID" McCOY AGAIN HELD.

Remanded for a Week at His Attorney's Request—Bail Renewed.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—"Kid" McCoy (Norman Selby) was brought up again today at the Bow Street Police Court on the chage of larceny alleged to have been committed at Ostend.

The magistrate again remanded Selby for a week, his bail being renewed at the request of his attorney, who desired time to study the papers in connection with the demand for extradition which arrived from Belgium to-day.

McCoy has declared ever since his arrest that he can prove himself innocent of the charge.

'WAR' WILL FOLLOW SCHOOL.

Six Days' Instruction to Preach the Connecticut Campaign.

STRATFORD, Conn., Aug. 8.—The Connecticut Manoeuvre Campaign next week will be divided into two periods, officially termed the instructional and final.

The first period, from August 10 to 15, inclusive, will be given to carrying into effect by the two commanders of the opposing forces the schedule of movements as made up by the chief umpire. In the final period August 16 to 19, inclusive, the commanders will be ordered to formulate their instructions after the chief umpire has given them special directions.

During the instructional period each arm of the service will carry out a characteristic programme. The engineers will improvise means of crossing streams without bridging, the laying out and construction of field entrenchments and the demolition of both. The infantry will have skirmishing and marching, but all movements of units will be behind the lines, established in the outpost work. Excepting in an emergency none of the marches is likely to exceed ten miles in one day, although the mounted troops may be moved twenty miles.

The signal corps will be used to maintain lines of communication and assist in scouting and outpost work.

In the second period of the campaign, the theoretical collision of the armies, actual bodily conflict is forbidden, and there will be a zone between advancing bodies in the open. The position of the units at this time will be observed by the umpire. Should a force approach within 100 yards of another without being discovered, capture may be made by giving the command, "halt, surrender." The umpire will then make his observation and decide whether actual capture was possible.

Engagements between troops in towns or villages is not permitted, and there will be no firing near houses, barns, or hay stacks. No private property can be crossed without consent of the owner.

The staff of umpires will be under Brig-Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, the chief umpire. They will decide points in the campaign and serve as instructors for the volunteers to which they are attached.

THE LONDON TIMES HAS A NEW EDITOR

George E. Buckle Retires After 28 Years' Service and Geoffrey Robinson Takes His Place.

NEW EDITOR 37 YEARS OLD

Has Been on the Staff of the Paper Only a Short Time—Loss of Mr. Buckle Much Regretted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The Times has a new editor. The retirement of George Earle Buckle, who has held the post since February, 1884, is announced today, and he will be succeeded by Geoffrey Robinson, who is only 37 years old, and who has not been connected with the paper for long. Until recently he was editor of The Johannesburg Star, and was then appointed The Times's South African correspondent. It was only last February that he became Director of The Times.

Mr. Buckle, who is 58 years old, has been editor of The Times longer than any other of its editors, with the exception of Delane, who was appointed to the post when he was 23 years old, and broke down when he was 60. Mr. Buckle, in his turn, has recently felt the strain of the position. Three years ago there were rumors in Fleet Street that he was suffering from a disease which would necessitate a capital operation. These proved exaggerated, but his health has not been good for a long time.

Mr. Buckle, who is beloved by all his associates and whose loss will be keenly felt, is the eldest son of the late Canon Buckle of Wells Cathedral. His first wife, who died in 1898, was a daughter of James Payn, the novelist. In 1905 he married a daughter of the late Prof. John Earle.

After a brilliant career at Oxford, where among other honors he carried off the coveted Newdigate Prize for Poetry, Mr. Buckle became a barrister, but never practiced. He entered The Times staff in 1880, and was appointed editor on the death of Thomas Chenery.

Mr. Robinson was educated at Eton and Oxford—a combination which is said to unlock the doors of The Times office more easily than any other. Like Mr. Buckle, his career at the university was a brilliant one, and, after becoming a Fellow of All Souls, he entered the South African department of the Foreign Office. In 1901 he went to South Africa as private secretary of Lord Milner, and in 1905 became editor of The Johannesburg Star. He is a Yorkshireman.

KAISER PRAISES THE KRUPPS.

He, Prince Henry, and the Chancellor Attend Centenary Celebration.

ESSEN, Aug. 8.—The Emperor arrived here to-day by special train, accompanied by a large retinue, including his brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, to participate in the celebration of the centenary of the foundation of the great Krupp works. Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg the Imperial Chancellor, many other Ministers and officials, and military and naval afficers are also present. The city is in gala attire.

After the Emperor had been welcomed by the Mayor and the Municipal Councillors he proceeded to the administrative buildings, where Gustav Krugg von Bohlen und Halbach, the head of the firm, welcomed him in a speech, to which the Emperor responded briefly, concluding by asking all present to join in three cheers for the firm of Krupp.

The Emperor in his speech first extolled the achievements of the Krupp cannon and the Krupp battleships, which, he said, "hammered out German unity on the battlefield and carried the German flag throughout the world." He then said that the achievements of the Krupps in peaceful fields were even more noteworthy, praising particularly the work of the company in settling the problems of workmen's insurance and pensions, continuation schools, &c., in which direction it had shown the way for the social-political legislation of Germany.

ARMY WORMS STOP TRAINS

And Have Already Done $8,000,000 Damage to Southern Crops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—More than $8,000,000 damage was done to crops in the South last month by the army worms, according to unofficial estimates of the Department of Agriculture. Whether the second brood of the insects, already appearing in South Carolina, Alabama, Georgia, and other States, will increase this loss is of much concern to Government experts. All the means at the department's disposal are being used to meet the emergency.

Reports to the department say the army worms, half a foot deep on railroad tracks, have stopped trains at some places. The loss is put at $1,000,000 in Georgia, while in Arkansas 20 per cent. of the corn and 10 per cent. of the cotton planted have been destroyed. Losses have been great in Tennessee, the Carolinas, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana. The corn, cotton, sugar cane, and rice crops from Louisiana to the Atlantic have been affected.

BLACK HANDERS HAD ARMORY

Cincinnati Gang Ready with Ice Picks, and Revolvers.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—Six detectives and two patrolmen surrounded a brick house at 614 Carlisle Avenue this morning, and arrested nine Italians as alleged Black Hand men.

Search of the house brought forth ammunition of all kinds; ice picks converted into weapons, blackjacks, and twined nooses, which the police say are like those used by the Paris Apaches. In the clothing of the prisoners were various weapons, chief of which were stilletos, made from long files, and revolvers.

The arrest is said to be the culmination of the attack on an Italian, who was found behind a house at 524 Plum Street Monday with several stabs in his body.

The arrested men are said to belong to the "Society of the Banana," sixteen of whose members, arrested in Cincinnati several years ago, were taken to Toledo, where fourteen were convicted of being Black Handers.

SUES WIFE FOR CHILD.

Father Charges That She Prejudiced Boy Against Him.

Oscar C. Fuellert of 4,305 Park Avenue, the Bronx, was before Justice Bischoff in the Supreme Court yesterday and told the court that he had been forcibly turned out of his home by his wife, and that whenever he made an attempt to return, he found that she had changed the lock on the door, so as to preclude all possibility of his obtaining a duplicate. In addition, he alleged, she had prejudiced their three-year-old son, Henry William Fuellert, against him, so that the child would have nothing at all to do with him. For all these causes, Fuellert prayed the court to grant his writ of habeas corpus compelling his wife, Mrs. Alvina Fuellert, to give up their son.

Justice Bischoff dismissed the writ, however, even after Fuellert had added as an argument that whereas he was well able to support his son, his wife was without visible means.

ENGLISH YACHTSMEN FREED.

Germans Say They Were Guilty Only of "Foolhardy Photography."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—The five English yachtsmen who were arrested at Eckernförde on Aug. 3 on suspicion of espionage were liberated this morning, as the officials intrusted with the case were unable to discover any incriminating evidence against them.

It is true that several photographs of the canal and other carefully guarded places were found among their effects, but the authorities did not consider that these were taken with any political or military object in view.

It is stated to-night that the liberation of the five men was simply in consequence of the failure of the police to implicate them, and not a result of action taken either by the British Foreign Office or the British Embassy. The officials say that the yachtsmen were guilty of "foolhardy photography," but of nothing worse.

MANAGUA FEARS ATTACK.

Bearers of Demand from Our Envoy to Gen. Mena Disarmed and Robbed.

MANAGUA, Aug. 8.—The revolutionists under Gen. Mena have been quiet for the last two days, but there is reason to fear an attack on Managua at an early date. Desultory firing between the rebels and the Government forces last night was plainly heard here.

Three thousand troops are maintaining lines both east and west of Managua, and the military activities within the city are extensive.

The price of food is advancing, and business has practically been suspended. The telegraph lines are still working to the north, although they have been cut twice. The train service to Corinto is being carried on.

American Minister Weitzel yesterday sent a demand to Gen. Mena to deliver over the locomotives and cars of the American railway company held by him. The message was carried to the revolutionary leader by three officers of the Government troops. Their horses, arms, and a portion of their clothing were taken from them, and they were dismissed with a curt refusal of the demand, returning to Managua on foot.

A committee of five came to Managua yesterday, bearing a proposal from Gen. Mena that President Diaz resign; that Gen. Chamorra, the Nicaraguan Commander in Chief, and himself (Mena) withdraw their candidacies, and that the Assembly elect a new President from a list of five Menistas and Zelayistas, named by himself. This offer was declined.

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Aug. 8.—The main body of the rebels is within close range of Managua.

Considerable railway rolling stock is in the hands of the insurgents, and guerrilla bands cut the railway between Corinto and the capital, and all the telegraph wires. Both railway and telegraph communication with Corinto have been restored by the Government.

SAN SALVADOR, Aug. 8.—The Central American Court of Justice at Cartage, Costa Rica, has intervened in the Nicaraguan revolution. It has sent a commission to treat with the belligerents, and it is expected that an armistice will be declared.

In the meantime Salvador has instructed its Minister in Managua to proffer his good offices, and it is reported that President Diaz has accepted the offer.

PANAMA, Aug. 8.—The United States collier Justin will leave here to-morrow for Nicaragua.

The Justin has 350 marines aboard, who may be landed for the purpose of protecting American property.

PROFESSOR FOR SUFFRAGE.

Summer Students at Columbia Hear Dr. Dewey's Arguments.

Prof. John Dewey talked to the Summer students of Columbia about woman suffrage and education yesterday afternoon. He was scheduled to speak on suffrage only, and so many people came to hear him that many could not get inside the doors. Women teachers would be better educators and boys particularly would be better educated by women if the women were enfranchised, Prof. Dewey said.

"Women are shut out of the most important social function," he said. "To have education what it should be we should have the educators educated. Education is life and experience. You can't have a real democracy where there is caste and cliques or sets. Women are shut out from the culmination and seal for full citizenship, the outward and visible sign of the inward and spiritual grace which is liberty."

Members of the Woman Suffrage Party were at the doors when the meeting disbanded giving out yellow announcements of their street meeting to-night at Amsterdam Avenue and 120th Street at 8:15 o'clock.

JOHN S. HUYLER'S ESTATE.

Appraisal Increased to $2,287,774 by the Correction of an Error.

The estate of John S. Huyler, the candy manufacturer, who died Oct. 1, 1910, which was appraised at $2,104,384.81 in a report filed July 17 in the Transfer Tax Office of the Surrogates' Court, has been increased to $2,287,774.81 in a supplemental report filed yesterday. This is due to the fact that the widow's dower, which was set aside as exempt from taxation and not included in the net estate, has been added to the residue. The dower amounted to $183,390.

By Mr. Huyler's will, Rose F. Huyler, his wife, received a trust fund which she agreed to take in lieu of a dower. This fund amounted to $500,000. By some clerical error in submitting the affidavits in the former report to the appraiser the dower was credited to Mrs. Huyler.

This amount is now divided equally among the residuary legatees, who are Mr. Huyler's four sons. The amount which will be added to their legacies is $45,847.50. This brings the legacies to the following figures: Frank DeK. Huyler, $377,777.70; David Huyler, $433,560.70; Coulter D. Huyler, $384,595.70; and John S. Huyler, $429,591.70.

SEE ASQUITH'S DOOM IN ELECTION RESULT

Unionist Papers Believe Polling in Manchester Indicates Early Fall of the Government.

OPPOSITION MAJORITY 1,202

At Previous Election Ministerialist Won by 445—Manchester Regarded as Index Constituency.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 9.—If the aphorism, "What Manchester thinks to-day England thinks to-morrow," still holds good, then the Liberals' tenure of government is approaching its termination.

Northwest Manchester yesterday returned the Unionist candidate by a majority of 1,202. At the last previous election the Liberal candidate had a majority of 445.

The Unionist papers describe the result as a deadly blow to the Government's Insurance act and to Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George. Mr. Bonar Law, the Opposition leader in the House of Commons, telegraphed to the victor: "What Manchester said today England will say at the first opportunity, and in my opinion that opportunity cannot long be delayed."

The Daily Mail says: "The result is a plain notice to quit to Mr. Asquith. It deals the last blow at his tottering Ministry. He has pledged his word not to force through Home Rule unless he retains the confidence of the constituencies. Every bye-election proves that he has forfeited it by his conduct of the country's affairs.

"The Insurance act is the greatest election loser ever devised, with its sham benefits, its non-existent sanatoria, its taxes, its stamps, and its hordes of officials who are given license to spy upon the Englishman's home."

The Liberal newspapers admit that the loss of Manchester is a keen disappointment, but declare that its significance can easily be overrated. The Daily Chronicle says

"The result of the election was really a plébiscite in a peculiarly unfavorable constituency. Until its benefits begin to flow the Insurance act can easily be misrepresented by unscrupulous party politicians."

The Daily News expresses the same view, and says the notable fact is that the Liberal poll fell by nearly 1,200. Liberal abstentions rather than conversions to Unionism were mainly responsible for the result.

The Times (Unionist) says:

"We do not wish to put this Unionist victory too high, but it is the worst slap in the face the Government has had yet. It is unequivocal, coming, as it does, just when all the great measures of the session have been introduced, so that the electors know with some precision what they are. Coming also at this juncture, on top of other defeats and a long series of diminished majorities, it is unmistakably a warning to the Government—a warning to quit, some will say. Perhaps it is."

MANCHESTER, Aug. 8.—The Unionists gained another seat in the House of Commons to-day by the election of their candidate for the Northwest Division of Manchester to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Sir G. Kemp.

Sir John Randles defeated Gordon Hewart, the Liberal candidate, by 5,573 votes to 4,371.

WALTER LONG, M. P., COMING.

Well-Known Politician Will Deliver Series of Speeches in Canada.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Among the passengers sailing for New York on the Adriatic to-day is the Right Hon. Walter H. Long, a leading member of the Opposition in Parliament, who goes to Canada for a two months' tour and will deliver a number of speeches presenting the Unionist side of the British political situation. He will make a short stay in New York before going to Montreal to open his campaign.

"The Unionists' prospects never looked brighter," said Mr. Long before sailing. "I am not going to confine myself to any particular phase of Unionist policy, but will deal with all questions as they come up."

Mr. Long, who is accompanied by his wife, Lady Dorothy Long, expects to return home early in October.

Another member of Parliament on board the Adriatic is Major Morrison Bell, who is also bound for Canada. Others sailing, besides those whose names were cabled yesterday, are Mrs. Henry Ainly, Sir George Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Mackay, and Sir Joseph Pope.

DEBATE THE RIGHT TO TAKE MONTICELLO

Nation Has Power Under Eminent Domain, James M. Beck Writes to Mrs. Littleton.

CITES A GETTYSBURG CASE

Mr. Levy's Counsel, However, Holds That Arlington Cemetery Decision Takes Opposite View.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Can the Nation acquire Monticello and the grave of Jefferson without the consent of the present owner, Representative Jefferson M. Levy? is the issue that has been joined before the House Rules Committee in connection with the favorable report made on the joint resolution which recently passed the Senate providing for a joint Congressional committee of ten to inquire into the wisdom and cost of acquiring Monticello.

James M. Beck, ex-Assistant Attorney General, in a letter to Mrs. Martin W. Littleton, which was submitted to the House Rules Committee, argued for the right of the Government to buy Monticello, basing it on the Gettysburg battlefield case. Representative Levy thereupon called Mr. Beck's attention to the Arlington case, involving the acquisition of the Lee property at Arlington, opposite Washington, for a National cemetery, asserting that this raised the constitutionality of the acquisition of Monticello against Mr. Levy's consent. Mr. Beck has now written to Mr. Levy a second letter, which is interpreted by Eugene Vincent Daly of New York, counsel for Mr. Levy, as meaning that Mr. Beck now thinks the question of constitutionality has some basis.

In his original letter, arguing for the right of the Government to buy Monticello, Mr. Beck said:

"The question is whether it is within the sphere of the Federal Government (under the right of eminent domain) to acquire sites and places that are intimately interwoven with its political and historical development. I think it has. I venture to call attention to the case of the United States against the Gettysburg Electric Railway Company. Under act of Congress the United States filed petition to condemn certain portions of the battlefield of Gettysburg for marking strategic points. The constitutionality of this act was questioned. The case went to the Supreme Court."

The Supreme Court held unanimously that this ground could be taken. Mr. Beck held, therefore, that the Government "can by appropriate action, file a petition to condemn Monticello and the grave of Jefferson, and the court will then award to the owner that just compensation which the Constitution equally requires."

Mr. Daly in his argument said:

"The Gettysburg battlefield case has been cited in support of the acquisition of Monticello. That act was sustained on the ground that the Federal Government had the right, as it was its sacred duty, to provide a proper and even beautiful burial place for its defenders. That case falls within more than one of the enumerated powers under the Constitution, and as it relates, in its final analysis, to the preservation of the Government, it is difficult to see how it can fairly be cited in support of the Monticello resolution."

PLAN MARITIME CONFERENCE.

Bill in House to Hold One Next Year to Consider Ocean Safety.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Representative Levy of New York presented a resolution in the House to-day providing for an international maritime conference in Washington on April 13, 1913. This will be almost one year after the sinking of the Titanic, which occurred on April 15, 1912. The conference is to consider an international patrol of North American steamship lanes, an international wireless system, and an agreement on life-saving appliances of ships in deep-sea travel.

Federal regulation of wireless telegraphy was discussed by the House to-day in a measure designed to govern the interchange of radio messages. The bill regulates the wave lengths to be used, safeguards army and naval wireless stations, and provides for the licensing of operators. The bill originally prohibited aliens from operating wireless stations on American soil, but this was amended.

DOMINICAN TOWN TAKEN.

Rebels Reported to Have Captured Dajabon After Long Fight.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Dajabon, San Domingo, has been captured by rebels from Haitian territory, according to State Department advices from Port-au-Prince. The fight, which resulted in the capture, lasted fourteen hours. The wounded numbered two hundred. The rebels, it it reported, crossed from Ouanaminthe, Haiti.

The Dominican Government claims the defeat of the rebels there with great losses. Rights of foreigners and nationals are being respected, and the Custom House is undisturbed.

The United States gunboat Petrel is at Puerto Plata.

CLASH ON SUGAR BILL.

House Democrats Serve Fight Notice on Bristow-Lodge Measure.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—House conferrees on the Sugar Tariff bill, led by Representative Underwood, have served notice on the Senate conferrees that under no circumstances will they accept the Bristow-Lodge Sugar bill passed two weeks ago by the Senate.

"The measure is not a Democratic bill," said Representative Underwood to-day, "and does not meet the ideas of the House as to what a genuine revision of the sugar tariff should be."

It became apparent to-day that there was little chance of an agreement upon a compromise sugar measure, and that efforts to bring about an agreement on the Excise Tax bill in line with the plans of the Democratic-Progressive alliance in the Senate might prove ineffective.

SENATE TO HELP LORIMER.

May Allow Him $40,000 — Has Turned In Bills for $100,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—An allowance of $35,000 or $40,000 may be made by the Senate to help William Lorimer defray the expenses of his three-year fight to retain his seat.

Mr. Lorimer has turned in bills amounting to $100,000 or $125,000. They have been referred to the Investigating Committee, which will make a statement to the Senate probably to-morrow that certain items, amounting from $35,000 to $40,000, would be a fair allowance if any be made.

UP-STATE TELEPHONE MERGER OPPOSED

Service Board Denies Petition to Consolidate Bell and Independent Companies.

OBJECTS TO HIGHER RATES

Subscribers in Plattsburg and Other Cities Were to be Charged More After Properties Were Acquired.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—The Public Service Commission, Second District, has denied the application to consolidate the independent and Bell companies in Northern New York. The resulting increase in rates is the reason for denying the application.

The petition of the Mountain Home Telephone Company was for authority to issue stock and bonds and of the Adirondack Home Telephone Company and New York Telephone Company for approval of the transfer of certain local franchises to the Mountain Home Telephone Company. The Mountain Home and Adirondack Home companies are commonly known as the Griswold independent lines, the Mountain Home Company doing business in the county of Essex, and the Adirondack Home and the New York companies being competitors in the Counties of St. Lawrence, Franklin and Clinton.

The competing exchanges are located at Canton, Potsdam, Norwood, Chateaugay, Malone, Saranac Lake, Dannemora, and Plattsburg.

The commission points out that it is entirely competent for the companies to transfer the physical properties without the consent of this commission under the law as it stands. It is, however, proposed that the Mountain Home Company shall issue stock and bonds in payment for these properties, but this cannot be done without the consent of the commission. There are also some local franchises belonging to the Adirondack Home Company and the New York Telephone Company which cannot be transferred without the consent of the commission.

In the denial of the application the commission recites that the general purposes of the consolidation meets with the approval of the commission, and the amount of stock and bonds to be issued is upon the evidence submitted reasonable for the purposes required. It then says:

"It is shown that in order to retain the present service in Malone, 239 subscribers would find their rate increased under the proposed schedule, $12 each. In Plattsburg, 280 would be increased a like amount, 49 would be increased $6 each, and 1,088 would be increased $3 each. In Potsdam, 96 would be increased $6 each, and 480 would be increased $3 each. In Canton, 228 would be increased $3 each. If the application be granted it is clear that these increases are unavoidable and a necessary result of the action of the commission.

$500,000 Laundered Bills Out To-day

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—More than a half million dollars of old paper money, the first to be washed and ironed to the crispness of new in the Federal Government's currency laundry, will be placed in circulation to-morrow.

FAVOR PATENT LAW REVISION.

Oldfield Bill to Prevent Monopoly Reported to the House.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The Oldfield bill to revise the patent laws to meet the recent patent monopoly decision of the Supreme Court was reported to the House to-day by Chairman Oldfield of the Patent Committee. The bill seeks to set aside the decision which insured the right to an inventor to stipulate the kind of materials used or sold in connection with a patented device. It seeks to cure alleged evils arising from the vendor of a patented article, fixing the price at which the article may be resold.

The committee also has attempted to prevent the suppression of patented devices sold to manufacturers by inventors. The ability of manufacturers to withhold an invention from the market is said to have restrained competition.

Referring to the Supreme Court decision, the committee says that under the argument advanced by the vendors of patented articles a commission merchant could fix the price of eggs by distributing them in a patented carton, or the pork packer could fix the price of lard to the consumer by naming a price at which the lard in a patented container could be retailed.

It also says that the logic, if carried further, would fix the price of a shave given in a patented barber chair.

CONFEDERATE MONEY EXHIBIT

Currency of '61 Is Being Distributed as Historical Relics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The hoard of Confederate currency seized by the Union Army during the civil war, which has been stored in the Federal Treasury for half a century is being distributed among institutions the country over for preservation as historical relics.

Already sets of these notes, including practically every denomination, have been sent to 300 colleges and 350 libraries, and the clamor for specimens has not been satisfied.

Secretary MacVeagh is supplying the larger institutions first and gradually working down to the smaller ones, exercising care to see that every State in the Union receives its just proportion of the currency to show to posterity.

Making World Tour to Study Forestry

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Pio Correa, naturalist of the Botanical Gardens at Rio de Janeiro, who is spending two years on a world tour studying the forest preservation and restoration systems of various countries in preparation for Brazil's adoption of forest conservation work, is in Washington to-day. He will visit a number of the national parks and forest reservations of the United States before starting for Japan and the Orient to continue his work.

House Passes Agricultural Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The conference report on the Agricultural Appropriation bill was adopted by the House today and now goes to the President. The measure carries $16,651,496, an increase of $718,130 over the amount originally appropriated.

$1,020,000 for Atlanta Post Office.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Cost of the construction of the new Post Office at Atlanta, Ga., was limited to $1,020,000 in a bill passed to-day by the Senate. An appropriation of $1,000,000 was originally made, but an increase was found necessary.

INVESTMENT HOUSES IN NATIONAL UNION

New Association of Bankers Formed Here for Uniform Handling of Securities.

COMPLAIN OF LEGISLATION

Speakers Attack Attitude of States and Nation Toward Railroads and Capital.

More than 125 men representing houses whose business is the distribution of bonds met yesterday afternoon, at the Waldorf-Astoria for the organization and first convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America. As chairman of the convention, Vice President George B. Caldwell of the Continental Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago met them with a speech in which he said:

"The time is here when it is our duty to use every means at hand to improve our securities, to stand together as against an inviting field, for the many houses daily springing up have little or no capital, likewise experience, and, what it more dangerous, little care for what they offer beyond their ability to market and their immediate profit."

At a dinner last evening the investment bankers had for their toastmaster A. G. Hoyt of N. W. Halsey & Co., New York, and the speaker of the evening was W. W. Miller of Hornblower, Miller & Potter. At the close of his speech Mr. Miller wished the new association godspeed in "their work of protecting the investors of America and of obtaining the cash requirements for the legitimate development of the resources and industrices of the country." Mr. Caldwell was elected President and Frederick Fenton of Chicago Secretary. The Treasurer is C. T. Williams of Baltimore. The five Vice Presidents elected were A. B. Leach of New York, Frank W. Rollins of Boston, William R. Compton of St. Louis, Louis B. Franklin of New York, and Warren S. Hayden of Cleveland.

The afternoon session was largely taken up with the speech of Mr. Caldwell and the reports of committees on nominations and on the constitution, of which the preamble sets forth these purposes:

> To promote the general welfare and influence of investment banks, or bankers, likewise banking institutions operating bond departments, and to secure uniformity of action, both in legislation and in methods of handling securities, together with the practical benefits to be derived from personal acquaintance, and for the discussion of subjects of importance to the banking and commercial interests of the country, which affect the investing public, and for protection against loss by crime, or through willful and irresponsible dealers in investment securities, and to surround the offerings of its members with greater safeguards, whereby they will enjoy the broadest markets possible, both at home and abroad.

After sketching the possible lines of co-operation, such as the bending of united efforts to obtain greater uniformity in State laws governing the issuance of municipal securities and the standardization of the laws of the various States creating Public Service Commissions, Mr. Caldwell said:

"During the past two years we have been sending large amounts of capital to Europe and Canada, yet our railroads are unable to secure capital at home in large amounts, for the long period needed for financing necessary improvements, at rates they can afford to pay. Some have borrowed abroad, while many others are at a standstill. In sharp contrast to our situation is the extensive railroad building now being carried on in Canada under a fostering influence of a liberal government policy. It is my opinion that public sentiment in our own country has become so prejudiced against our railroads and their past management that we are sufferers from our efforts to readjust our methods on what we allege are more conservative lines. Is there any assurance that this same period of reaction will not attach to other forms of corporation financing? In fact, is it not already here? And should not Bankers' Associations, Chambers of Commerce, Manufacturers' Associations, &c., unite for the protection of our industries, which can best be secured, it seems to me, by a campaign of honest publicity and a broader education of our great army of voters, who periodically are used to create this adverse sentiment until the truth is made to appeal to them. Is it not time for us to recognize the value and importance of public sentiment and lend a hand to support markets for our securities at home and abroad, at least when public sentiment runs against us?"

In advising the new association as to its course and its possibilities, Eugene E. Prussing, a Chicago lawyer, laid great emphasis on the value for education.

Some of the methods he suggested were the separation of securities into their various classes and the clear definition of the respective value, qualities and functions of each class; the classification and regulation of the men engaged in the profession and the proper definition of the functions and place in the community of the investment banker.

The investment bankers, before organizing independently, sought at first to organize as a section of the American Bankers' Association, but this proposition was not cordially received. At yesterday's session Frederick R. Fenton of Devitt, Tremble & Co., Chicago and Philadelphia, acted as secretary. Other bankers present were Thomas J. Bolger and Lee B. Durstine of Bolker, Mosser & Williman, Chicago; James T. Woodward of Spencer Trask & Co.; Robert H. Cox of the Guaranty Trust Company, New York; C. H. Schweppe of Lee, Higginson & Co., Boston; C. W. McNear of Woodin, McNear & Moore, Chicago; Charles R. Dunn of the Union Trust Company, Detroit; W. W. Goldsborough of the Pittsburgh Trust Company; L. Chamberlain of Kountze Bros., New York; R. C. Newton and K. L. Fleming of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, New York; John L. Wilkie of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and H. W. Briggs of E. H. Rollins & Co., Boston.

ARE LOBSTERS ANIMALS?

Cruelty Case Against Philadelphia Chef Too Much for Judge.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—Admitting that he was unequal to the task of classifying the lobster in the realm of living creatures, Police Magistrate Haggerty held to-day John Haudocaur, chef of a local hotel, in $100 bail to answer a charge of cruelty to animals by placing a wooden peg in the first joint back of the claw of a lobster to prevent it from snapping. Complaint was lodged against Haudocaur by a member of the Women's Branch of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who saw the "pegged" lobster on exhibition in a window of the hotel grill. A preliminary hearing in the case was held last week.

Two lawyers, an amateur fisherman from Maine, a member of the cruelty society, and the proprietor of the hotel argued the case to-day, but it was too much for the Magistrate. The cruelty representatives pleaded that dumb animals have feelings, and that the chef was guilty of cruelty.

Haudocaur's friends argued that the charge fell because the lobster was not an animal.

"It's too much for me," said the Magistrate. "I'll hold the defendant and let the court decide the matter."

Of No Value for Gold-Plated Timekeepers, Say Jewelers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 8.—Hereafter the purchaser of a gold-plated watch takes chances. The old inscription "Guaranteed for twenty years" has become entirely too common, and, so far as the American National Retail Jewelers' Association is concerned, its virtue is now nothing. A resolution was adopted at the convention of the association to-day abolishing the time guarantee on gold-plated watches and jewelry.

Following an address by H. E. Duncan of Waltham, Mass., a resolution was adopted providing that a committee arrange with the United States Government for wireless time service for jewelers. The plan is that every jeweler have a receiver to catch the time flashed from the new Government wireless station at Arlington. More accurate setting and regulation of watches would follow, it was said.

The association decided upon the following revised list of birthstones: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone and aquamarine; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, pearl and moonstone; July, ruby; August, sardonyx and peridot; September, sapphire; October, opal and tourmaline; November, topaz; December, turquoise and lapis lazuli.

McKINLEY CLIMBERS RETURN.

Parker Expedition Leaves the Yukon on Homeward Trip.

DAWSON, Alaska, Aug. 8.—The four members of the Herschel Parker expedition, which explored the eastern slope of Mount McKinley and attained an altitude of 20,000 feet on the mountain, being turned back by a storm when near the summit, departed for Seattle on Monday.

The party not only charted a large area now blank on the maps, but demonstrated the possibility of reaching the top of the great mountain by the northern or Muldrow glacier route.

TALES of the TURKISH TROPHIES

TALE 14 — THE ROYAL FORECASTER

"WELL," said the Kink, as the Royal Forecaster came before him for sentence, "your weather dope has been wrong 99 times out of 100 for the past 10 years. What excuse have you for holding your job?"

"Sire," answered the Weather Man, humbly, "three years ago I put the Turk in Turkish Trophies."

"And for that," said the Kink sadly, "I will let you try to pick the Ki out of Kibosh when you reach the foot of the toboggan."

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, AUG. 9, 1912.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE.

We now have platforms of the three leading parties, and the views of the three leading candidates, and it is necessary to regard the issues of the campaign as joined completely. Even pessimists must agree that the bad news is all out. Those willing to take brighter views so far as reason warrants have firmer grounds than the negative fact that no more bad news is possible. There is positive good news in the fact that all three candidates agree, however the phrases of the platforms may be thought to disagree, on one thing. No one of the three candidates who alone can be elected is willing to be thought enlisted in the war on business. Even more encouraging is the fact that no one of them could continue the war on business even if so disposed. The country's record shows that Presidents with personal policies have most trouble with Congress, and that Presidents of moderate views have accomplished more of their programmes. Nothing can be more certain than that the election of the candidate with extremest views is the surest way alike to stormy times and least accomplishment.

That any one of the candidates should bid for the moderate vote would not be surprising, but it is one of the strongest signs of the trend of the temper of the times that all three agree in their avowals that business should have a fair chance. They are the men with the strongest reasons to be right in their judgment, and with the best sources of information, and in this they are of one mind. Yet they did not discern the change in the popular temper first. The tide turned with the declaration of the rule of reason by the selfsame tribunal which originally rejected it. The Supreme Court in an excess of deference to the elective branch of our Government, the branch whose duty it is to declare Government policies for all the people, ruled that its words meant what they said, and that reasonable "restraints of trade" were unlawful by statute. This was not Judge-made law, but the edict of those with power to make it.

This country has never experienced such prosperity as in the era of the neglect of the statute as thus interpreted, and the country has hovered on the edge of suffocation of enterprise ever since the law has been enforced in the sense of the words of the statute interpreted in the dictionary meaning. The improvement in the intrinsic and political conditions dates from the time that the court reversed itself, and interpreted the statute in a manner which makes it a terror to the bad and a protection to the good. Close on the heels of the "rule of reason" came the "rule of right," and countless similar phrases. All have the secret now except the impossibles.

On this record it is impossible to contend that the people cannot enact the law they want, or that the Supreme Court is deaf to the cry of the people. Some purists may contend that it is too easy for the people to enact unwise statutes, and that the Supreme Court is too responsive to popular movements for its own repute. The result shows rather that all is for the best in the best of worlds, and that the world's best institutions are those which they have the least chance of overthrowing who assail them most hotly.

It is not the first time the country has had this experience. It has been led to the brink of distress in the name of universal happiness before, and always the common sense of the moderates has saved the country from its saviors. Now as before, the courts have saved the country from altering its attitude toward property in the name of humanity, and now as before the country is rallying to the defense of the courts upon second and better thoughts. The country fears no legislation which is not confiscatory, and which is for the interest of all. The country has no fear of tariff reform, and now dismisses its fears of the manner of the reform. The country favors legislation in the true interest of all labor, and will have nothing to do with legislation in the interest of trades union leaders alone in the name of labor. The country is reviving from the unrestrained rule of the people, and will like the rule of reason, and the rule of right, better every day it lives with them.

The country has been said to be full of latent prosperity, and is now receiving its license to thrive like the crops. We have the promise of a billion more bushels of all grains than earlier in the season. Unless every sign fails the bins will soon be bursting, and the railways will be taxed to move all the new wealth. There is no natural obstacle to times as good as we ever knew. Only those who despair of the people should despair of prosperity, and the people never yet have persisted in the wrong too long for their own interests.

THE PANAMA TOLLS BILL.

The Panama tolls bill is now so bad that hope lies in that very fact. When the House comes to consider the Senate's proposals there will be another opportunity to reflect upon the folly of enacting a lawsuit with every reasonable prospect of defeat. And beyond that lies the prospect of a veto, whose likelihood grows with each new amendment, and almost with each amendment which is rejected. The thinness of the ice on which the coastwise monopolists and subsidy hunters are treading is shown by the vote to admit foreign-built vessels to American registry if owned by Americans. As the matter now stands, the economics of the bill are as objectionable as the ethics.

Discrimination in tolls is bad business on the canal as surely as on the railways. The usefulness of the canal will be proportioned to the volume of commerce through it, and not to the profits of any fraction of carrying trade, whether domestic or foreign, or railway or steamship. The true policy regarding tolls should be the stimulation of commerce, but the actual policy has reference to obstruction of commerce with a view of distributing trade artificially between competitors for it. It is proposed to forbid railways to compete for traffic through the canal, both by forbidding them to carry it in their steamships and by forbidding them to lower their rates in competition with those to be favored by exemption from tolls. It is as clear as sunlight that those tolls will not be applied to reduction of freight rates, but will be carried straight to profit and loss account. The forbidding of the reduction of railway rates will fix a standard up to which all regular steamship lines will mark their rates. And the prohibition of transportation through the canal in railway-owned steamships will confine the utility of the canal in American commerce to trade between the coasts. The seacoast cities will profit at the expense of the interior of the continent, which has paid the greater part of the cost of the canal. The canal was not built for the benefit of a strip of coast territory. All other territory can be advantaged only as canal traffic is collected and distributed by railways, and it is proposed to debar them from the trade. In short, the policy now under consideration is one of mingled futility and dishonor, obnoxious alike to the man of business, the lawyer, and the patriot.

CRIME, NORTH AND SOUTH.

"A favorite amusement of a certain "type of Northern newspapers," says Dr. C. M. Blackford in a long letter to The Staunton (Va.) News, "has been "to magnify every outbreak of crime "that has occurred south of the Potomac River, and making it appear that "the whole South is a home of lawlessness and violence, in which life and "property is in constant danger." There is some justification undoubtedly for this protest, but it is only a "certain type of Northern newspaper," and not the whole body of the Northern press that indulges in this sectional treatment of crime. It is also true, as Dr. Blackford says, that "the attitude "of Gov. Mann in our Virginia cases "contrasts very favorably with that of "Mayor Gaynor in the Rosenthal "case;" but that does not prove that murderous crimes are not of very frequent occurrence in the South, and that crime in the South goes unpunished just as it goes unpunished in the North.

We are all inclined overmuch to unload on our neighbors, to expose their shortcomings without due observation of our own, to magnify their faults for the purpose of concealing our own, to "note with alarm for the safety of our institutions" the wholesale slaughter of the court at Hillsville while neglecting the punishment of the gangsters in New York; but the fact is that all Northern newspapers, particularly those that are published in New York, have denounced with all the force at command the Rosenthal murder in this town, and have printed volumes of denunciation, not only of the crime itself, but of the inefficiency of our public officers whose lax or indifferent or criminal course in dealing with the lawless in this community made such a crime possible. The course pursued by the "Northern newspapers" in this case is the course they have generally taken in their treatment of all such cases in this part of the country. Their disposition is to punish crime, not the section in which it is committed, and that, it seems to us, is a fair and right and necessary thing for them to do.

Murder done by the mob, however, is as much murder as when it is done by the individual, and it is worth the attention of Dr. Blackford and other protestants who would draw the sectional line in killings, perhaps, that in the years between 1885 and 1911, both years inclusive, 3,361 lynchings were committed in the United States. We cannot just now give the lynchings by sections, but we do not think that it is an overestimate to say that at least 3,000 of these lynchings were done in the Southern States. In 1911 there were 65 lynchings in the United States, and of these 61 were done in the South. A few newspapers in that part of the country, with a courage which was altogether heroic, denounced these bloody deeds; but how many of the lynchers have been punished? It is never safe for the pot to call the kettle black. There was, however, a very good rule in Jerusalem—every man was expected to sweep before his own door.

THE NEW MAHDI.

El Mahdi, or "The Well Directed One," is said to have been promised by Mohammed that he should rule the world temporally and spiritually and convert it to the true faith. "The Shiites," we are told, "believe that he has already appeared"; but the facts would seem to show that he did not arrive until Tuesday of the present week, and that his first appearance as a regular prophet was to a very distinguished and impressionable and religious assembly in the Coliseum of Chicago. Many have come who claimed to be the Mahdi, but they had no papers to prove their right to the title and could not prove it. None of them ever made speeches or edited, even in a contributing way, a hebdomadal, or sought to "inaugurate a reign of truth and justice on earth," which we are assured was to be the long suit of the Real Thing when he should come, and by this token, if by no other, we should be able to judge of the true Mahdi who has just appeared. In addition, we have some eighteen thousand words as "corroborative details."

About thirty years ago an impostor, one of whose names was Achmet, made his appearance on the White Nile, and by his "learning, austerities (from "which it may be inferred that he "even drank buttermilk) and apparent "piety," though branded as an impostor by the Grand Sherif of Mecca, excited "delirious enthusiasm" among the Mussulmans, notwithstanding that the Arabs and Ottomans treated him with derision. He was a mighty warrior, however, and fought with terrible ferocity and a holy devotion, sparing none of his enemies. Four expeditions sent against him by the Egyptian Government were defeated, an Anglo-Egyptian army commanded by Hicks Pasha, consisting of ten thousand soldiers and with forty European officers, was annihilated, only two persons escaping with their lives, and a little later Gordon Pasha was captured and put to death with his army at Khartoum.

There was nothing like truth and justice in the bloody work of that monster, and he went the way of all the impostors who had preceded him, to be followed now, and over in our land of Armageddon, the asylum for the oppressed of all nations, by the true Mahdi, learned, austere, and apparently pious, and bent only on securing social justice for all the people, excepting the colored delegates from the South, even if it shall become necessary in the unfolding of his plans to fight for it and to break up all the trusts that are not with him in his battling for the Lord. It would appear from the reports that have come from Chicago that those who have been in his presence have been affected with a deeply religious, not to say "a delirious enthusiasm," and that the Mahdi is marching on and will never sound retreat, and, besides, is trampling out a good deal of vintage in his race for the White House.

BENIGHTED HEATHEN.

If by "heathen" is meant people of the heath, bushwhackers, narrow, fearful, superstitious, and untrained, the farmers of Belgium and of Great Britain might class the farmers of the United States in this category. India is admittedly a land of the heathen. That empire shows it by the fact that its agriculture is at so low a stage that the yield of wheat per hectare this year, according to the Bulletin of the International Institute of Agriculture, is but 8.1 quintals. Yet the East Indian heathen are but little worse than the American farmers, who, according to this year's estimates, are producing but 9.4 quintals of wheat per hectare, as compared with Great Britain's 21.2 quintals and Belgium's 26. Belgium last year produced 26 quintals, Great Britain 21.9 quintals, and the United States but 8.4, one-tenth of a quintal above India's yield in a hectare.

The Croatians and the Slavs are producing this year 18 quintals of barley to each hectare, as compared with 13.8 quintals in the United States, and 30—more than twice the yield—in Belgium. Of oats the thrifty Belgian farmers will harvest 25 quintals for every 10.8 quintals harvested in the United States. Some time, we hope and fervently pray, the American farmer will rise to the level of civilization which the farmers of Europe have attained.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

There can be no logical argument against the proposal, yearly mooted in England, to set clocks forward an hour on April 1, returning the hour hand to its usual place on Sept. 1, so that an "extra hour of daylight will be available for amusement after business "hours." The sun rises earlier in the Summer. Why not set the clocks to suit? But why should men, who are naturally thatched, wear hats? Why should not the simplified spellers and their more logical phonetic brethren have their way?

Prof. H. H. Turner argues, reasonably enough, in the scientific quarterly called Bedrock of London, that scientific interests would hardly be endangered by the proposed change; that the interest of science is in the minute and second hands, not in the hour hand. Then, too, each country keeps a different time. When railways were projected across the American Continent it became necessary to call international conferences to evolve a universal time system, associating the hours with specific meridians. The conferences were held, and now there are twenty-four separate "times" of an hour's difference around the world.

If the proposal to set forward the clock in Summer so as to regulate the doings of society, according to Prof. Turner's praiseworthy purpose, had been presented at Rome in 1881, or at Washington in 1884, while the conferences were in session, something might have come of it. The only real objection to the reform is that it is not very important and lacks an occasion.

RAGTIME MUSIC AND POLITICS.

Our urbane London contemporaries regard Mr. Roosevelt's declaration of faith as "a bewildering farrago of Jacobinism," which, we are pained to read, he has borrowed from British politics. He has assimilated, we learn from these undoubted authorities, all the Socialist and radical doctrines which have been afloat in European and especially British politics, and he has invested them "with a strange atmosphere of vulgarity." His borrowings from these sources, we learn, are not likely to increase the reticence and refinement of American politics. These comments are British, it must be remembered, and it is impossible to read them without pain and surprise. It would seem that the brilliancy of the Colonel's fireworks blinds these London commentators to the delicate methods of the ladies in British politics who have just been convicted of incendiarism, and of throwing a hatchet at the Premier.

But we are to have our revenge. The Director of the London Hippodrome is aboard ship coming hither to investigate our ragtime novelties for importation. London, it seems, has an appetite for our syncopation which is comparable only to our appetite for British ideas on social justice. They are truly welcome to our ragtime tunes, but we truly wish that they had and would retain a monopoly of their ragtime politics. A fair exchange is no robbery, but this is a unilateral bargain, in which they get all the profit, and we take all the loss, the full extent of which is not now subject to computation.

Down in South Carolina the people are living over the strenuous times of 1890, when Wade Hampton and Butler and other men of their kind, who had done great service to the State, were howled down to make way for the new era under Tillman and The Rule of the People. It would seem that the Mob is in the saddle.

Superstitious persons believe in signs. The gigantic Douglas fir tree in Ravenna Park, Seattle, which was named in honor of Mr. Roosevelt, and which has been in a bad way for some time, and which is more than ten feet in diameter and two hundred feet tall, has been condemned to be cut down.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Pittsburgh Has a Grievance. With a fine semblance of mingled grief and rage The Pittsburgh Post complains that this paper recently devoted a whole page to telling about "an amazing battle for decency" which has been waged in the not-so-smoky-as-it-used-to-be city. The average Pittsburgher, it says, "burns with honest indignation at "the persistency with which the old story "is kept going the rounds," and it thinks that the New York newspapers neglect their own "more prolific field" when they look to Pittsburgh for stories of crime and municipal corruption.

It may seem strange to some that any paper should object to any revelation, no matter how long or how often repeated, of the fact that a fight for decency has been and is going on in its town. The mystery vanishes, however, when it is known or remembered that this particular battle has been marked by the peculiarity that the Pittsburgh papers not only refused to take any part in it, but did what they could to hinder the reform movement, usually by refusing to print anything about it, and not infrequently by open antagonism.

Now, it is true, as The Post says, that New York is not so virtuous that it can safely affect to be horrified even by Pittsburgh; it is true that most of the known crimes are committed here with lamentable frequency, and that the official exploitation of vice and ignorance has been carried as far here as anywhere in the country. What is not true, however, is the Post's implication that the New York papers neglect this "prolific field" to seek sensations from afar.

Their fault, Mayor Gaynor would tell it, is of a contrary kind—they are only too ready, he thinks, to "scandalize the city." Certainly they are not the agents or the defenders of grafters, nor do they vainly imagine that it is worth while to maintain the repute of a city by concealing the sins of its officials or of its private citizens. For the one page about Pittsburgh's evils—and the beginning of their righting—The Times has contained, within not many years, at least a thousand about those of New York, and it, with the rest of the metropolitan press, has been ever ready with all the assistance it could give in every "battle for decency."

When the Pittsburgh press can say as much, its argument of "You're another!" will have more weight. That won't be to-day nor yet to-morrow.

Men and Buttons Debated. There appeared on this page yesterday a letter from a feminine correspondent who said that before men talked any more about the inability of women to throw a ball or a stone with any approach to accuracy it would be well for them to acquire the simple art of bringing buttons and buttonholes into their predestinate relation. The writer of the letter admitted that men are not entirely without this capacity—that after a fashion they could perform the task. She insisted, however, that they did it clumsily, "with groans and worse," and that over it they wasted innumerable hours of valuable time, their own and other people's. So she suggested that lessons in buttoning, after the Montessori method, be given to boys as a part of their earliest education.

In defense of the sex which now is the object of so many attacks, we assert earnestly, even passionately, that men are just as skillful buttoners as women. Now and then, indeed, one of them may indulge in "groans and worse" while making fast his collar or putting in his cufflinks, but these are labors of especial difficulty. What may be called plain buttoning men do with ease, speed, and grace, and they need no help or training from Dr. Montessori or anybody else.

That not all of them can button the buttons of other people as well is neither surprising nor shameful. Even that they will learn to do long before woman readjusts her shoulder blades and collarbones, and so attains the free-arm swing necessary for throwing stones efficiently. At any rate, they could learn to do it if they would, and they would, too, were it not for the conviction firmly implanted in the masculine mind that for one person so to place his—no, her, for men never do it—so to place her buttons that she cannot reach them herself is so unnecessary, unreasonable, inconsiderate, just-like-a-woman-for-all-the-world. For her to complain about the quality of the assistance generously given her is proof of—it wouldn't do to say what.

Moreover, there is high authority for saying that not all men are unadroit even now in the performance of the toil forced on them by this race endangering practice of putting buttons on wrong. Weakly yielding to the demands of the fair, some can already do the job with never a groan and without even a thought of "worse." They have their reward, no doubt, yet let them beware the day when they shall be brought to an accounting by brothers clumsier but more faithful to the primordial proprieties.

Cause for Action, Not Alarm. Before getting much excited over the official report that of the country's 20,000,000 school children "not "less than 75 per cent. need attention to-"day for physical defects which are "prejudicial to health and which are "partially or completely remediable," several things should be considered.

In the first place, some millions of the ailing ones are already getting from Medical Inspectors at least a part of the attention they need, and that is more than can be said of the children who lived in any other age than this. In the next place, the statement as to the 75 per cent. is little more than another way of putting the fact that the human being, young or old, whom a doctor would call in every way all right, is now and always was a rather rare bird. Somehow or other, nevertheless, the race as a whole has managed to get along—and up.

These reassurances are not offered with any idea of denying importance to Dr. Wood's report or of putting any obstacle in the way of getting for the children the care required for remedying, partially or wholly, the defects prejudicial to their health. That humanity has made a certain amount of progress with comparatively little care of this sort would be the worst of reasons for not doing what we can to increase the rate of advance.

The neglect of children is about the worst of crimes, now that we no longer have the excuse of ignorance.

DENIES TALE ABOUT MEXICO.

Ambassador Calero Publishes Query to Henry Lane Wilson and His Reply.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You have so often proved to me your true friendship for Mexico that I beg to make the following statement to be published in The Times, for which courtesy I should thank you most sincerely:

Obvious reasons forbid the diplomatic representative of a foreign nation from indulging in a controversy with the press of the country before whose Government he is accredited. Consistent therewith I have, in my capacity of Ambassador of Mexico, systematically refrained from replying to the many misstatements that are every day being published in newspapers of the United States. The Baltimore Star of Aug. 2, however, not only gives hospitality to many absurd vagaries of a so-called eye-witness, but comments editorially thereon, admitting thereby their authenticity. One paragraph makes an affirmation of so grave a nature as not to permit me to pass it by unnoticed. I have accordingly telegraphed the Hon. Henry Lane Wilson, the distinguished American Ambassador in Mexico, in the following terms:

> Washington, D. C., Aug. 5, 1912.
>
> The Hon. Henry Lane Wilson, American Ambassador, Mexico City, Mexico:
>
> The Baltimore Star says editorially: "American women, passing through the streets of Mexican towns, are practically denuded and made the objects of the insulting ridicule of an immoral populace." Would you kindly telegraph me your opinion on such statement?
>
> (Signed) MANUEL CALERO.

Ambassador Wilson replied on the 6th inst. as follows:

> Your telegram relative to statement American newspaper, this Embassy has no knowledge, official or unofficial, of American women being driven nude through the streets in Mexican towns, and, in the absence of Consular advices, cannot but believe that such stories are either inventions or sensational exaggerations. The Embassy has knowledge of large numbers of Americans abandoning their homes in Chihuahua and Sonora, but understands the exodus to be due to apprehension of violent acts rather than the result thereof.

Post Office Smoke Nuisance.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was interested in your remarks about soft coal burning a few days ago, and in that connection beg to say that of all consumers of bituminous coal in this city there is no individual, firm, or corporation that has so openly, continuously, and persistently defied every effort of the Board of Health to put a stop to the nuisance as the officials of the New York Post Office, who evidently do not consider themselves amenable to the law regarding this particular matter. Consequently the New York Post Office Building continues to contribute its quota of black smoke to the atmosphere, setting meanwhile a very bad example to others who offend in the same way, and openly defying the Board of Health to interfere.

THE RUBBER ATROCITIES

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with much interest Robert Isaac's account of his personal experiences in the Putumayo River region, recently published in the Magazine Section of The Sunday Times. Full corroboration of all his statements will be found in affidavits from various sources published in The London Truth in 1909 and 1910. Mr. Isaac was fortunate, indeed, in not having witnessed worse outrages than those he recounts, such, for instance, as you will find detailed in The London Truth of Nov. 3, 1909, and also in several issues of September and October of the same year.

One most important point to which I beg to call your attention is that all the outrages and depredations committed in the vast solitude of the Putumayo forests have been encouraged by the Peruvian authorities, who have constantly supported the predatory operations of the firm of J. Arana y Hermanos—the originators of the Peruvian Amazon Rubber Company—in order to obtain forceful possession of territories which do not belong, and never have belonged, to Peru. All the territory drained by the Putumayo and Caqueta Rivers belongs to Colombia, whose title thereto is absolutely incontrovertible. The rubber is found in vast, untouched virgin forests, which Colombia has not yet been able to develop by successful and humane colonization. Her neighbor's greed is unhalted by considerations of human life—hence the atrocities, to commit which Peru has not hesitated to invade the territory of a sister republic.

ROOSEVELT, NEAR-SOCIALIST.

The Call Finds His Doctrines Such That It Fears They'll Win Away Votes

From The Call (Socialist.)

The entrance of Roosevelt with a radical platform, involving practically everything popularly known as "State Socialism," is too palpable to permit us to make any mistake about the outlook for the present campaign. There is absolutely no doubt that Theodore's platform will attract thousands, possibly hundreds of thousands, of voters whose ballots would have been cast for the Socialist candidates had Theodore not entered the field in this manner.

We shall drive Roosevelt and his kind ever further along the path to socialism; we shall force them to paint their "red herrings" ever more red. We have driven them thus far, and we shall never let up until we have driven them either clear into socialism or back into their original position of antagonism toward us without mask or disguise. For well we know that in their "State socialism" there is no permanent abiding place. Forward and ever forward they must go before the growing irresistible pressure of socialism or else turn in their tracks and fight.

He has "stolen our thunder." So be it. We have lost nothing, but socialism has gained. It compels even its enemies to serve its purposes. While we work, we, too, can watch and wait, with that terrible patience which generations of capitalist exploitation has made second nature to us. If we cannot immediately rend the capitalist system to pieces, we can force its champions to do the preliminary tearing and shredding of the rotten old system, and it is not altogether an unpleasant sight to behold. We are not exactly the same brand of "political party" as the others. There's a difference. We can even forego votes to note the spectacle of the Bull Moose on the rampage in the capitalist china shop. Our business is the destruction of capitalism by any means and every means—any old way that the damnable system can be weakened for the final sweeping off the earth suits us.

A GOOD WORD FOR MURPHY.

Democrat Deprecates Jumps of Reform from Frying Pan to Fire.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been very closely following the political news in the columns of The Times, and have noted the movement for the organization of the Empire State Democracy, but do not believe that it is going to amount to much. The rank and file of the New York County Democracy are better satisfied with the conduct of affairs in Tammany Hall than they have been for a long time. I am satisfied that Mr. Murphy is giving more recognition to independent Democrats than they have ever received from the organization in many years, and that the condition is far more tolerable than it has been in the past, although there is still much to be desired in that direction.

But Mr. Murphy has a hard task, and I believe he is trying his best. You cannot expect an ideal situation in the management of a political organization in a cosmopolitan city like New York, where it is almost impossible for the voice of the people to be adequately heard, and where machine politics is essential in order to retain the following of the large ignorant foreign population.

Many years ago, when the County Democracy was organized as a protest against Tammany Hall and for some years secured the control of the City Government, its management in the end drifted into the hands of professional politicians with a far less sense of responsibility than those who now dominate Tammany Hall. The only cure for this condition is to have the leaders of the party take part in the affairs of the regular Democratic organization, and this it is but just to Mr. Murphy to say he has been encouraging, so that he has to-day better and broader advisers than Tammany Hall has ever had in the past.

Defends Male "Buttoners."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the letter addressed to you by Christine Ladd Franklin, I would like to impress upon your estimable correspondent that it is not in buttoning our own clothing that "we men" have trouble. But when we have to tug and swear for fifteen minutes trying to button the back of the wife's shirt waist, (or whatever they call it,) then it is time for us to protest. And to make it more annoying, the woman will stand and laugh, not aloud, but with that sardonic, sarcastic grin of contempt which only a woman is capable of.

Yes; let us have buttonhole schools if this thing is to be kept up. But I am glad I am not a woman.

Can't even have a pocket in their dress!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When the Police Commissioner in his recent defensive statement made a point of the arrest of a certain gambler thirteen times in the course of a year I wondered whether he appreciated the difference between that and one effectual arrest, and now in the light of Rose's statement I am wondering still.

THE WATER NYMPH.

Rich and rare was the suit she wore,
As she came out of the bathhouse door;
But oh! its texture was far beyond
What 'tis wise to wear in the herring pond.

"Lady, dost thou not fear to stray,
Beside the ocean, so near the spray?
Your stylish bathing suit, behold,
Will be sadly marred by his waters cold."

"Sir Knight! I feel not the least alarm,
And my bathing suit will suffer no harm;
For, though I enjoy old ocean's roar,
Sir Knight! I love my appearance more."

On she went, and her suit, meanwhile,
Old ocean's waters did not defile;
For though she wandered along the tide,
The sun's was the only bath she tried!

ROOSEVELT ECHOES MARX, SAYS BERGER

Appeals to Restive Middle Class, Not to Enlightened Labor, Congressman Declares.

WEAKEST ON TRUST ISSUE

But Will Be Remembered as an Aggressive Propagandist for the Socialist Party.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The long expected confession of faith of Theodore Roosevelt finally came, and came some 18,000 words long. The Colonel evidently had much to confess. Yet, in spite of its length, it is a very readable document—it was written by an able writer.

Roosevelt's declaration will be remembered in history, because for the first time in history has a statesman of a non-socialist party recognized the class struggle, recognized the great economic revolution, and recognized the fact that the "tool-users" of the Nation are not the "tool-owners," but must become such if we are to remain a free Nation.

Until recently only the political demands of social democracy—the initiative, referendum and recall, and the enfranchisement of women—were adopted by so-called "Progressive" organizations. For the first time in our history a non-socialist party in our country now also appropriates some of our Socialist demands. And Mr. Roosevelt has gone a long way in the direction of State Socialism. He favors old-age pensions for workingmen, the care of workingmen's families in case of sickness, National and State laws in favor of compensation in case of accidents.

To use his own words, the hazards of sickness, accidents, invalidism, involuntary unemployment, and old age should be provided for through insurance. This is somewhat sweeping and general, but he recommends the studying of the German system of contributions from employer and employe, and adds, "Perhaps the people at large should also contribute." The Colonel evidently is not aware that Bismarck's plan is not satisfactory to either side in Germany.

Roosevelt would prohibit child labor—which is good. But he would also establish "wage commissions in the Nation and in each State" for the purpose of determining the "minimum wage"—and this is something that cannot be accomplished as long as the present economic system exists. This experiment will be the cause of the downfall of Lloyd-George in England. All that can be done now is to set up a wage standard in industries owned by the Nation.

Clearly socialistic is Roosevelt's phrase as to the necessity of "elimination of the middleman," and as to "legislation which would bring about a closer business relation between the farmer and the consumer." Mr. Roosevelt proposes to reduce the cost of living by eliminating the middleman—only he does not tell us how that is to be done under the capitalist system, without abolishing a large part of it.

His phrase that "ultimately the Government will have to join more efficiently than at present in strengthening the hands of the workingman" sounds well, but means little. Much better is what he says about "administrative control of great corporations." The final evolution of government to become simply an administrative function for the control of production carried on on the largest possible scale for the benefit of the collectivity is a Marxian idea and the ultimate aim of Socialism.

The weakest part of Roosevelt's programme is undoubtedly his stand on the trust question. With Perkins and McCormick at his elbow, however, this is not at all surprising.

On one hand Roosevelt declares that the foolish and impossible Sherman act should be upheld, and on the other he wants the trusts controlled "by the people collectively." By the way, I just want to call attention to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is using another Marxian expression when he is speaking about the people "controlling industries collectively."

"Our aim," says Mr. Roosevelt, "is to promote prosperity, and then to see to its proper division." But how can Mr. Roosevelt "see to the proper division" as long as the National wealth, or the large bulk of it, is owned by a few individuals? And how is he going to control this wealth collectively as long as it is owned privately?

We can only control what we own. As long as a few individuals own most of the wealth of the Nation it is only natural that they should use it for their own private benefit. Any attempt to control these individuals by "commissions" can only result in tyranny or corruption, or both.

What Mr. Roosevelt has to say about the tariff is rather sensible. He has come down from his high tariff perch. He now only advocates "protection as a principle approached from the standpoint of all people." He proposes a test for the protection of any industry "the share labor receives." That is the view taken by the Australian working class, and by most of the Social-Democratic economists.

What he says about the money question is too general, and smacks too much of greenbackism to make his plan feasible under the capitalist system.

Mr. Roosevelt calls his programme a "corrective of Socialism." He intends to combat Socialism, not to help its propaganda. This is laughable.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt has learned a great deal from the Socialists, but there is one thing that he has not yet learned. He has not learned that one cannot throw ideas into the masses and then expect that these ideas should not take root and grow. Mr. Roosevelt, after accepting so much from the Socialists, cannot expect the American people to stop thinking where he wants them to stop.

If Mr. Roosevelt has learned so much within the last three years, why should not the American people also learn within the next few years?

Mr. Roosevelt appeals with his programme mainly to an enthusiastic, well-meaning, but restive middle class. This class is now getting the worst of it as a class. It is being ground down in the class struggle between the capitalists on one hand and the proletariat on the other. Roosevelt's followers will recruit themselves almost entirely from the middle class and the Western farmers.

As for the working class—the enlightened and class-conscious workingman will not be caught by the glittering generalities, but stand by their own organization, the Socialist Party. These enlightened workmen know that without the hard and incessant work of Socialists for many years, a programme like Mr. Roosevelt's (and a convention like the Bull Moosers in Chicago,) would never have been thought of, and that without a Socialist Party that programme would be forgotten in five years.

And as for the unenlightened and stupid workingmen that can be sold by their leaders, these workingmen will in all probability be sold again to the Democratic Party this time.

Thus, Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, the man who has just given his programme to the new party in Chicago, will go down in history as one of the most talented, but most inconsistent politicians our country has ever had. But he will also be remembered as one of the most aggressive and most strenuous propagandists for the Socialist Party ever known.

ENCHANTRESS LEADS RACE TO SMITHTOWN

New York Y. C. Fleet Sails 24 Miles on Sound for Navy Challenge Cups.

VANDERBILT BOATS WIN

Smithtown Bay Enjoys Its First Real Excitement When Big Fleet Honors It with Its Presence Over Night.

Special to The New York Times.

SMITHTOWN BAY, Aug. 8.—The arrival here to-day of the big yacht fleet participating in the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club presented this old haven with the first real marine celebration it ever had.

Only once before has Smithtown Bay had anything like a real party, and that was when Farmer Fred Wagner invited his automobile friends last year to his first annual land and water fête. To-day this quiet old bay, with its shore line still almost untouched by the many real estate operations which have transformed Long Island, is dressed up with the finest yachts in America.

The crack fleet of the New York Yacht Club, which is on its annual cruise, arrived here early this afternoon, finishing its first squadron run from Glen Cove in such good time as to leave nothing to be desired in the way of yacht racing.

The good, holding south wind which favored the yachts from start to finish sent them over the 24-mile course in almost record time. William E. Iselin's big schooner, Enchantress, which was first across the finish line, covered the distance in 2 hours and 9 minutes. She beat Irolita by 2 minutes and 46 seconds, and Elena by 3 minutes 56 seconds, corrected time.

Close finishes were the order of the day, and the winners in all classes made their best times or nearly so. The race between the older schooners, Sea Fox and Endymion, was a ripper from end to end, Sea Fox winning by only 39 seconds actual time. The Smithers schooner, Muriel, made a close race with Princess, beating her only 36 seconds corrected time.

Both the Vanderbilt boats won, Cornelius with Aurora, beating Istalena and Winsome, and Harold with his schooner, Vagrant, leading Margaret and Venona.

Had the original intention to make the day's run to New London been adhered to, there would have been no feeling of uncertainty as to an early finish, for the day opened with a fine breeze from the south, which the racers got over their starboard quarters, and with every inch of canvas pulling the forty-two yachts made a real picture as they crossed the starting line off Weeks Point buoy, at the east side of the entrance to Hempstead Bay. The Regatta Committee—H. de B. Parsons, J. M. Macdonough, and Frederic O. Spedden—aboard the tug Eugene Moran marked the north end of the line.

At ten minutes after 10 the new small Sound schooners were sent away first with W. Butler Duncan's Vandalia in the lead. Then came F. R. Coudert's Alys II., W. H. Judson's Rival, C. L. Poor's Algol, W. M. Baldwin's Alicia, Clarkson Cowl's Moira, and E. Randolph's Helen II., all with small ballooners set and spinnakers to starboard for the short run to the first turning mark—the gas buoy off Matinicock.

The four sloops in the P Class, led by R. L. Cuthbert's Cara Mia, were next sent away at 10:15. Cara Mia had the weather berth, with Joyant, Corinthian, and Windward close under her lee. After these came the New York Yacht Club thirty-footers on the same signal, with H. S. Duell's Rowdy in the lead, the others being Alera, Juanita, Miriam, Banzai, Carlita, and Phryne. Five minutes later Shinna, owned and sailed by Robert Treat Paine 2d, of Boston, Commodore of the Eastern Yacht Club, led the sloops in Classes K, L, M, and N, across the line in a close and lively start. The others crossed in this order: Gardenia, Adventuress, Avenger, steered by her owner, Harry L. Maxwell; the yawl Phantom, Hermes, and the new Dorello. The big sixty-five-foot sloops were led by E. T. Hall's Winsome, with Aurora, Cornelius Vanderbilt steering, and George M. Pynchon at the wheel of Istalena, close astern. All three set balloon jibtopsails before getting to the line.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, at the wheel of his schooner Vagrant, led the six schooners in Classes F and D. Following Vagrant, in order, came Muriel, Miladi, Venona, Princess, and Taormina. The big schooners in Class B made an excellent start at 10:30, with balloon jibtopsails drawing well as they crossed the line before a stiff breeze, led by William E. Iselin's Enchantress. The Vice Commodore's flagship, Sea Fox, came bowling along in Enchantress's wake, followed by Endymion, Irolita, and Elena. After the start, Capt. Dennis steered Elena over to leeward to get his wind clear and set her spinnaker to starboard as soon as he was clear of the line. The last two away were the auxiliaries Margaret and Iris.

It did not take the leaders long to reach Matinicock buoy, and then trim sheets lively was the order until all hands were heading several points higher on the starboard tack shaping their new course. Having doused spinnakers and ballooners before reaching the buoy, they now set far-reaching jibtopsails, and with increased speed they were soon making fast time to the eastward. Passing the buoy, Enchantress was leading Irolita by three minutes and Elena by a minute more.

An hour after the start Aurora, then the leader of the big sloops, was passing Oyster Bay, with Winsome and Istalena only a few lengths astern and Enchantress still the leader of the B class schooners. In the fresh breeze that favored the racers it gave the power fleet plenty to do to keep pace with them, for the big sloops and schooners were reeling off between twelve and fifteen knots an hour. At 12 o'clock Enchantress, Irolita, and Elena, in that order, had passed Eaton's Neck and were about a quarter of the way across Smithtown Bay, with the Commodore's flagship marking the finish line, now in sight. CHASE ENDS AT ASTOR HOME.

Crowd Stops Boy Who Tried to Steal a Delivery Wagon.

Following the commotion of Wednesday night before the Astor home, at 840 Fifth Avenue, when a Fifth Avenue motor bus ran against the building, a thief chase and capture took place yesterday morning at the same place. The pursuit started at Sixty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, where a young man sprang into a butcher's delivery wagon, left by Henry Van Horn, the driver, and drove away toward Park Avenue. The driver gave chase, with as much of a crowd as he could collect on the way.

At Sixty-fourth Street the thief turned into Fifth Avenue, and then drove down to Sixty-third Street, where policemen on stationary posts forced him to double on his tracks up Park Avenue to Sixty-fifth Street. He again turned into Fifth Avenue. The Astor servants, stationed before the building to keep order in the street, forced the thief to desert the wagon.

The crowd of pursuers was so close on the fugitive that he could not turn to the right or left and had to go straight ahead to the Central Park wall opposite the Astor home. He jumped over and disappeared in the shrubbery of the Park. The crowd followed and piled over the wall. Under a bush, partly screened from sight, Policeman Flaherty of the Arsenal Station found the fugitive, and, pulling him forth, took him back before the Astor home to see what all the trouble was about.

At the station he explained that he had been forced to the robbery by hunger, having been expelled from his home three days before and not having had anything to eat since. Sandwiches were brought and he was fed before being taken to the Yorkville Court. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge of grand larceny. He gave his name as Tony Ruvelo, 16 years old, of 239 Elizabeth Street.

INHERITS $1,022,068 UNDER A QUEER WILL

Mrs. Florence Nimick Wrote It on Hotel Note Paper in Favor of Her Son, Alexander.

DOCUMENT NOT WITNESSED

Nevertheless It Has Been Probated and Son of Pittsburgh Steel Man Will Get the Fortune.

A report of the appraisal of the estate of Mrs. Florence N. C. Nimick of Pittsburgh, which was filed yesterday in the Transfer Tax Office of the Surrogate' Court by Deputy State Controller Wallace S. Fraser, reveals the fact that her will, drawn on hotel note paper, with the signatures of the witnesses and the date missing, holds good, and that Alexander K. Nimick, her son and the principal legatee, will receive $1,022,068.07.

The will, which gave Alexander Nimick more than $1,000,000, was written in the handwriting of his mother on Waldorf-Astoria note paper. She never executed it legally, and it bore no date. She willed all her property to her son except the income of certain investments, which she gave to her brother, William Hallman Coleman of Pittsburgh, and a woman friend. At their death, however, the investments revert to the residuary estate. There were no contests to the validity of the instrument.

At the time of Mrs. Nimick's death it was said that her son's devotion to her was shown by the fact that he had long postponed an engagement to marry in order to give to her the undivided attention which she craved.

Mrs. Nimick died at Bay Shore, L. I., on July 25, 1910. She was the widow of a Pittsburgh steel man and a relative by marriage of Andrew Carnegie. In the report only her New York estate is set forth in detail, but there is a statement to the effect that her property wherever situated totals $1,022,068.07, and includes realty and personalty.

Her net New York estate, which is all in personalty, is valued at $14,354.03, and includes 100 shares of the American Locomotive Company common stock, worth $3,900, and 250 shares of the preferred stock, worth $6,490. Included in her estate also are paintings worth $4,000, jewelry valued at $6,697, and wearing apparel worth $3,428. There were large deductions for debts, which brought down the gross estate to the amount stated. Her estate elsewhere consists of stocks and bonds of steel concerns in which her husband was interested.

TAFT BACK, BUSY ON VETOES.

Expected to Disapprove Wool Bill To-day, Steel Veto to Follow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Taft arrived in Washington at 8:45 o'clock this morning from Cincinnati, where he had attended the funeral of John W. Herron, Mrs. Taft's father. The President was driven to the White House, where a special Cabinet meeting was scheduled to consider his probable veto of the Tariff bills.

The President read to the Cabinet a draft of his veto message. After the session he canceled all engagements and remained in the White House to put his message in final form. Chairman Emery of the Tariff Board was one of the few callers he received. All the members of the Cabinet were present with the exception of Secretary Meyer, who is in Massachusetts. The regular meeting of the Cabinet will be held to-morrow.

Both the Steel and Wool bills were received at the White House in the President's absence, and were ready for his scrutiny. It was said to-night that the wool veto message is practically ready to be sent to Congress and may go in to-morrow. The steel schedule veto will follow it, probably before Saturday night.

TO CHECK CHESTNUT BLIGHT.

House Passes Bill Carrying $80,000 for Suppressing Tree Disease.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The conference report on the Agricultural bill, which passed the House to-day, and will now become a law, carried with it the appropriation of $80,000 asked for by Representative J. Hampton Moore on behalf of the Pennsylvania Chestnut Tree Blight Commission for the investigation and suppression of chestnut tree bark disease. The Government is now authorized to cooperate with the States, including Pennsylvania, which has already appropriated $275,000 for the purpose.

The blight originated in the vicinity of New York about ten years ago, and has since spread into the New England States, through Pennsylvania west to Ohio, and through the Southern States as far as North Carolina. It is expected that the Government will at once take vigorous steps in conjunction with the various States to eradicate the disease.

HILL URGES FARM EFFICIENCY

Tells Bankers' Agricultural Conference About Need of Education.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 8.—An address by James J. Hill on the plans for an expansion of the Bankers' Agricultural Conference and for the extension of agricultural education throughout the United States, marked the last session of the conference which has been meeting in Minneapolis for two days.

Mr. Hill in his address pleaded for more interest in agricultural efficiency on the part of the farmers, and advised the extension of agricultural training to the farms and farmers as well as in schools and colleges. As a result of his plea, the Resolutions Committee at the close of the meeting suggested and obtained the adoption of a resolution by the conference to carry the gospel of efficiency to farmers and their wives, and to provide for instruction in agriculture in the common schools.

Mr. Hill told of knowledge gained from farm inspection in the United States and abroad, specializing on the efficiency attained in the little country of Denmark.

H. H. Gross, President of the conference, said:

"Statistics show that agriculture in the United States has been so neglected that within twenty years we will be forced to import our principal food products from foreign lands. We are facing an inevitable famine unless the soil is greatly improved."

H. H. Gross was re-elected President. An advisory committee was selected, including James J. Hill, Chairman; President Taft, William Jennings Bryan, Franklin MacVeagh, Champ Clark, and Samuel Gompers.

SAY WORKERS ARE IMPORTED.

Immigration Officials Accuse Bay State Millman of Breaking Law.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Importation of skilled English operatives in violation of the contract labor law is the charge made against Arthur Saville of the Barre Wool Combing Company, whose case will be heard to-morrow by Commissioner Grinnell.

The immigration officials regard the case as very important, and if, as seems likely, it shall prove to be a transfer of employes by an English concern to its plant in America, the points involved may require decision by the Federal Supreme Court. It has been shown that Lewis Willey and F. W. Willey, manufacturers of Bradford, England, are large stockholders in the Barre Company.

The Government's allegation is that twenty-five men and women have been brought to this country, Saville having paid their passage money, with the understanding that it would be repaid from their wages. One of these, Mrs. Jane Johnson, aged 54, says she came to this country as a result of representations made to her in Bradford by Saville.

A strike took place recently at the Barre plant, fomented by the workmen who came originally from Southern Europe.

DEADLOCK ON EXCISE BILL.

Conference on It Halted Through Reciprocity Issue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The Senate and House Democrats have come to a dead stop in their negotiations for the adoption of the Excise bill. That measure is nominally in conference, but the failure of Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee to concur in the proposal of the Senate Democrats is so complete that conferences as a matter of fact are not in progress. At the same time the Sugar bill, which has generally been expected to create a deficit in the public revenues, which the Excise bill would make up, has also been left without serious consideration.

The whole trouble is over Canadian reciprocity. The repeal of that act with the imposition of a two-dollar duty on print paper is appended as an amendment to the Excise bill by the Senate. The Senate Democrats care little for Canadian reciprocity, as it has been definitely repudiated by Canada. And they have expressed a willingness for putting through that part of the amendment providing the insurgents would consent to omit the tariff on paper. The insurgents were willing enough, but Mr. Underwood so far has flatly refused to discard reciprocity. The Sugar bill, which, as it came from the Senate, is a Republican measure, and serves only to reduce revenues about $5,000,000, is also distasteful to Mr. Underwood, and it looks now as if both measures may go over without action.

SAYS STEEL TRUST TAXES ALL

Forbid Railroad and Industrial Combinations the Only Cure, Says Stanley

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The absolute divorce of the ownership of railroads and industrial organizations were declared by Representative Stanley of Kentucky in the House to-night as the one preventive of such a monopoly as he described the United States Steel Corporation to be.

The holding company and the protective tariff were pointed as the bulwarks of the Steel Trust's strength. The holding company he described as a "pernicious device," and the formation of the Steel Trust by Mr. Morgan "a scheme that exceeded the dream of the most avaricious schememaker that ever lived."

Mr. Stanley declared that the Steel Trust levied a tax on every man, woman, and child in the United States.

"Every one of the 80,000,000 of people in this country pays the Steel Trust to live, to labor, and finally when they die," he said.

A Handbook of the New Politics

DIRECT ELECTIONS

Law-Making by Popular Vote

The Initiative, The Referendum, The Recall, Commission Government for Cities, Preferential Voting

By EDWIN M. BACON and MORRILL WYMAN

A manual for citizens, written in an impartial spirit, the purpose of which is to supply definite information with regard to the several electoral devices designed to establish the system of direct legislation by vote of the people in place of the old methods of deliberative representative government.

"It is not a long work, about 150 pages, but its concise form is in its favor, for it brings the busy man to the point of the discussion. The handbook should prove useful to the student of the public questions involved in the text, and likewise to the general reader." —Boston Globe.

‡One out when winning run was scored.

Two-base hits—Meyers, Miller. Home run—Gibson. Sacrifice hits—Carey, Fletcher. Stolen bases—Snodgrass (2,) Murray, Merkle, Fletcher. First base on error—New York. Left on bases—New York, 10; Pittsburgh, 6. Struck out—By Marquard, 6; by Hendrix, 6. Bases on balls—Off Marquard, 2; off Hendrix, 6. Wild pitch—Hendrix. Umpires—Messrs. Owens and Brennan. Time of game—Two hours and ten minutes.

A scorching hit to left field by Red Murray scored Snodgrass from second base in the tenth inning at the Polo Grounds yesterday, and won the game for the Giants over Pittsburgh by a score of 2 to 1. Snodgrass had reached second base after making a single and stealing his way to the half-way corner. This was the only time during the matinée that the New York batsmen were able to group two hits on Claude Hendrix.

Rube Marquard pitched a great game, and the interest of the struggle centred on as fine a pitching duel as has been seen at the Brush Stadium in many a day. Six hits each moundsman allowed, but in the half dozen off Marquard, scattered far and wide, there was only one blow which was effective. That was a terrific home-run drive between centre and right fields by George Gibson in the third inning, giving the Buccaneer crew their only count of the afternoon.

Marquard was himself again, and had plenty of speed, a dazzling répertoire of curves, and marvelous control. The Rube's teammates rallied behind the southpaw with perfect support, not a misplay marring the work of the New York team. Pittsburgh's only error was a costly mistake by Bobby Byrne when he allowed Murray's grounder to go through him in the first inning, giving Doyle the opportunity of rushing the first Giant run across. The teams went along to the tenth with the score deadlocked, both pitchers doing such excellent work that it was impossible for the batsmen of either team to do any destructive hitting. Marquard had better control than Hendrix, who passed six of the Giants to first base.

Red Murray did some high class fielding and Jack Miller made a great catch when he leaped high for Doyle's liner in the fifth inning and brought it down with him. The Giants were very apt at getting on the bases, but Hendrix was invincible when the corners were occupied. No less than ten of the Giants were left without having an opportunity of getting anywhere approaching the home plate.

Manager Fred Clarke didn't approve of the umpiring of Umpire Brennan and was chased from the coaching lines. After the game, Clarke and Brennan met and the Pirate leader gave the official a large portion of sharp, biting conversation. The decision which riled Clarke so was when Snodgrass stole second base in the tenth inning. Gibson had the ball down to Wagner in time, but Snodgrass appeared to hook in under the Teuton and Brennan called him safe. Wagner kicked strenuously, claiming that he tagged the runner on the shin as his feet came in first.

Marquard had Wagner and Donlin successfully subdued and neither of the sluggers got a hit. Donlin struck out twice, much to the delight of the populace and he was taken out in the eight inning to allow Kelly to bat for him.

Byrne opened the proceedings with a single, but Carey, Donlin, and Wagner went out quickly. Devore struck out for a starter, but Doyle beat out an infield hit to McCarthy, and went to second base while Byrne was tossing out Snodgrass. Murray hit a grounder at Byrne, but the bounder went right through him and Doyle scored. Murray stole second and Merkle walked. Murray was thrown out trying to steal third.

George Gibson was the first Pittsburgh citizen up in the third inning, and he gave the ball a terrific smash to the deepest corner of the outfield completing the circuit in a way which left no doubt about the legality of the count.

There was an encouraging moment for Pittsburgh in the seventh inning, when Jack Miller hit a two-bagger to left, the ball bounding out of Devore's reach. The Pirates' hopes fell when Wilson tapped to Fletcher and Miller was thrown out at third. The play was close and the whole Pittsburgh team jabbered all kinds of things at Umpire Brennan for his decision.

Meyers opened the ninth inning by beating out a hit to deep short. Shafer was put in to run for the Indian and Fletcher sacrificed and the runner went around to third, when Marquard was thrown out at first. Becker, hitting for Devore, struck out amid numerous sounds which greatly resembled groans.

In the last half of the tenth inning, Doyle hit a high fly to Wilson in right field. Snodgrass sent a stinging hit to centre field and stole second. Then Murray produced the timely smash which scored Snodgrass and won the game.

RUCKER LOSES BATTLE.

Slim Sallee Outpitches Superba and Wins Game for St. Louis.

Slim Sallee triumphed over Nap Rucker in a high-class pitching duel at Washington Park yesterday, and carried the Cardinals to victory over the Superbas in the final clash of the four-game series. Both pitchers received errorless support, Brooklyn engaging in its third successive game without a misplay. The score was 2 to 1.

Excepting in the third inning the Superbas were powerless in the grasp of the St. Louis southpaw. In this chapter they bunched three of their seven hits, but during the last six innings Brooklyn could not get more than one hit per inning, and not a runner passed second base. Sallee showed far better control than Rucker, and his one pass opened no opportunities for the Superbas.

Rucker had to pitch airtight ball on three occasions to keep the Cardinals from picking up a comfortable lead. The Brooklyn star was effective in scattering the St. Louis hits, but his control was not the best. Rucker was taken out of the game in the eighth inning, when Manager Dahlen figured that Eddie Phelps might start a rally, but Eddie's best effort was a grounder to Huggins for an easy out at first base. Ragon finished the game, and his one inning of service produced two hits and a pass. But he succeeded in retiring the side runless after the bases had been filled.

The Cardinals started the scoring in the second inning, when Oakes hit to the corner in left centre field for the circuit. Their other run came in the third inning. Magee opened with a double to left, Mowrey sacrificed him to third, Konetchy fouled out to Miller, and Evans singled to left, scoring Magee. The Cardinals filled the bases in the first inning with one out on a double, a single, and a pass, but Rucker fanned Evans and Hauser grounded out. In the sixth and again in the eighth inning Rucker pulled through safely when runners threatened to score.

Daubert reached third base in the second inning on his single, Wheat's sacrifice, and Cutshaw's out, but was left there. After Miller had flied out in the third inning Rucker singled to left and advanced on Moran's out at first base. Northen's double to right scored Rucker with Brooklyn's only run. Smith beat out an infield hit, sending Northen to third, and Daubert ended the inning with a fly to Magee. During the remainder of the game Brooklyn got only two runners as far as second base, and neither reached third. The score:

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 8.—Had Russell Ford, New York's premier pitcher, been as effective in the first two innings as he was in the last seven, and had he received as good support at the outset as he did later, the Yankees might have beaten Cleveland at League Park to-day. But it took the New Yorkers two innings to find their bearings, and by that time Cleveland had the game sewed up, so tight, in fact, that a letdown by Kahler in the ninth inning did no material damage, the Naps winning, 8 to 5. That lapse of Kahler's in the ninth, however, threw one huge scare into the Cleveland camp, and Baskette chased out on the run to warm up, so as to be ready should the Yankees make it possible to win, or even tie the score. But Kahler settled down in time, and Baskette's services were not required.

Ryan, Jackson, and Peckinpaugh were the men whose efforts resulted in Cleveland's good lead. Ryan got on the bases three out of four times up. Jackson became addicted to the long hit habit, while Peckinpaugh—well, Peck merely delivered a two-base hit with the bases filled. One of Jackson's drives was good for three cushions, the other falling one short. The trio was practically responsible for all the runs scored by Cleveland. Ryan scored three of the eight, Jackson drove in three and scored twice himself. Nap Lajoie also broke into print by chasing two runs across.

For eight innings Kahler looked as good as he did in the Spring, when there were few right-handers in the league who had more stuff or knowledge of how to use it. During those eight rounds New York made but six hits, scattered, one to an inning, except in the fourth, when two hits, a double steal, a wild pitch, and a sacrifice fly accounted for two runs. In the ninth, however, the big right-hander did go to the bad, but then Cleveland had a commanding lead.

In the first inning Ryan doubled and took third on Hartzell's fumble. Then, with one gone, Jackson tripled, scoring one. With two gone, Griggs and Hunter walked, and then Peckinpaugh, who has not been hitting much of late, cleaned the bases with a double. In the second, Kahler bounced a hit over Ford's head. Paddock's fumble saved Ryan. Jackson then doubled, scoring one man and sending another to third, from where he scored on Lajoie's sacrifice fly. Then Martin fumbled an easy grounder, and Jackson scored as Griggs rushed to first.

After that Ford was hard to find. The Naps did take advantage of a base on balls, a bad throw by Hartzell, a passed ball, and a single to add to their total in the seventh, but that ended it.

The Yanks did not do anything till the fourth inning, when Chase bounded a lucky one off Larry's mit, and after Paddock singled the two worked a neat double steal. A wild pitch scored Chase and sent Paddock to third, from where he scored on Zinn's fly. In the fifth Martin's foot slipped, robbing the Yanks of a run. He walked as a starter, and, with one out, Ford drove out his second double, a hit to the wall, but Martin fell rounding third and had to rush back to the base to beat Jackson's throw. He "died" there. Kahler then did pretty well till the ninth, when bases on balls to Marin and Daniels and a single by Ford filled the bases. Then Chase sent all the runners home with a double. But the next two men were easy.

Boston Shuts Out Detroit.

DETROIT, Aug. 8.—Boston gave Collins sensational support to-day, and he defeated Detroit, 5 to 0, in the opening game of the series. Detroit also fielded splendidly behind Lake, but the visitors bunched hits in the first and fifth innings. Hooper's home run in the fifth scored Wagner and Carrigan ahead of him. The score:

BILLY BURKE STEPS FAST.

Wins Free-for-All Race in 2:05 and 2:04 3-4 at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—The final race in the professional drivers' stake, 2:15 trot, the two preliminaries of which were run on the opening day, and the free-for-all trot championship furnished the thrillers for the fourth day of the Pittsburgh meet on the Grand Circuit.

Billy Burke took the two heats of the free-for-all race, and incidentally another son of Silent Brook won another race on to-day's card, the 2:12 trot, which Shawbay took easily. Billy Burke also set new records for this track in both heats. On a heavy, spongy track he went the first heat in 2:05 and the second in 2:04¾, stepping the quarter in the second heat in 0:31.

In the professional drivers' stake Queen Worthy was picked to win, and did have things her own way after a bad start in the first heat. In the second she was coming strong in the stretch, McDonald driving hard on his wheel. Half way down the stretch Queen Worthy quit and almost stopped still. In the meantime Carpenter, with Annie Kohl, was coming through the field on the pole and romped home. In the next heat Annie Kohl got the lead at the start and held it to the finish, having a driving race of it with Dorsh Medium in the stretch, and getting first money. Queen Worthy held second place until the stretch, when Dorsh Medium nosed her out of second place. McDonald had trouble with Ruth McGregor at the first turn, and was unable to overtake the field. WANDERERS WIN AT POLO.

Six Teams Compete in One-Day Handicap at Narragansett Pier.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 8.—There were six teams in the one-day handicap polo at the Point Judith Polo Club to-day, and resulted in a victory for the Wanderers, (James Park, T. Le Boutillier, F. A. Gill, and B. K. Gatins,) from the Fishcatchers, (W. R. Grace, Lieut. G. Johnson, J. C. Rathborne, and H. M. Halff, of Texas.) The score was 3 to 1½, only two periods being played in the final. It was the first of the one-day handicaps in which the finals have been decided.

The preliminary rounds were of three periods, and the teams worked on a fractional handicap instead of the full allowances. The Back River team of Canada lost to the Philadelphia Country Club in the first round by 5¼ to 4, and in the second round the Wanderers and the Philadelphia Country team were tied at 3¾. P. S. P. Randolph, Jr.'s, pony fell with him just as the game was called, and as his wrist was hurt, but not severely, the team did not play off the tie, which let the Wanderers into the final. However, Randolph, Jr., will not play for the Country Club against Kansas City in the second round of the junior championship to-morrow, and E. Lowber Stokes will take his place. The other game will be between Myopia and Piping Rock.

Meadow Brook Defeats Piping Rock.

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., Aug. 8.—Despite the fact that many of the Long Island colonists have departed for Newport, Bar Harbor, and Summering places in Europe, the crowds which gather for the polo games are unusually large. There was a big attendance this afternoon for the game between Meadow Brook and Piping Rock, in which the former was victorious, with a score of 7 to 5. It was an even match throughout, unmarked by incident save when J. E. Cowdin, Jr.'s, pony fell, but without injurious result. The line-up:

Meadow Brook—S. A. W. Baltazi, Charles Appleton, Mr. Boyer, J. E. Cowdin, Jr.
Piping Rock—Seward Carey, F. L. Hopping, J. E. Davis, Sidney D. Ripley.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Claiming that he could get a larger sum than $5,000, at which price the New York Americans have an option for the purchase of Ray H. Keating, pitcher of the Lawrence New England League Club, Joseph P. Sullivan, a Director of the Lawrence Club, brought a bill in equity in the Superior Court at Boston, seeking to prevent a ratification of the sale. The bill is directed against Louis Pieper and Daniel A. Noon, both officers of the Lawrence Club.

Second Baseman James Delehanty of the Detroit American League Baseball Club has been unconditionally released. Injuries and poor health made the once great player of little value to the Detroit Club this season, but in recognition of past services the club owners allowed Delehanty to seek a new berth unhampered.

It was announced yesterday that "Bill" Donovan, veteran pitcher on the Detroit American League baseball team, has been appointed manager of the Providence team in the International League by Frank J. Navin, owner of the Providence Club and President of the Detroit American League Club. Donovan expects to take charge in a few days. President Navin also announced that he has asked for waivers on Outfielder Davey Jones of the Detroit team.

Floyd Kroh, pitcher on the Louisville American Association team, was given his unconditional release by Owner "Bill" Grayson yesterday. Failure to keep in condition is given as the reason for the southpaw's letting out. Kroh came to the Louisville Club from the Chicago Nationals, and last year was suspended on the same grounds that caused his release this season.

President B. B. Johnson of the American League is not opposed to a baseball players' protective association, which was outlined at a recent meeting in this city of major league players. Johnson said that a union modeled on the lines of the labor unions probably would not be tolerated, but he saw no reason why players should not have an organization to proceed along legitimate lines as "boosters" for the game. He was not in a position to say whether the proposed association would be admitted to the National Commission.

CHAPPLE TAKES FAST MOTOR CYCLE RACE

New Yorker Defeats Ray Peck in Two-Heat Match Contest at Brighton Beach.

Arthur Chapple, the professional motor cycle rider of New York, whose record-breaking performances and victories at the Brighton Beach stadium-motordrome are legion, last night tacked a double victory to his long string by defeating Ray Peck of Newark in a special match race.

The race was the feature of an interesting card of events and over a distance of four miles. The New Yorker's victory came in straight heats.

At the start the New Jersey phenom ruled a slight favorite over the speedy Chapple, but after the pair once got under way there was never a question as to the outcome. The starts in both heats were as good as could be expected. The men crossed the starting line almost abreast, with Chapple slightly in the lead.

That he would not take any chances with the clever Newark pilot was evidenced by his early sprint and before the first lap was covered he was in possession of a lead of fully 100 yards. Crossing the line of the first mile, Chapple opened his throttle wide and until the end held command by a good margin. The first heat was won by a 20-yard margin. On the bell lap he shot out for the final sprint and with his opponent trying the best he could to make up the lost ground, Chapple was the victor in the time of 2:47 1-5.

The second and final heat was nearly the same as the initial one and the generalship of Chapple carried him to victory with a good margin. The heat was the fastest of the two, being clocked in 2:43 1-5.

Chapple later went out on a two-mile sprint against his own record of 1:18 2-5, but was unsuccessful in bettering the time as he required 1:20 1-5 to cover the two miles. His first mile was covered in close to record figures when he did the three laps in 0:40.

Billy Wray of Brooklyn won a hard-earned victory in the five-mile professional race by taking the first and third heats. The showing of Wray in these two heats was responsible for his being placed on the back mark in the final of the evening, the ten-mile handicap. He objected to the scratch mark, which he was to share with Johnny Albright, and after a dispute with the officials finally decided to start, but trouble with his handlebars put him out of the race. The event was finally captured by Albright of Denver, after starting from the post of honor, the time being 7:17 4-5. On the ninth mile of the race, when in second place, George Groning encountered a bad spill. His tire blew out just as he passed the starting line, and he skidded down the embankment and rolled for a distance of twenty yards, with his machine spitting fire.

The other events all furnished exciting racing, and were productive of good sport. The summaries:

Two-Mile Amateur.—First Heat—Won by Reggie Lyons, Bronx; John Constant, Brooklyn, second; James French, Brooklyn, third. Time—1:34 1-5.

Second Heat—Won by John Constant, Brooklyn; James French, second. Time—1:45 1-5.

Third Heat—Won by John Constant, Brooklyn; James French, second. Time—1:41.

Five-Mile Professional.—First Heat—Won by N. H. Wray, Brooklyn; Robert Shields, Syracuse, N. Y., second; James Lochnar, Syracuse, N. Y., third. Time—3:49 2-5.

Second Heat—Won by James Lochnar, Syracuse; William Wray, Brooklyn, second; George Groning, New York, third. Time—4:07 2-5.

Third Heat—Won by W. H. Wray, Brooklyn; James Lochnar, Syracuse, second; George Groning, New York, third. Time—3:50 2-5.

Four-Mile Match Race Between Arthur Chapple, New York, and Ray Peck, Newark, N. J.—First Heat—Won by Arthur Chapple, New York. Time—2:47 1-5. Second Heat—Won by Arthur Chapple, New York. Time—2:43 1-5.

Two-Mile Time Trial by Arthur Chapple, New York, to beat 1:18 2-5. Time—1:20 1-5. Lost.

Ten-Mile Professional Handicap.—Won by J. Albright, Denver, (scratch;) James Lochnar, Syrauce, (1 lap,) second; George Groning, Syracuse, (5 laps,) third. Time—7:17 4-5.

HOUR MOTOR CYCLE RACE.

Chapple Expects to Make New Record at Brighton Beach Motordrome.

Records for the hour established in competition are sure to fall at the Stadium-Motordrome on Sunday night if the speed that the riders have been making in practice is made when they meet for the gold and glory. Arthur Chapple, the daring New Yorker, who looks to be the favorite in the event, has been reeling off miles regularly with long distance equipment on his motor at the rate of 41 and 42 seconds, and if this speed can be averaged Sunday night the old mark of 74 miles, made by Lon Claflin at Los Angeles, is due to be eclipsed.

Every indication points to a fine contest between Chapple and Fleckenstein of Salt Lake City to-morrow night, when the men meet. This race is a feature of a card of eleven events which will be staged among the amateur and professional stars of this section on the Brighton course.

Eddie Hasha has been matched to race William Shields, one of the stars from Syracuse, who has invaded the local camp for the feature Tuesday night. Hasha will also make an effort to lower the world's record of 38 2-5 seconds for the mile.

RECEPTION TO ATHLETES.

Swedish Ambassador and Consul General to be Invited Here Aug. 24.

The Plan and Scope Committee which was appointed by the Board of Managers of the Metropolitan Amateur Athletic Union in connection with the coming reception to the American Olympic team has made rapid progress during the past few days in arranging for the official welcome.

At a meeting of the committee held yesterday it was decided, unanimously, to invite the Swedish Ambassador at Washington and the Swedish Consul General in this city to be in the reviewing party in front of City Hall on the morning of the parade, Aug. 24, and to occupy posts of honor at the guest table at the banquet in the evening. This course was decided upon because of the reports, by American Olympic Commissioner James E. Sullivan and other American representatives, of the "royal good fashion" in which America's representatives were received in Sweden. Frederick W. Rubien, Chairman of the Plan and Scope Committee, who is also Secretary of the Mayor's Reception Committee, has been instructed to invite, to participate in the parade, all local Swedish organizations.

Upon motion of Dr. E. W. Stitt, Chairman of the Guard of Honor Sub-Committee, it was decided to have the boys and girls who are to form the "stationary guard of honor," edging the sidewalks from Forty-second Street to City Hall, learn the Olympic team "yell," the same to be taken up block after block as the victors pass through it. This yell, which is said to be very effective, is the old Annapolis Naval Academy cry with modifications. As rendered on Aug. 24 it will run:

"Rah! Rah! Rah! U. S. A., A-m-e-r-i-c-a, U. S. A., Olympic! Olympic! Olympic!"

At Stockholm, as each American crossed the finish line, his name was substituted for the final "Olympic!" thrice repeated. Girls as well as boys are to constitute part of the stationary guard of honor. One side of the sidewalk of each block will be edged with girls, the other with boys, each holding an American flag. Cheer leaders on each block will give the signal when to begin the "yell," so that there will be no confusion.

Dr. Stitt said that the services of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum Band had been offered and accepted, free of charge, and that the band will precede the division of the parade in which the athletes themselves will ride in automobiles. There will be two marching guards of honor, immediately ahead of the athletes in the same division. The first will be made up of boys in costume representing the forty-eight States of the Union. The second will represent, also in costume, all nations that took part in the games at Stockholm.

Buffalo Honors Athlete Reidpath.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Charles D. Reidpath, winner of honors for the American team at Stockholm, was given an enthusiastic public reception upon his return here to-day. He was escorted to the baseball park, where Mayor Fuhrman presented a silver loving cup, and where an athletic meet was held in his honor. Reidpath signalized his retirement from the cinder path by winning a handicap race of 440 meters. His competitors were Lester Kinney of the Syracuse University team and R. Shelley of the Seventy-fourth Regiment Athletic Association, both starting at the ten-yard mark. Reidpath won easily.

KIRKBY WINS TWO MATCHES.

New Jersey Champion Will Play R. C. Watson in Shinnecock Golf To-day

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 8.—Competitors in the annual tournament of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club to-day occupied themselves with the first and second rounds of match play. Oswald Kirkby of Englewood, the New Jersey champion, was successful against J. N. Steele, Jr., of Maidstone, and then found his path obstructed by J. N. Stearns, 3d, of Princeton. Kirkby proved to be the winner by a 4 and 2 margin, chiefly through Stearns's inability to keep out of trouble. The Dunwoodie winner was trapped at the long eighth hole, and again at the tenth, when his drive landed in a nest of briars. On his recovery he got in a sand trap and needed seven strokes for the hole.

James R. Hyde of Bayshore was beaten in an extra-hole match by James A. Tyng, the Baltusrol veteran. Hyde's drive from the nineteenth landed in a clump of bushes, and the ball was not found. Tyng will play E. E. Sturgis of Wykagyl in the semi-final to-morrow. Sturgis put out Philip Carter, the interscholastic champion, by the narrow margin of 1 up.

Against Kirkby to-morrow will be Robert C. Watson of Garden City, Secretary of the United States Golf Association, who advanced at the expense of L. H. Tyng of Baltusrol and T. G. Thomas of Shinnecock Hills. The summary:

First Sixteen, First Round.—R. C. Watson, Garden City, beat L. H. Tyng, Baltusrol, 4 up and 3 to play; T. G. Thomas, Shinnecock Hills, beat C. M. Baxter, Shinnecock Hills, 5 up and 6 to play; Oswald Kirkby, Englewood, beat J. N. Steele, Jr., Maidstone, 4 up and 6 to play; J. N. Stearns, 3d, Princeton, beat C. M. Tyson, Princeton, 2 up; E. E. Sturgis, Wykagyl, beat U. A. Murdock, Bayshore, 3 up and 2 to play; Philip Carter, Nassau, beat A. G. McIlvaine, Shinnecock Hills, 5 up and 4 to play; James A. Tyng, Baltusrol, beat E. H. $40,000 OFFER TO JOHNSON

But Negro Has Not Decided to Go to Australia to Box Langford and McVey

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Alderman Al Tearney to-night said that Jack Johnson had agreed to fight Sam Langford and Sam McVey in Australia under certain conditions not as yet complied with by Promoter W. H. McIntosh.

"Johnson told representatives of McIntosh that their offer of $40,000 for fights with Langford and McVey would be acceptable to him, provided he received $5,000 for training expenses and three round trip tickets to Australia, and provided that $10,000 were deposited with me," Tearney said. "He chose me as stakeholder because I had guided him in business investments. I have no connection with promoting the fights other than that of stakeholder.

"After Johnson had issued his ultimatum, McIntosh's representatives came to me for references. That is the last I heard of the proposition."

Johnson refused to affirm the report that he would re-enter the ring. He said he would fight if it would be a "personal favor to Tearney."

M'LOUGHLIN BEATS BUNDY IN SINGLES

One Californian Eliminates Another in New York State Tournament.

Always in complete mastery of the situation, Maurice E. McLoughlin won his way into the final and championship round of the New York State lawn tennis tournament on the turf courts of the Crescent Athletic Club at Bay Ridge yesterday. The playing-through holder of the title in the singles again demonstrated impressively while defeating Thomas C. Bundy, his team mate from California, by the score of 6—4, 6—1, 6—1, that he has yet to meet his master this season. At all stages McLoughlin displayed the effect of the careful coaching he has received at the hands of William A. Larned and of his trips as an international representative to Australia. He outplaced Bundy by a total of 30 to 17, while his outs and nets were only a total of 43 to 60.

R. Norris Williams, the youth who recently won the National clay court and Pennsylvania State titles, coupled with McLoughlin for the final by defeating Walter Merrill Hall at 6—2, 6—3, 7—5. The forcing tactics of the dashing youth were always to the fore. He was unerringly sure, and by compelling Hall to play widely to one side of the court he usually gathered in the points by passing on the opposite line.

The doubles were also reduced to the two surviving pairs in the final round. As had been expected, McLoughlin and Bundy, the Pacific Coast challengers for the National titles, came through with colors flying by eliminating C. Frederick Watson, Jr., and Charles R. Leonard, the Orange pair, at 6—2, 6—4, 6—2.

Karl H. Behr and Frederick C. Inman won the other doubles semi-final contest by defeating Watson M. Washburn, the young Yale star, who was paired with Lyle E. Mahan. The score was 2—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—0.

Singles.—Semi-Final Round—M. E. McLoughlin defeated T. C. Bundy, 6—4, 6—1, 6—1; R. N. Williams defeated W. M. Hall, 6—2, 6—3, 7—5.

Doubles.—Semi-Final Round—K. H. Behr and F. C. Inman defeated W. M. Washburn and L. E. Mahan, 2—6, 6—4, 6—3, 6—0; M. E. McLoughlin and T. C. Bundy defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., and C. R. Leonard, 6—2, 6—4, 6—2.

Woodmere Tennis Under Way.

Spirited lawn tennis matches marked the opening of the cup tournament on the courts of the Woodmere Country Club, at Woodmere, L. I., yesterday, and the interest was helped along by a reversal, as Frederick G. Anderson, once famous as the New Jersey State and Canadian champion, went down to defeat. Anderson met Louis J. Dreyfus, a former Columbia University player, in the second round. He had previously defeated B. H. Namm at 6—1, 6—2, so that he began shooting the ball fast and deep to Dreyfus in the first set. Anderson reeled off six straight games at a pace that defied anything that Dreyfus could do to stop him. Apparently that was all Anderson could go, for as Dreyfus settled into his game he passed Anderson at will, despite the latter's stubborn resistance in the third set. The old collegian held steady, however, and scored at 0—6, 6—4, 10—8. The summary:

Singles.—First Round—H. F. Rothschild defeated J. Rothstein, 6—3, 6—1; M. Goldman defeated M. S. Cohen, 6—1, 6—1; R. H. Boggs defeated R. H. Strobel, 6—0, 6—3; J. R. Marks defeated A. Saqui, 6—1, 6—2; J. C. Dennett defeated W. L. Case, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3; D. E. McAvoy defeated K. F. Fisher, 6—3, 7—5, 6—2; F. G. Anderson defeated B. H. Namm, 6—1, 6—2; G. A. L. Dionne defeated G. Ernst, 6—1, 6—1; E. Basch defeated F. Schmoll, 6—4, 6—0.

Second Round—R. D. Richey defeated H. R. Stair, 6—3, 6—2; J. R. Marks defeated M. Behr, 6—1, 6—2; L. J. Dreyfus defeated F. G. Anderson, 0—6, 6—4, 10—8; Milton Cohn defeated C. M. Amerman, 6—0, 6—1.

Third Round—Paul Foerster defeated Milton Cohn, 6—1, 6—0.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Failing to Show Samples or Evidence, Importers Lose.

Wilfred Schade & Co. protested before the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday a decision of the Surveyor at St. Louis on decorated glassware. The invoice was assessed at 60 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 98, and the firm maintained it dutiable at 45 per cent. under Paragraph 109. As it submitted neither sample nor evidence the board sustained the Government's classification.

Marshall Field & Co. protested against an assessment of 44 cents per pound and 55 per cent. ad valorem on a carding of rounded, loose, untwisted wool fibre ready to be spun into a thread or yarn, maintaining it to be a yarn made wholly or in part of wool and dutiable at 38½ cents per pound and 40 per cent. ad valorem. The board sustained the protest.

Free entry was secured by Lehn & Fink for merchandise invoiced as lithyol, on which duty had been assessed at 25 per cent. ad valorem as a medicinal preparation. The board found the merchandise to be ammonium sulpho ichthyolate.

DRY GOODS STILL ACTIVE

But Strike Troubles Are Causing a Shortage in Certain Lines.

Buyers were active in the New York dry goods market yesterday, and as a result the aggregate volume of business done showed little if any recession from the levels of the preceding days. Individual orders received during the day were said to be generally of substantial size, and the diversification of the demand that has featured trading in the majority of lines so far this season was still in evidence.

Trading in Fall dress goods showed no signs of slowing up, the day's sales in the aggregate having been fully up to those of Wednesday. Wash goods also moved in a generally satisfactory way, although transactions in this end of the secondary market were hampered somewhat by the shortage of certain fabrics and colors that has resulted from the prolongation of the New Bedford strike.

Buyers of heavyweight lines of hosiery and underwear were no more active, and the results of the day apparently bore out previous predictions of increased business for this week. White goods and dress linens met a generally good demand, as did silks, laces and dress ginghams. Trading in rugs and other floor coverings was reported to be heavier than that of the day before. Neckwear, notions and ribbons showed improvement.

There was no material change in the primary market during the day. Trading in dress goods and men's wear fabrics for next Spring continued in an active way, and there was no apparent loss of strength on the part of staple cotton goods.

CLOAK AND SUIT TRADE.

Sales of Good Size and Better Than a Year Ago.

These are busy days for New York cloak and suit manufacturers. Some very substantial business has been placed in the last week or two by Southern and Western retailers in the market for Fall lines, and, from all accounts, continued activity is expected for some time. Individual sales were reported yesterday to be of good size, and for the most part better than those of a year ago.

Orders placed by Texas merchants generally reflected the reported prosperity of that State, and the aggregate of merchandise taken to date by buyers from other Southern points was said to indicate general recovery from the uncertainty felt by retailers in that part of the country last Spring. Western business was also reported to show noticeable improvement so far over that of last year.

THE RAW SILK MARKET.

Yokohama Reports Active Demand from America and Europe.

Latest cable advices from Yokohama report a firm market and a generally active demand from both Europe and the United States for all grades of Japanese raw silks. Prices are steady, with a tendency to advance.

The Shanghai market is also firm under a steady demand, the decline in exchange having enabled reelers to offer more attractive figures to buyers. Tsatlee silks are rather easy, and are being freely taken. Sales of these grades to American buyers in the last week amounted to 1,400 bales. The situation in Canton shows no change. Reelers show little disposition to recede from their strong position in the matter of prices, and trading is somewhat limited for the moment. Advices from Milan received by H. L. Gwalter & Co., 470 Broadway, indicate continued firmness in Italian silks. A good demand for them is in evidence from both sides of the Atlantic, and prices are consequently strong.

There was no great amount of activity in the New York market in the week. Some interest was shown in contracts for late delivery, but generally at prices slightly below the prevailing market figures. This naturally restricted business to transactions booked by short selling. A fair demand for silks for immediate delivery was noted, however.

FALL JEWELRY OUTLOOK.

Large Local and Road Transactions Expected Under Favorable Prices.

From all accounts, silversmiths handling sterling ware in the Maiden Lane district are sharing a good part of the activities of buyers reported a few days ago by wholesalers of plated goods. While by no means as heavy as will be done later, business received in the last week or so has been generally good and indicative of one of the best seasons in some time. Jewelers from the Southern and Western States are already coming in in fair numbers, and it is expected that the middle of the month will see the best part of them in the city for their Fall purchases. Prices show no upward revision from the levels of last Spring, as far as can be learned, and as a result more than the usual amount of spot buying is looked for.

Correspondence from jewelers in various parts of the country who will not be in the market this year is said to be generaly optimistic, and, in view of the reported excellent condition of the basic industries, some very good road business is anticipated.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The Consular district of Seville, Spain, comprises the Provinces of Seville, Cadiz, Cordova, Huelva, Badajoz, and Caceres, with a combined area of 31,400 square miles and a population of 3,110,000. A large part of the population is engaged in agricultural pursuits, for this fertile section furnishes cereals, vegetables, and meats to the rest of the kingdom. Considerable attention is given to the raising and breeding of live stock, particularly pigs, bulls, and horses, for which the region is famous.

The United States obtained a share of the increased purchases of New Zealand during 1911. The value of imports from the United States was $8,200,029, the highest importation recorded by over $200,000. At the same time, however, the value of the exports to the United States decreased $578,422, because of declining sales in hemp, kauri gum, sheepskins, and wool.

The Bomonti & Nectar Company of Constantinople is erecting a brewery and refrigerating plant in Smyrna that will have an annual capacity of 924,700 gallons of beer and 3,650 tons of ice. The cost of the brewery will be about $230,000, all the machinery being imported from Germany. It will be completed in September.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

High toes and heels and short vamps in the medium grades of shoes are extremely popular just now in the Middle West, according to a recognized trade authority. From present indications, they will continue to be in demand for some time.

Short nap silk beavers are extensively worn by smart dressers in Parisian fashion circles. Whether or not the vogue for them will reach this country is said to be an unanswerable question at this time.

A revival of embroideries is predicted in certain quarters of the New York market. Recent sales of these goods, however, do not bear out this prediction to any great extent.

A decided growth in the demand for fine dress ginghams is in evidence in this market. The future position of these goods now appears to be firmly established after a period of general uncertainty.

RUSSIAN FURS HIGHER.

Reports from Nijni Show a Scarcity in Some Lines.

Persian lamb, marmot, ermine, squirrel, and pony skin are quoted higher this year at the annual fair, or fur sale, now going on in Nijni, Russia, according to advices received yesterday from Albert Herskovits, of Albert Herskovits & Son, 44 West Twenty-eighth Street, who is attending the sale. Supplies of these furs received this year at Nijni, one of the principal European markets, were somewhat smaller than in 1911, which fact was held responsible for the advance. There is no apparent scarcity of the other furs handled in that market, however, and prices hold close to previous levels.

In the New York market the fur workers' strike is seriously retarding the business of importers. The present demand from the manufacturing trade is nominal, according to a representative of the firm, and the business so far this season of the majority of New York importers is easily 75 per cent. below normal. The strike entered its eighth week yesterday and from all accounts there was little prospect of an immediate settlement of the trouble.

BRITISH TRADE INCREASES.

Exports and Imports in July Show Big Advances Over 1911.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The July statement of the Board of Trade shows increases of $36,330,500 in imports and $36,893,500 in exports as compared with a year ago, when labor strikes interfered with business in many directions.

The increase in the imports was equally divided between foodstuffs, raw material, and manufactured goods, while coal and manufactured goods showed the largest gains in the exports.

FREDERICK W. EVERS, INC.—The composition offer to creditors of Frederick W. Bricka, a creditor.

MARTIN J. CONDON.—Judge Holt has appointed Isidor Grayhead and Ferdinand A. Hoyt appraisers in place of Walter Stabler and C. W. Eckhardt to appraise the property at Pelham Manor of Martin J. MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 8.—The First National Bank of Brooklyn filed a petition in the Nassau County Surrogate's court to-day against John J. Jenkins, Jr., Frank Jenkins, and Edward T. Jenkins, as executors of the will of their father, John G. Jenkins, Sr.

The First National Bank obtained a judgment against the Jenkins brothers on Oct. 6, 1911, for $253,607.88, as executors of their father's will. The petition asks that they show cause before Sept. 7 as to why they should not file an accounting of the estate. It is alleged that they have given in no account of the estate since their appointment as executors.

The mortgage covers all the rolling stock and other physical property of the road. At the same time a twenty-five-million-dollar mortgage held by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York on an issue of improvement bonds was released.

Lose $40,000,000 Yearly in Eggs.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—More than $40,000,000 is lost every year by American egg producers and dealers through improper handling, according to the Department of Agriculture. The department has addressed an open letter to buyers and shippers appealing to them to undertake to eliminate the enormous losses due to small eggs, cracked and broken eggs, and stale, heated, and rotten eggs.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Recover—Cotton Falls with Good Rains—Coffee Weak.

Wheat was firm, with some evening up for the Government report. Further rains were reported in the Northwest. Corn was higher, with shorts active buyers of September. Oats improved, with commission houses good buyers. Provisions were quiet and steady. Cottonseed oil was more active and lower on favorable cotton crop news. Cotton broke to new low levels on generous rains throughout the belt. Coffee reacted on disappointing cables.

WHEAT.

Wheat was firm all day, gaining 1 to 1½c, closing a little under the best. In the Northwest the advance was due to the showers, which were rather general, as shown by the weather map, and to late rumors of development of rust in North Dakota. The Chicago market showed considerable strength for December, due to the recent good demand for cash wheat and the large sales. Later deliveries showed considerable evening up, induced quite largely by apprehension that the Government report, which will be out to-day, will not confirm the extremely high estimates of the crop. The estimates have been as high as 400,000,000 bushels of Winter wheat, and generally 300,000,000 to 325,000,000 bushels of Spring, with one estimate as high as 400,000,000 bushels. Last month the indications for Winter wheat were 358,000,000 bushels, and Spring wheat 271,000,000 bushels. In order to meet the general estimates, the Government crop figures have to be raised from 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels over the July 1 figures. The report will give the condition of Spring wheat, which was 89.3 last month, and the yield of Winter wheat. Last month the yield of Winter was 14.1 and the average for five years has been 15.5. The weather map showed general light showers in the American Northwest. Reports from the Canadian Northwest were generally favorable, with talk of about the same size crop as last year. Receipts of Winter wheat were again large, and in four days show 1,400,000 bushels increase over last year. On the other hand, interior shipments show an increase of 2,500,000 bushels. Foreign markets were firm. The Prussian Official Report made the condition of wheat 80, Aug. 1, against 82, July 1, and 76 last year. Rye, 80, against 80, July 1, and 76 last year. Argentine cables were of favorable wheat conditions in the north. Export sales were reported of thirty loads, largely of No 2 hard Winter, and after the close reports were as sigh as fifty loads. No. 2 red was quoted at $1.08¾, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.03¾; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.16½.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The market was strong all day for September, with the close at a net gain of 2c. December and May were a little firmer in sympathy, closing at ¼@⅜c net gain. The advance in the September was due to the strength of cash corn, the premiums of cash over September, and the rush of shorts to even up. With cash corn 4@7c over the September, there was no relief for a short market in the position of cash. Weather conditions were very favorable for the new crop, which explains the relative heaviness. Rains were general throughout the belt. The Government report to-day will give the condition of corn, which last month was 81.5. The indicated crop last month was 2,811,000,000 bushels and final last year 2,531,000,000 bushels. Cash corn was firm, with the export grade quoted at 82¾c, free on board.

OATS.—The market was active and strong, closing at about the high point of the day at ⅝@1⅛c net gain. Heavy commission house buying was again in evidence, and shorts were active buyers to even up before the Government report. The report to-day will give the condition of oats and the amount of old oats in farmers' hands. The condition last month was 89.2, indicated crop 1,139,000,000 bushels, final last year 922,000,000 bushels. Trade estimates have recently varied from 1,150,000,000 bushels to over 1,250,000,000 bushels. Cash oats were nominal for old oats. New natural whites were quoted at 57@58c on the spot. Oats to arrive were quoted at about 38@40c.

PROVISIONS.

Trading was slow, with the market a little lower during the session on small selling orders, but rallied at the close, when some support developed. Hog receipts were again fair, amounting to about 72,000, and live hogs were 5@20c lower at interior markets.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market was active, and showed decided selling pressure in the old-crop months. This was classed as speculative liquidation. Rather good buying orders developed on the break, and offerings were absorbed. New crop months were easier, due to the weakness in cotton, and the more favorable crop and weather advices. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

New low levels were made in the cotton market, and closing prices were only a few points over the low of the day. The decline was due to heavy liquidation, due to the weather map and private advices of rains in Texas. The weather map showed widely extended rains over almost the entire belt. The interior sections, which have not had sufficient rain, reported very general rains in Tennessee, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. Rains were general in Northern Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia. The prediction was for showers throughout. Private reports of rains in Central and Southern Texas caused quite heavy selling, although there was contradiction of these advices, and a private dispatch at midday reported the weather clear at a large number of points in Central and Southern Texas, which were contrary to other advices. The rains completely removed the moisture question as a factor for the time being in the greater part of the entire belt, and with this factor removed the trade is beginning to think of a much larger crop outturn. Based on the idea of serious damage and fear of the Government condition of the crop, the market advanced from the low point of the early Summer 2c a pound. In the last ten days it has declined from the extreme advance 1¼c a pound, and bears are now confidently talking of a crop of 10 to 15 per cent. larger than the indications from the Government report. Assertions are being made that the condition report for the end of August will show practically no deterioration. Ideas of the crop expressed by some cottonseed oil houses with large connections through the South are for an outturn of possibly 14,000,000 bales. Some of the large commission houses were rather inclined last night to advise caution at the decline, believing that further loss in the market would only be brought about by general rains through Central and Southern Texas and good rains in the Carolinas. The need of rains in the Carolinas has not been so urgent, however, as in the Far West. An analysis of the Texas rainfall compared with last year shows with the exception of two or three points a material deficiency in the precipitation in July, this deficiency ranging from one to five inches, and the rainfall as reported Aug. 1 to Aug. 7 has failed to make up this deficiency at a large number of points. New cotton is moving more rapidly. Contention is made, however, that the sales of new cotton for August shipment are considerably larger than any probable movement from Texas.

Coffee met an opening decline of 6 to 13 points, and later offerings became heavy. The close was barely steady at a net loss of from 15 to 10 points. Sales reported, 47,750 bags. Havre declined ½ to ¾ franc and Hamburg was ¼ to ¾ pfennig lower. The Brazilian markets were both steady and unchanged.

McLAUGHLIN & KINNIER FAIL.

Suspension of Broad Street Brokerage Firm Announced on Consolidated.

The suspension of McLaughlin & Kinnier, brokers, at 68 Broad Street, with branch offices at 320 Broadway and 217 West 125th Street, was announced on the Consolidated Exchange yesterday. Leo McLaughlin, one of the partners, is a member of the Board of Governors of the Exchange.

John B. Doyle, a lawyer with an office at 115 Broadway, to whom the firm assigned, said that a preliminary examination of the books had convinced him that the liabilities would amount to $40,000, with assets of $5,000, half of them doubtful. Mr. Doyle said that the firm had been losing money for nine months, and had lost $10,000 of new capital which was obtained in December. He ascribed the failure to the protracted dullness in this period, which had produced little business for his clients.

BIG COPPER SUPPLY GAIN.

Last Month's 137,000,000 Pounds—Output Sets a New Record.

The August statement of the Copper Producers' Association proved disappointing yesterday to the interests which have been trying to push up the price of the metal. The stocks on hand, after showing an aggregate decrease of 21,000,000 pounds in the June and July statements, were increased by 5,945,000 pounds when the August report was made up. With the increases abroad, the world's visible supply of copper shows a gain of 14,000,000 pounds for the month.

The increase in this country's copper stocks is largely due to increased production. The output for July was 137,000,000 pounds, the largest for any single month since the organization of the Producers' Association and an increase of nearly 13,000,000 pounds over June. The total deliveries here and abroad were 131,215,000 pounds, an increase of 3,619,000 pounds.

MURRAY URGES BANK INQUIRY

Rowlesburg Failure Shows Need of Federal and State Co-operation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Alleged irregularities, which are said to have wrecked the First National Bank of Rowlesburg, W. Va., have been referred to Attorney General Wickersham by Controller of the Currency Murray for investigation. Mr. Murray was advised today by Receiver Hiatt that the effort of the shareholders to reorganize the institution had failed, but probably a new bank would be formed.

The Controller declared the discovery of the bank's condition showed the advantage of co-operation between the National and State banking authorities. About ten days ago, Mr. Murray said, a State Bank Examiner informed him of a relationship he had found existing between the First National Bank of Rowlesburg and a State institution. This excited the Controller's suspicion, and a special examination was ordered.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

General Reaction After Further Advance—Business in Many Lines Expanding.

Conditions bearing on the business and financial situation continued in nearly all respects favorable yesterday, but prices on the Stock Exchange, after some further advance, reacted enough to show net losses in the large majority of active issues. This was seemingly due to the fact that the rise which had been under way prompted the liquidation of a good deal of stock in the hands of those who had been awaiting a favorable opportunity to lessen their commitments on the Stock Exchange. The opening rises in prices followed by a general decline, accompanied, as this movement was, by a substantial increase in the volume of trading, suggested that a considerable amount of liquidation was under way. Such a movement has its advantage at this time as a means of checking a too confident feeling which might easily lead to the creation of a Stock Exchange position which would prove uncomfortable the moment money, now for a brief space at the disposal of the stock market, was needed in other quarters. From this point of view a reaction in stock prices represents a recognition of the limitations of the money market rather than any impairment of the confidence with which most look to the future. The views taken of Mr. Wilson's address of acceptance was one of the factors which facilitated the making of higher prices at the opening of yesterday's market. There were things which the financial community would like to have seen in that address which were not to be found there, at least not in as specific form as some would have liked, but it was evident that on the whole the address created a most favorable impression. For one thing, it does away with any apprehension that Mr. Wilson would favor handling the tariff question in a way unnecessarily to disturb business. It was recognized, too, that in many other matters Mr. Wilson's speech supplied a grateful antidote to much that has of late been said by those seeking popular support.

As to the immediate news of the day, there was much to confirm previous information regarding a broadening tendency in general business. The two chief items upon which an unfavorable interpretation could be put were the increase of nearly 6,0000,000 pounds during July in the stocks of copper in the hands of producers, and the June statement of the Harriman lines, which showed that the Union and Southern Pacific systems failed in that month to check the decline in their net earnings. So far as the stock of copper is concerned it is still, despite last month's increase, smaller than at any time during the first four months of this year. The reduction in stock which took place in May and June was regarded by the trade as carrying the supply of the metal below the amount reasonably required for the convenience of the copper trade, and that reduction therefore was regarded as due to conditions which could not reasonably be expected to be maintained. Of the Harriman earnings it may be said that they were in keeping with the showing which had previously been made by the St. Paul for the final month of the last fiscal year, and that they covered a period during which no advantage had been obtained from the favorable crop outturn in a number of States served by the Harriman lines. It would be futile, however, to ignore the fact that the Union and Southern Pacific statements for the last fiscal year bring into sharp relief the difficulties with which the railroads have for some time past been contending in the shape of rapidly increasing taxes, and of additions to operating expenses which have deprived many roads of any advantage from increased earnings, and have prevented others, as in the case of the Southern and Union Pacific systems, from offsetting a decline in gross earnings by an adequate curtailment of operating expenses. The remedies for this general situation of the railroads is not yet in sight, but there is hope of some relief, of temporary character at least, in the present prospect of largely increased traffic this Fall.

From preliminary estimates of the United States Steel Corporation's shipments during July, and of the inflow of new business during that month, it seems probable that the unfilled order statement to be issued to-morrow will show an increase somewhere in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons. Any such increase will carry corroboration of the excellent reports in respect to new business which have been coming from the steel trade in recent weeks. But this is only one of many lines in which the volume of business has been increasing. As an illustration of the extent to which consumption in varied lines is expanding, it is understood that the earnings of the Woolworth Company increased during July by 14 per cent., compared with the corresponding month last year, and that the business of the Sears-Roebuck Company, which covers a broad field of distribution, was 44 per cent. larger in July this year than in July, 1911. In this large increase is doubtless seen a reflection of the better crop situation in many sections of the country, which has naturally led to freer buying.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Looking Ahead.

One of the oldest traders in Wall Street, whose activities for many years made him the centre of many pool operations, said after the close of the market yesterday that the influence of politics on the leaders in financial affairs, had been greatly overrated. The same thing, he thought, might be said of the poor showing made by some of the big railroads, which was used as a bear argument in the afternoon session. "The successful man has to look ahead further than to-morrow," said the trader. "Take the big factors in the situation and you will see the trend for coming months. For several years the trend was downward. There was temporary improvement in 1908 and 1909, but the real turn did not come until this Spring. The crop which is now being gathered is the big factor and the trend of business is definitely upward."

⁂

The Harriman Earnings.

With results for eleven months known, it was obvious to any one that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific earnings for the year would show a considerable decrease from 1911. The disappointment felt over the showing made by yesterday's statement was due to the discovery that June, which it was hoped might produce an increase in net which would partly offset the losses of the earlier months, had been a poor month for both roads. Gross earnings of the Union Pacific in June were smaller by $221,000 and net by $602,000, or more than 20 per cent. The Southern Pacific did little better, relatively. That company's gross declined $60,000 and its net by $440,000, or about 14 per cent. The statements were so unfavorable as to call for explanation by the management.

⁂

Dividends Not Menaced.

As a matter of fact, Union Pacific could have lost several millions more without seriously endangering its surplus for dividends. In recent years about half of its balance for the stockholders has come from railroad operations and half from interest and dividends on securities in the company's treasury. For the last five years the average surplus has been over 17 per cent. on the stock. This year's balance is something under 14 per cent., out of which to pay dividends of 10 per cent. If this year's results had been indicative of a growing tendency, and not the effect of peculiar conditions that are not likely to be repeated, the decrease would be a serious matter for the stockholders.

⁂

Southern Railway Preferred.

A further rise in Southern Railway preferred, carrying the price to 80⅛, revived hopes of an increase in the dividend at the Fall meeting. The last declaration was 2 per cent. for the half year, putting the issue on a 4 per cent. basis. The preferred is entitled to 5 per cent. per annum, and the Southern's good earnings in the last year have led shareholders to look for an increase at an early date. At 80⅛ the issue sold at a new high point for five years.

⁂

An Unusual Failure.

The financial troubles of McLaughlin & Kinnier, a Consolidated Exchange house, were explained by the assignee on unusual grounds. The time-honored explanation of such failures is that the brokers have been committed to the wrong side of the market, or that large customers have been unable to meet calls for margin in an active market, or that a dishonest employe has made off with the firm's funds. Yesterday's failure was laid against the stagnation in the market. While expenses and overhead charges ran along just the same, commissions were falling off. When the business first began to show a loss the partners ascribed it to the usual dullness expected in a Presidential year. But the dullness continued as well as the expense bills.

⁂

Anthracite Production.

The output of anthracite coal in July was the largest on record for that month, and within a few thousand tons of the maximum quantity for any month. The apparent consumption in July was 6,194,-000 tons, which was sold at the best prices received since the civil war. This condition is the result of the suspension of mining last month, the effect of which will be felt through this month. The strike brought about a great shortage, which has not yet been made up, and it is predicted by coal men that August may set a new high record in the monthly totals.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

When the unsatisfactory Harriman earnings were made public in the late afternoon the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange sold off sharply. For some time previously prices had been gradually softening. At the start, however, bullish sentiment prevailed in the market. Active trading developed on the 9:30 o'clock opening call. The market continued broad and active throughout the day, with the total of sales 47,964 shares, distributed over a list of 58 stocks.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Advance in Tobacco Subsidiary Follows Statement of Earnings.

About the only noteworthy feature of yesterday's transactions on the curb, which were again in small volume, was an advance in the stock of the American Machine and Foundry Company, which is in process of being separated from the American Tobacco Company. With the announcement that the subsidiary company will earn a surplus of 8.37 per cent. on its stock this year the price jumped from 55 to 70. In the bond department Chicago Elevated 5s were active at 97⅞ and 98.

The principal transactions yesterday, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were:

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN.

Showing of Producers' August Statement Depresses the Copper Issues.

Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis 5s, which have been making new high records daily during the week, moved upward another point on the Baltimore Exchange.

Boston Copper shares were quiet and made small advances, but the prevailing tone was heavy after publication of the copper producers' statistics. Butte & Superior was sold down from 46 to 44¼. Pneumatic Service stocks were active and strong, the common gaining to 5 and preferred to 20. United Fruit maintained its prominence, receding 3⅝ to 190½, with a rally to 191¼. There is still about 3 points profit in selling stock and buying the rights. Calumet & Hecla was conspicuous, touching 76½, with ⅝ reaction; Shannon rise to 17⅝, but receded to 17¼. United Shoe Machinery lost 1, to 50½. The market was very quiet in the afternoon, with general softness prevailing at the end.

Sears-Roebuck common sold at 204 in Chicago, but some of the brokerage firms which usually represent the insiders were sellers of the common in the early trading, and the stock sold back to 202½. The large houses which have stood back of the bull movement in these shares ever since it was started some 50 points lower were the best buyers of the stock.

Sales of Kansas City Railway & Light common stock were made at 14½, a drop of 4 points since the last previous sale.

Buying of J. G. Brill common stock was a feature of the Philadelphia market, the price advancing from 27½ to 30 before the end of the first hour. This makes a jump of about 6 points in two days. The sudden demand for a stock usually so inactive naturally attracted a good deal of attention and was ascribed primarily to the great improvement in the company's business, which is said to be now the largest in its history, excepting the year 1907, when a dividend was paid on the $5,000,000 outstanding common shares.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Home Rails and Other Stocks Improve in London — Firmness in Paris and Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 9.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"The demand for money was on a moderate scale yesterday, and the supply was fully adequate. The quotation for day-to-day advances was unaltered, but there was rather more inquiry for short fixtures.

"Discount rates all advanced owing to Wednesday's withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England, and the prospect of further operations of the same kind. Continental Exchanges responded to the rise, which amounted to over 1-16 per cent. in the case of six months paper.

"On the whole there was very little fresh business on the Stock Exchange, but the tone was cheerful in all departments during most of the day, and in the late dealings prices in the home railway market advanced sharply.

"In one or two departments, notably that for oil shares, business was rather more active than of late.

"American shares were bought with some freedom on Continental account.

"The strength of heavy stocks was the chief feature of the home railway market, bear closing before the carry-over and a small investment demand finding the market short of stock.

"Argentine railway securities were still under the influence of the satisfactory traffic returns issued on Wednesday.

"At the mining end of the house the tone was firm at the close, in common with other departments.

"Rather more attention was given to rubber shares."

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The Bourse opened uncertain but closed firm to-day. Three per cent. rentes, 92f 30c for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Prices were firm on the Boerse to-day.

REDUCED PROFITS FOR HARRIMAN LINES

Judge Lovett Issues Statement to Explain Big Drop in Year's Earnings.

RATE REDUCTIONS HEAVY

Legislation, Higher Taxes and Wages, Labor, Trouble, and Bad Weather Factors in the Shrinkage.

Earnings of the Harriman lines for June and the twelve months, which had been awaited with considerable interest in the financial district, appeared yesterday, accompanied by a statement from Judge R. S. Lovett to explain the big decreases suffered by both the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. For June the former's net earnings decreased by $602,000, or more than 20 per cent., while the Southern Pacific's net yield decreased $440,000, or 14 per cent.

For the full year the Union Pacific had gross revenues of $85,977,000, a loss of $3,005,000 for the year, and a surplus for the shareholders of $33,840,000, a loss of $6,137,000 by comparison with 1911. The company's balance for the common stock was equivalent to 13.8 per cent. on the $216,645,000 outstanding, which is receiving dividends of 10 per cent.

The Southern Pacific system fared little better. Its gross earnings for 1912 were $131,525,000, a loss of $1,095,000, and its surplus $20,613,000, a loss of $5,475,000. This is equivalent to 7.5 per cent. on the $272,672,000 of stock outstanding. The Southern Pacific pays 6 per cent. on its shares.

Judge Lovett issued the following statement to explain the drop in the earnings of the two companies:

"The gross earnings of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific systems for the fiscal years just ended were greater than in any previous year in their history, except 1910 and 1911, which for a number of reasons were phenomenal, and this notwithstanding crop failures in Union Pacific territory, shortage of the citrus fruit crops in California, and heavy reductions in rates by commissions, State and inter-State.

Big Increase in Taxes.

"But expenses and taxes and additional interest charges for capital in the construction of branches and extensions earnings on which are not yet fully developed and for betterments and additions reduced our net. In a single year taxes increased $906,000 on the Union Pacific and $770,000 on the Southern Pacific, and in five years have doubled, jumping from $2,069,734 in 1907 to $4,368,788 in 1912 on the Union Pacific and from $2,896,501 in 1907 to $5,621,239 in 1912 on the Southern Pacific, all of which, of course, comes off the net.

"The boiler inspection laws, the hours of service laws, the full train crew laws, and the so-called safety appliance laws have substantially increased operating expenses, which have been further augmented by increased wage schedules, and then the shopmen's strike has been very expensive, though it has not cost us half as much as I expected when the issue was joined.

"An unusually severe Winter, followed by high water in the Union Pacific territory, as well as in Louisiana, in the Spring, added to our difficulties. All reports coming to me are to the effect that crops of all kinds throughout our territory are the best in years. Our properties are in splendid condition, and we are looking forward to excellent business throughout the year."

Union Pacific on Alton Board.

It was announced a few weeks ago that the Union Pacific as the owner of more than half of the preferred stock of the Chicago & Alton had taken an issue of that company's bonds to supply the Alton with funds for improvements. At the same time T. P. Shonts resigned the Presidency to be succeeded by B. A. Worthington. Chairman Lovett announced yesterday that the Union Pacific will get representation on the Alton's board.

"Later on, as soon as a quorum for the necessary board meeting can conveniently be secured, I, with some of my associates, expect to go on the board and Executive Committee of the Chicago & Alton, but the Alton is in no sense to become a part of the Union Pacific system or enjoy preferential treatment as a connecting carrier," he said. "Our relation is to be only that of a stockholder and creditor who, by consent of the other stockholders, has been intrusted with the selection and direction of the management of the company in the interest of all concerned. By the selection of an experienced and energetic President and staff and close attention to details we shall endeavor to conserve the safety in our investment as well as that of all others in the Alton as a strictly independent railroad company."

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

The fifty typical stocks yesterday averaged higher again through the day's trading, but because they closed not far above the low point netted a slight loss for the day compared with Wednesday's closing average, which was close to that day's highest. This day last year the same stocks averaged lowest, to even date, for the year. The averages were:

Stability of Revenue:

Few investors realize that Electric Railway Earnings for several years past have shown greater relative stability than those of steam roads. The science of operating Electric Railways has advanced to a point where the elements entering into the interruption of operation are under better control than the more diversified and therefore greater difficulties encountered in the operation of steam roads.

We are offering at a price to yield an income of nearly 5½%, the bonds of a large Electric Railway System earning NET over $2,000,000—the bonds being a lien on physical property valued at over $17,000,000. Circular (C 15) on request.

9,308. PUBLIC WORKS.—The American Consulate General at Ottawa, Canada, reports that the Department of Public Works has advertised for tenders for the following public works: (1) Bids will be received until Aug. 14, 1912, for constructing a public building at Lethbridge, Alberta; for the placing of riprap at the outer end of new breakwater at Port Arthur, Thunder Bay District, Ontario; for constructing an extension to west breakwater at entrance to Coburg Harbor, Northumberland County, Ontario; for the construction of one crib, the stone and gravel approach, and the reconstruction of the superstructure of the existing wharf at Big Bay, County of Grey, Ontario. Plans, specifications, and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the Department of Public Works at Ottawa.

9,309. He is interested in this article and would like to receive from American dealers samples of about 2-foot lengths or so. He is also anxious to get in touch with exporters of various grades of oak lumber, especially firsts and seconds plain white oak, the varieties known as "cow oak" and "chestnut oak" in the United States, or other oaks of a light color.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Big Building Record in Bronx—Congressman Levy Sells in Fulton Street—Harlem and Eighty-third Street Deals—$4,000,000 for New Western Union Structure—Suburban Activity.

Most of the real estate activity yesterday was centred in the Bronx, which ever since the first of the year has given evidences of a marked revival in realty activity as well as in building operations. The recent decision of the long delayed Subway problem has stimulated new structural work in many parts of that rapidly growing borough, and the plans filed for new apartments in the eastern section, notably in the Hunt's Point and Watson districts, within the last few months attest to the value of adequate transit in building up home centres.

The semi-annual report announced yesterday by Supt. James A. Henderson of the Bureau of Buildings contains some striking facts regarding the amount of new work projected there for the first six months of the year.

The estimated cost of the new buildings for which plans were filed during that period aggregated over $20,000,000, a most excellent showing, as it is only about $2,000,000 less than the cost of new buildings planned during the entire year of 1911.

The greatest increase was seen in tenements and flats costing over $15,000, there being for the first half of this year plans filed for 334 structures to accommodate over 7,000 families and costing $13,712,000, as compared with 181 to cost $7,231,000 planned for the corresponding period in 1911. Substantial increases are likewise shown in plans for new office buildings, manufactories, public buildings, and places of amusement. The better quality of the new amusement buildings is seen in that the twenty-seven new buildings this year have an estimated cost of $1,374,600, as against $384,350 for fifty amusement houses in the first six months of 1911.

The alterations also show a decided increase, the semi-annual record giving 1,276 buildings at a cost of $778,509, as against 319 a year ago, costing $462,382. The grand total of new buildings and alterations this year is 2,020, costing $20,930,794, as compared with 1,003 costing $11,004,117 for the first half of 1911.

Old Fulton Street Building Sold.

The four-story business building at 46 Fulton Street has been sold by Congressman Jefferson M. Levy. The Charles F. Noyes Company negotiated the sale, the buyer being a client of the firm, who will use the building for his business. The plot is 25 by 30 feet, between Cliff and Pearl Streets.

Builders Increase 83d St. Holdings.

The Hennessy Construction Company has increased its holdings on West Eighty-third Street by the purchase of 47, a three-story dwelling on a lot 18.9 by 100 from Mrs. M. Betts.

The company purchased the three adjoining houses, 41, 43, and 45, last month, and now control a plot 76.3 by 102.2, on which a nine-story apartment will be erected.

The Blennerhassett Sold.

Paul Worms has sold to the New York Real Estate Security Company for investment the Blennerhassett, a six-story elevator apartment, at 507, 509, and 511 West 111th Street. The property was held at $150,000, and occupies a plot 62.2 by 100.

Big Plot for Bronx Y. M. C. A.

A new building for the Young Men's Christian Association will soon be erected in the Bronx, on a large plot which has been accumulated within the last year. The site for the new building has been acquired in seven parcels, and title will soon be taken to the final plots recently purchased.

The property comprises approximately two-thirds of the block bounded by Washington Avenue, Elton Avenue, 160th Street, and 161st Street. The larger part was bought over a year ago and formed a triangle, but by a judicious exchange with owners to the west and the recent purchase of additional frontage on 160th Street, the plot is now almost square. The Washington Avenue frontage is 182½ feet, 161st Street 145 feet, and 160th Street 158 feet. The site is considered very desirable, and is easy of access.

The new building will be the home of the Union Branch Young Men's Christian Association. The entire plot was assembled by George Price, as broker.

Bronx Borough.

An investor has purchased from the Absar Realty Company, of which A. Weissman is President, 897 Beck Street, a five-story new-law tenement on a plot 36.6 by 100. The structure is one of a row recently completed. Alexander Selkin was the broker in the transaction.

The Lockwhit Construction Company has purchased from Henry Morgenthau a plot 175 by 155 by irregular on the west side of Whitlock Avenue, 100 feet north of Tiffany Street. A five-story apartment will be erected on the site.

A plot of seventeen lots on the east side of the Southern Boulevard, between St. John's and Leggett Avenues, was given in part payment by the Marion Holding Company for the six-story apartment at 129th Street and Old Broadway, sold Wednesday by Judson S. Todd. The Allyn-Hall Realty Company negotiated the sale.

$115,000 Bronx Mortgage.

Smith & Phelps have negotiated for William Lowe a first mortgage loan of $115,000 on the property situated on the west side of Boston Road, extending from 181st to 182d Streets, and at the entrance to Bronx Park, known as the Bronx Park Casino.

21-Year Brooklyn Lease.

Bulkley & Horton Company, in conjunction with F. W. Carruthers, have leased the plot on the southeast corner of Rogers Avenue and Sterling Place for 21 years, with the privilege of renewal for another term of 21 years. The lessee will erect a large automobile repair shop on the property.

Two Big Newark Deals.

The Union Building Company has purchased from Albert H. Peal the four-story brick building, 841 Broad Street. About $200,000 is involved in the transaction. The buyers gave in part payment the four-story apartment house known as the Tremont, located at 263 Belleville Avenue.

The new owners of 841 Broad Street, which has a frontage of 21 feet 7 inches on Broad Street by 172 feet in depth, running to Treat Place, and is located 500 feet south of Broad and Market Streets, in the rapidly growing retail shopping district, will remodel the structure into a modern mercantile building.

Louis Schlesinger, who negotiated the transaction, has also disposed of the vacant plot 316 to 322 Mt. Prospect Avenue, at the southwest corner of Second Avenue, 135 feet front by 275 in depth, to John H. Dunn & Sons, who intend to erect apartment houses similar to those erected on Clinton Avenue, known as "Harrow Manor," "Beaux Arts," and "Chateau," at a cost of $300,000, from plans by Dunn Brothers, architects.

Long Island.

Negotiations were closed yesterday for the sale of the Gillies property on Vernon Avenue, Long Island City. The plot contains nearly four acres of ground, and has a frontage along the East River of approximately 460 feet. Cross & Brown, the brokers in the transaction, say the buyer is a large industrial corporation which will improve the property at once.

The Windsor Land and Improvement Company has sold at Floral Park, to D. Golding and A. Conroy, each, a plot 40 by 100 on Daisy Avenue; to J. B. Bowman and J. Stratford, each, a plot 100 by 100 on Violet Avenue, and to Edward Smith a plot 40 by 100 on Calla Avenue.

Plans for New Western Union Building.

The Western Union Telegraph Company filed preliminary plans yesterday for its new building which is to take the place of its present structure at the northeast corner of Broadway and Dey Street.

It will cost $4,000,000, and will have a frontage of 75.3½ feet on Broadway, 275.7½ feet on Dey Street, and 33 feet on Fulton Street, occupying 170 on Fulton. There will be twenty-one elevators, fourteen running to the twenty-third floor and seven to the top.

East Forty-second Street Corner Leased.

The United Cigar Stores Company has leased from the New York Central Railroad for a term of twenty-one years, with two renewals, the plot at the northeast corner of Forty-second Street and Vanderbilt Avenue, extending to Forty-third Street.

The work of removing the present structures will begin in about thirty days, and the building will be ready for occupancy about March 1. The Forty-second Street corner of this property has long been occupied by Hetherington's drug store and the Forty-third Street corner by Charles & Co.

The plot measures 68 feet on Forty-second Street and 200 feet on Vanderbilt Avenue, facing the new Grand Central Station. A new six-story store and office building will be erected on the site.

Leases.

Cross & Brown Company has leased for the Atlas Garage Realty Company, for a long term of years the entire four-story building, on a plot 75 by 100.11, situated at 102 to 106 West 107th Street.

Leroy Coventry has leased for C. A. Starbuck, for a term of years, premises 276 West Eighty-ninth Street to Mrs. Hattie G. Bousch.

Arthur H. Cohen has leased for the trustees of the Masonic Building, space on the eighth floor to Harris Goldman; also for the Forty-sixth Street and Broadway Realty Company, a store at 1,543 Broadway, to I. D. & W. L. Rothschild, for five years.

Yonkers Growing Rapidly.

A canvass just completed for the annual Yonkers directory shows the population of that city to be 87,120 at the present time, which is an increase of 6,000 over last year, and nearly 10,000 over the population given the city by the Federal census in 1910.

Notes.

Maximilian Zipkes, architect, has filed plans for a six-story apartment house, to be erected on a plot 50 by 189, on the east side of Stebbins Avenue, north of East 165th Street, for Louis E. Kleban as owner. It will cost $60,000.

Plans have been filed for a steel water tower on the roof of the car stables of the Third Avenue Railroad Company on the north side of 216th Street, 250 feet east of Tenth Avenue. The tower will be 125.4 feet high and 35 feet in diameter, and will have a capacity of 50,000 gallons. It is to be built by the Des Moines Bridge and Iron Company of Pittsburgh, Penn., also the architects, and the cost will be $3,200.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The Western disturbance has advanced slowly east from the Plains States and is now central over the Upper Mississippi Valley and moving toward the Great Lakes. During the last twenty-four hours it caused unsettled weather with showers and thunder showers over the great central valleys. Rains are also reported from the North Pacific Coast.

Temperatures are somewhat lower over the Plains States and considerably lower on the Pacific Coast. Higher temperatures are noted in the Northwest, while they have not changed materially over the east half of the country.

Indications are that the disturbance noted will advance slowly east and be attended by unsettled weather and local rains during the next thirty-six or forty-eight hours over the greater part of the country east of the Mississippi River. The weather will become fair Saturday in the Mississippi Valley.

Temperature will rise in the Plains States, and it will change little elsewhere throughout the country during the next forty-eight hours.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate southeast and south; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate south; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable, mostly south.

Steamships departing Friday for European ports will have moderate variable winds, mostly south, overcast weather, and probably showers to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Friday and probably Saturday; moderate southeast winds.

Southern New England—Increasing cloudiness followed by showers Friday. Saturday showers; moderate southeast winds.

Western New York—Showers Friday and probably Saturday; not much change in temperature; moderate south winds.

Northern New England—Showers Friday and probably Saturday; moderate southeast and south winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1911.	1912.		1911.	1912.
3 A. M.	68	65	4 P. M.	75	72

9 A. M.	71	71	9 P. M.	72	68
12 M.	75	72	12 P. M.	72	68

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 68; for the corresponding date last year it was 72; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 73.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 68; at 8 P. M. it was 68. Maximum temperature, 73 degrees at 2:30 P. M.; minimum, 64 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 80 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 84 per cent. at 8 P. M.

EDUCATION NOTES.

C. Ward Crampton, Director of Physical Training in the Department of Education, is spending his vacation at Casco, Me.

Acting City Supt. Edson said yesterday that there were a number of applicants for the position of District Superintendent, to succeed Miss Julia Richman, who died on June 24, but that no name would be considered until the Board of Superintendents met in September. The by-laws of the Board of Education state that any vacancy in the office of City Superintendent, Associate City Superintendent, or District Superintendent, caused by death, resignation, or otherwise, shall be filled for the unexpired term. The date on which Miss Richman's term of office would have expired is June 30, 1913.

There is a good deal of speculation as to what City Supt. Maxwell meant when he recently assigned Associate City Supt. Thomas S. O'Brien to supervise the nautical school. It is said that not before has any member of the Board of Superintendents been especially assigned to such duty, the nautical school affairs having heretofore always been supervised by the committee, appointed for that purpose by the President of the Board of Education. Last Winter Commissioner Richard B. Aldcrofft, Jr., after long service as Chairman of the Executive Committee on the Nautical School, resigned from that position, and thereupon was appointed by President Winthrop as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Normal College. President Winthrop appointed Commissioner Michael J. Sullivan to succeed Mr. Aldcrofft as Chairman of the Nautical School Committee. Dr. Maxwell, it would seem, is acting under Subdivision 11 of Section 62 of the by-laws, which reads:

"The City Superintendent shall cause the nautical school to be inspected annually with reference to the methods of instruction employed and the progress of the pupils in the subjects of the school course."

The wording of Dr. Maxwell's recent pronouncement, however, would seem to indicate that Dr. O'Brien will be expected to do more than "annually inspect" the nautical school.

EXCISE AUTHORITIES GET TWO REBUFFS

Kernochan Discharges Cafe Employe Who Shut Door Against Them.

LIQUOR DEALERS SWITCH

Farley Had Counted on Them to Aid in Punishing Violators of State Law.

State Excise Commissioner W. W. Farley, who is leading the campaign against saloons and restaurants that violate the liquor laws, received two surprises yesterday, and one of them he was inclined to regard as a discouragement. In an action before Justice Lehman of the Supreme Court to revoke the license of a place known as Feggart's at 71 and 73 West 109th Street, P. A. McManus, attorney for the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, appeared to oppose the revocation.

Mr. Farley was surprised at this, for he said at gatherings of the liquor men there was always a great deal of talk about how opposed the association was to disorder and how much willingness there was to assist the department. The charge against Feggart's was that the place broke the law by Sunday sales, after-hours sales, and that it was a disorderly resort. Justice Lehman, after listening to the testimony, took the matter under consideration.

Magistrate Kernochan furnished the Commissioner with the second surprise when, without a word of explanation, he discharged Harry Halpin, who, it was alleged, had, while acting as doorkeeper at the Oxford Garden, 363 West 125th Street, interfered with an officer in the performance of his duty. It was Halpin who, when the excise men visited the place on Friday night, had attempted to hold the door against Mr. Farley and Deputy Commissioner Thomas McAvoy. The young man was arrested, Mr. Farley said, only after consideration, and it was believed his conduct called for his arrest.

"As I take the Magistrate's ruling in this case," said Commissioner Farley, "it is that, as the place was closed, the officers of the law had no right to enter, and so, in such a case, pushing an officer out of the way, is not interfering with him. How long will it take, do you think, for the word of Magistrate Kernochan's decision to go from one restort to another? Now we contend that the place was open, and when we got in we found some persons inside. As matters stand, in the light of what happened in the Magistrate's court, a place can be opened to every one but the agents of the law."

Since his automobile tour of warning on Friday night the Commissioner has had his agents at work gathering evidence, and he has also made a number of inspection tours himself. He said that he had found a number of places which had been warned now obeying the law, but he admitted he did not know how long their respect for it would continue. In a number of cases there has been no attempt to heed the warning. Farley intends to move against such places, but he said action would be slow and perhaps long delayed, for when he went into court he wanted to have a "case."

The Commissioner spoke yesterday against discrimination in granting of all-night licenses.

"I do not say there should be no all-night licenses," he said, "for there is a need for such places—respectable ones—but it certainly creates unfair conditions. I have come across one case where two men own places within a few blocks of each other. Both pay high rents and about the same amount, both are catering to the same class of persons, and both need all the business they can get to pay expenses. Yet one man must close up at 1 A. M., while the other can keep his lights burning brightly and take in at least $100 after closing hours. Such a condition makes for the taking of chances and the breaking of the law."

Commissioner Farley expects to return to Albany to-day, leaving his agents to continue their hunt for evidence of excise violations.

SUES BROKERS FOR $594,785.

Widow of G. T. Clark Says He Bought on Margin, Which Was Gambling.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 8.—A suit against William C. Hawes, J. Winthrop Tewksbury and Jere Colman, stockbrokers, copartners doing business under the firm name of Hawes, Tewksbury & Co., has been brought in the Superior Court by Mrs. Helen Augusta Clark, of 110 Marlboro Street, widow and administratrix of the estate of George L. Clark, to recover $594,785.17, which amount she asserts her husband lost in dealing with the defendants between Sept. 1, 1909, and Jan. 20, 1912.

Mrs. Clark says that all the transactions negotiated by her husband with the defendants were upon margins and that the defendants were gaming or waging contracts contrary to the provisions of Chapter 99 of the revised laws, and that during the period sued upon her husband was addicted to the habitual use of intoxicating liquors and that he was mentally incompetent and incapable of looking after his property, of which fact the defendants were aware.

An attachment of $800,000 has been made against the defendants, and the National State Bank is named as trustee.

Mr. Clark was the son of John M. Clark, who for many years was Sheriff of Suffolk County and whose estate of nearly $2,000,000 went to his son, the only heir. It is understood there is less than $500,000 remaining in the estate.

SIX HURT IN CAVE-IN.

Workmen Fall with Platform in Aqueduct Shaft.

Six men were working yesterday afternoon four hundred feet below the surface of St. Nicholas Avenue, where, at 149th Street, Shaft 9 of the Catskill Aqueduct is in course of construction, when one of them noticed a crack in a support of the plank platform on which they stood. The men huddled to one corner to examine the danger and the concentration of their weight was too great. The weakened supports gave way, the platform went down with a crash, dropping them to the bottom of the excavation, twenty-five feet below.

All were injured, five of them so seriously that they were removed unconscious to Harlem Hospital.

The injured men are A. Burke, of 823 West 145th Street, whose leg was broken; M. Catlan of 262 West 124th Street, who had internal injuries and some broken ribs; Peter Simon of 530 East 18th Street, suffering from cuts; Nicholas Yashonik of 2,862 Eighth Avenue, slightly bruised; Peter Maroo, of 2,862 Eighth Avenue, suffering from internal injuries, and Charles E. Fogarty of 494 East 172d Street, whose left leg was broken.

SAW TRAIN WRECK, FELL DEAD

Spectator One of Five Victims of Boston Derailment.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Two enginemen and two passengers were killed, a spectator dropped dead, and forty or more passengers were injured just before noon today by the derailing of an inbound train on the Plymouth division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad in Dorchester.

The dead are:

WILLIAM J. TIRRELL, Jr., engineer, South Braintree.
FRANK CAMPBELL, fireman, Cohasset.
Mrs. FRANK JENKINS, passenger, Atlantic.
Mrs. R. G. BOWDITCH, passenger, Braintree.
MICHAEL DALY, spectator, Dorchester.

The train, made up of a locomotive, three passenger coaches and a baggage car, was running at thirty-five miles an hour round a sharp curve when the locomotive jumped the rails. Two of the passenger cars followed it and bumped over the sleepers a hundred feet or more.

The locomotive then plunged off into the marsh land and half buried itself, while the two cars were hurled over it and their sides ripped off.

The engineer and fireman were buried in the débris about the engine. Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Bowditch were scalded by steam and died after removal to a hospital. Three or four other passengers were seriously hurt, but are expected to recover.

Railroad officials refuse to express any opinion as to the cause of the accident, but one theory is that the track had settled over the marshy land.

SOCIAL WORKERS ON BOATS.

Women Will Look Out for Welfare of Girls on Sound and River.

A chaperone for the steamers or a social worker on the seas is the latest activity of the woman who looks after the social welfare of the young. Mrs. Charles H. Israels, who has done so much in looking after the recreation of working girls and seeing to the morals of dance halls, said yesterday that the New England Navigation Company had seen the need of a woman to look after its young women travelers, and that one was to be tried on both their day and night boats.

The new chaperone will not be a policewoman in disguise, though she will keep a sharp lookout for unpleasant conditions. She will not accost offenders immediately, but will have a watchful eye on them, and when she can she will gently suggest more conventional manners. She will also have an eye on the mothers with babies, and suggest to them that there is a large retiring room where there are free berths in which they can lay the children, instead of making beds of every chair.

The boats of this line run to Bridgeport, New Haven, and up the Hudson, and it has been suggested that they do not rent staterooms on the trip up the river, but only on returning, and not to the younger travelers.

Another transportation company which rented two boats running to Bridgeport and up the Hudson from the Long Island Railroad Company last year, Mrs. Israels said yesterday, had not been allowed to renew the lease this year because they freely allowed immoral conditions.

Evening dancing, which has been inaugurated in the open court of School 63, on Fourth Street, Mrs. Israels says, has been a great success, 5 cents admission being charged.

"It proves that there is no reason other than prejudice for not allowing the young people to dance on the piers," she said. "There is a splendid recreation pier in Cleveland where dancing has proved a great success. Three cents is paid for every dance, the place is crowded, and paid for itself the first night. We have no allowance for music here, but a small entrance fee would pay all expenses. We have shown on Fourth Street that it is practical and that there are no objectionable features."

ADMIRAL REEDER'S ESTATE

Valued at $222,519 and Divided Among His Children.

Rear Admiral William H. Reeder, retired, who died Jan. 24, 1911, left an estate valued at $222,519.70, all in personalty. The report of the appraisal was filed yesterday in the Transfer Tax Office of the Surrogates' Court. By the terms of the will the estate is divided among his children. His largest securities were bonds of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, worth $55,500. He held some valuable mortgages and notes.

Admiral Reeder's daughter, Mrs. Elinor Reeder Blandy of Funchal, Madeira, receives $40,692; his son, George Reeder of Muscatine, Iowa, receives $10,000, and another daughter, who lives at Funchal, $70,320. Sarah Cook Reeder, his wife, was left nothing, because, the testator said, she had been provided for.

MRS. DODD GETS DIVORCE.

Final Decree Signed by Justice Page, Who Orders Papers Sealed.

Mrs. Adele Sturges Dodd obtained her final decree of divorce yesterday from her husband, Frank B. Dodd, Secretary of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company. The order was signed by Justice Page of the Supreme Court.

In her suit Mrs. Dodd named Miss Genevieve Cary of 138 West Sixteenth Street as co-respondent. The suit was heard before a referee, and Justice Page ordered the papers filed sealed in the County Clerk's office.

Leaves $30,000 for Siam Missions.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 8.—The will of Mrs. Helen Chandler, who was 92 years old when she died last week at this place, was offered for probate here to-day. It gives $30,000 of her $35,000 estate to the Baptist Missionary Union of Boston for the purpose of carrying on missionary work in Siam, where Mrs. Chandler and her husband labored for fifty years. A bequest of $3,000 is given to Bucknell University for training missionaries.

Divorce for Mrs. George Munroe.

Supreme Court Justice Bischoff signed the final order of divorce yesterday in the suit brought by Mrs. Anna R. Munroe against George W. Munroe, the actor. By the decree it was ordered that Virginia Bell Munroe, the 9-year-old daughter, should be placed in the permanent custody of her mother. Mrs. Munroe will receive $42 monthly alimony during her husband's life.

MRS. BROKAW MAKES NEW DIVORCE MOVE

Unable to Serve Papers on Husband, She Gets Court Order for Publication.

SUMMONS FLUNG FROM TAXI

Process Server Tells Judge of His Vain Chase After Brokaw—Constable Unsuccessful, Too.

Mrs. Mary Blair Brokaw, who obtained a separation from William Gould Brokaw in 1910, and who started suit last May for divorce, has taken steps to bring her suit to trial by obtaining from Supreme Court Justice Van Siclen of Brooklyn an order permitting service of the complaint in the divorce action to be made on Brokaw by publication. Justice Van Siclen granted the order yesterday and the summons will be published in The Roslyn News and The Mineola Sun once a week for six weeks.

Since the suit was instituted last May efforts have been made to serve Mr. Brokaw with papers in the case, and the affidavits of two men who failed to serve Mr. Brokaw formed part of the record on which Justice Van Siclen was asked to grant his order.

Howard A. Fleickiger, a process server, tried in various ways to reach Mr. Brokaw, and once tossed a copy of the summons and complaint in Mrs. Brokaw's action into a taxicab in which he was certain Mr. Brokaw was riding. Whoever the occupant was he tossed the papers out again, and repeated the action when Fleickiger thrust them through the window a second time and shouted out an explanation of what they contained.

This was on May 16 after Fleickiger had followed to the home of Mrs. W. Bramhall Gilbert, 40 West Fifty-seventh Street, a sister of Mr. Brokaw, a man who resembled Mr. Brokaw closely. A butler assured Fleickiger that the man he had followed was not Mr. Brokaw, but a "Mr. Clifford." Fleickiger waited nevertheless until evening, when the same man came out and entered a taxicab. So sure was Fleickiger that the man was Brokaw that he tossed his papers into the cab.

Afterward Fleickiger tried to locate Mr. Brokaw at the New York Athletic Club, at Sherry's, the Hotel Manhattan, and other haunts of his in Manhattan, and John F. Bukler, constable of the town of North Hempstead, tried to serve Mr. Brokaw at his Great Neck home and at the Meadow Brook Hunt Club and other places on Long Island. He, too, failed.

Mr. Brokaw has twenty days to answer after the final publication of the summons and complaint. In this action Mrs. Brokaw names three women as co-respondents, and gives the time and place, mentioning specifically July 10 and 13, 1908; also April 6 and 15 aboard the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II., and in the month of September, 1908, in a hotel in Stamford, Conn.

The Brokaws were married on Sept. 16, 1907, at Chittenango, N. Y., the home of the bride's parents. The decree of separation was won by Mrs. Brokaw on April 11, 1910, and since then Mrs. Brokaw has been living in the home of her father. Mr. Brokaw was ordered to pay her $15,000 a year.

Mrs. Mary Blair Brokaw is Brokaw's second wife. He is some twenty years her senior. His first wife was Coralie Edmunds Coudert, daughter of Frederic Coudert, who divorced Brokaw in Rhode Island in 1898 on the grounds of cruelty and non-support. Brokaw acquired considerable notoriety when Katherine Poillon sued him for $250,000 for breach of promise in 1903. The suit was settled out of court.

CRITICISES UNUSED BRIDGE.

Justice Van Siclen Blames City for Delay in Manhattan Span Cars.

Justice Van Siclen of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, severely criticised yesterday the municipal authorities for their neglect in not allowing cars to be operated across the Manhattan Bridge. The matter was before him on a motion to continue an injunction obtained in a taxpayer's suit restraining the Bridge Commissioner from granting a temporary permit for the use of the railroad tracks on the bridge to certain of the traction companies.

The action was brought by Fred L. Gross, as a taxpayer, but it was understood that he acted in the interetsts of the Manhattan Bridge Three-Cent Fare Line, a new corporation, which has been fighting several of the older railroad companies for the operating rights on the bridge. Almet Reed Latson, counsel for the Three-Cent Fare Line, appeared for Mr. Gross, while Assistant Corporation Counsel Budd argued against the motion.

Mr. Latson said that the motion was to test the right of the Bridge Commissioner and the Board of Estimate to grant the temporary permit. He said that it was illegal to grant the permit, as it was a nullity in law.

Lieut. W. J. Clark a Police Captain.

Police Commissioner Waldo announced yesterday that he had appointed Lieut. William J. Clark a Captain, and assigned him to the Charles Street Station. Capt. Martense, who has been in charge of this station, goes to the East Eighty-eighth Street Station, taking the place of Capt. Handy, who retired a few days ago. Capt. Clark has been a Lieutenant in the West 152d Street Station. He was appointed to the force Aug. 24, 1886, was made a Lieutenant in 1907. He is 48 years old, and lives at 522 West 157th Street.

SETTLE L. L. SMITH'S WILL.

Realty Worth Millions to be Sold, but Court Allows Time.

By an opinion handed down yesterday in the Supreme Court, the will of Loyal L. Smith, the mining and railroad man, who died in 1908, leaving an estate of several millions dollars, was judicially decided. A great portion of Mr. Smith's estate was in realty, and he directed his executors by his will to sell it within five years, and at such prices as seemed right to them. In a former action, brought to determine the sense of this instruction, it was decided that the power to sell the realty was mandatory and necessitated the conversion into personalty within five years of the entire estate. It was further ruled that the Supreme Court should be consulted before any summary action was taken by the executors. The five years mentioned in the will elapse in February, 1913, but by the decision of Justice Lehman yesterday the executors will be allowed additional time in which to dispose of the estate.

"I think," said Justice Lehman, "that under the circumstances the executors have the right to ask the advice of the court, and the court, if convinced that a sale at present would waste the estate, may authorize the executors to refrain from selling for a reasonable time and until they are able to obtain a certain price. In giving such directions, the court should, of course, give due weight to the instructions of the will, but should not order literal compliance when it is evident that all the parties would be injured thereby."

Justice Lehman set a temporary period of two years for the conversion of the Smith realty.

ANCIENT CHURCH AFIRE.

West Farms Presbyterians Lose Structure Built in 1815.

The old West Farms Presbyterian Church, which sat in a big churchyard on a hill in 180th Street, between Vyse and Bryant Avenues, the Bronx, and which was built in 1815, was so badly damaged by fire last night that it is believed the old structure cannot be repaired.

The flames crept up the tall square tower so that it looked like a big torch and attracted crowds from all over the Bronx. It is believed that small boys set the church afire.

The church was used for regular services until six years ago, when the Beck Memorial Church was built across the street in memory of Charles Bathgate Beck, and the congregation moved there. Then the old building was let to the colored Baptists for three years, and for the last three years it had been used as headquarters for the Young Men's Club of the church and by the Boy Scout organization.

ARREST SLOW TAXPAYERS.

Hawthorne, N. J., Puts an Old Law Into Action.

The Commissioners of Hawthorne Borough, N. J., adopted the harshest possible statutory measures yesterday to collect funds for public works. A list of delinquent taxpayers was made out and warrants of commitment under an old New Jersey law were prepared. These were turned over to Police Chief Richard Keefe. The Commissioners instructed Chief Keefe to get the back taxes or arrest the delinquents.

The first victim of the new order was George Forrester of Park Avenue, who was in arrears for $8.39 for two years. Forrester had received notice that he would be arrested unless he paid, but had treated the matter as a joke. As soon as news of Forrester's arrest became general there was a race of delinquent taxpayers to the Collector's office. Forrester was taken to the Paterson jail.

The Commissioners are said to be piqued at the lack of funds for transacting borough business, owing to the refusal of the taxpayers to vote money for them to spend.

FLYNN FOR SERVICE CHIEF.

Ex-Deputy Police Commissioner May Get Wilkie's Post in Secret Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—William J. Flynn, in charge of the New York Division of the Secret Service, will probably be appointed Chief of the Service, if Secretary MacVeagh decides to fill at this time the vacancy, caused by the appointment of John E. Wilkie, two years ago, as supervising special agent of the Customs Service.

Mr. Wilkie has been overseeing the Secret Service work in conjunction with his present duties. While Mr. MacVeagh has regarded this as an ideal arrangement without consolidating the two services, to-day he took up the question of filling Chief Wilkie's place.

Congress recently decreased the salary to $3,600. The Secretary will ask that it be restored to $4,000 in anticipation of filling the position. Mr. Flynn was Deputy Police Commissioner of New York City.

$700,000 FOR A CHURCH.

The will of William Patterson Young of Newark, N. J., who died suddenly at Atlantic City on July 27, was filed there yesterday by Edward S. Leary, who was Mr. Young's counsel. The executor is the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark. Mr. Young was a bachelor. The bulk of his estate goes to found an Episcopal church.

The will provides that all his jewelry be melted into bullion, so that its identity shall be forever destroyed. Provision is made for burial in a sealed vault, the location of which is set forth.

To Stanley M. Walker, a cousin, $600 a year for life is provided; to Cornelia B. Patterson, another cousin, $300 a year; to three former servants, $100 each, and $500 each to St. Barnabas's Hospital, St. Michael's Hospital, the Newark Eye and Ear Infirmary, the Home for Crippled Children, the Free Public Library, and the Historical Society.

The residue is left to the Episcopal Diocese of Northern New Jersey for the erection of a church building at the corner of Second Avenue and Parker Street, Newark, as a memorial to the mother of the testator.

The estate is worth about $700,000.

ANOTHER ODD HOSPITAL FIRE

Burning Coat Again Starts Blaze in Post-Graduate Building.

A fire starting under circumstances like that of a blaze three months ago occurred yesterday morning in a small room in the rear of Amphitheatre B on the ground floor of the old building of the Post Graduate Hospital, Twentieth Street and Second Avenue. The hospital staff fell to work to extinguish it under the lead of Dr. Summersgill, the General Superintendent, who swung an axe and cleared out some of the burning woodwork.

In the Spring a fire started in a room on the ground floor from a coat hanging against a wall. Some one had left matches or a lighted pipe in this coat, which finally took fire, the latter extending to the woodwork and the rest of the room. A class of students attending a lecture in a near-by hall put out the fire. The blaze that was discovered yesterday morning occurred in the same way. Several doctors said it looked as if some one in the building was making mischief for them. There were no patients on the ground floor of the building.
